In the Park

ELEANOR DEAR:

I am here with a few ideas for dresses for the little ones, as you hoped in your last letter. I walked through the park the other day and was particularly fortunate to strike the hour in which the younger lights were shining. Let me describe three dresses for the benefit of your maternal eye.

Two little girls were playing in the park under the care of a big sister. The young lady was dressed in blue "tissue sponge," or light-weight Turkish cloth so much in vogue. The skirt had a modified deep hem, and the jacket was about the jauntiest thing for a young woman that I have seen. It was a cutaway with a high line at the waist. The sleeves were inset and had long white cuffs. Piping was used to define the lines of decoration. This is very good style, my dear; in fact, two and three rows of piping are being used on many models. Crystal buttons added the touch of glass, so much used.

A little golden-haired fairy had a white linen dress, over which was a tunic of black-and-red plaid gingham. This buttoned at the side like a Russian blouse and was belted in under black. Think how easily a set of these gingham tunics could be made to wear with either white linen or light-weight serges.

In buff pongee stood another child, with the dearest little frock trimmed with linen tabs. One long one formed a panel on the front of the bodice; the short skirt had two tabs placed horizontally and pointing toward the center in front and back. Red enamel buttons and buff soutache braid trimmed the ends of the tabs. A black bow was placed at the neck, and a white pique collar hemstitched around in a plain line. Red ribbon tied the black hair up in the truly American fashion that I shall never cease to admire.

Oh! the joy of making little frocks for little girls! With cleverness, any woman ought to have a sane, comfortable outfit for the summer. Remnants are too plentiful, styles too attractive and suggestions too many for a mother to plead lack of opportunity. Keep these ideas, sister mine, for future reference.

Your devoted sister,

MADGE

HOME RULE ON WELL-OILED WHEELS

Government Handles Measure With Expedition That Pleases Ireland.

Liberals Weak in the Point of Numbers, But Have Many Strong Men.

(By AUSTIN F. MAGUIRE.)
DUBLIN, May 11.—The expedition which the government is sending the home rule bill through the House of Commons is gratifying proof that the ministry means business and that stage after stage of the bill's progress must be attained with all the celerity it is possible to have under the rules of parliamentary procedure.

Premier Asquith is determined to have the bill sent up to the House of Lords without loss of time so that the butchery or rejection may be over as quickly as the House of Lords can get down to work.

It is a foregone conclusion that the bill will be in the hands of its enemies the moment it reaches the chamber of peers. The generalship of the Liberal leaders that will lie in their forcing prompt action on the measure and preventing any shelving of the bill for the mere purpose of gaining time.

LIBERALS ARE DECLARED WEAK.

The Liberals are hopelessly weak in point of numbers in the House of Lords, but in their small group they have many strong men. For instance, Lord Mosley and Lord Haldane, and they will keep things moving unless the tory majority resorts to a brazen policy of sheer obstruction.

This will be a dangerous game for all to play. But then it should be borne in mind that British Toryism is in desperate straits just now.

When the bill comes back from the Lords, the Prime Minister will allow no grace to grow in the popular house. Without delay, the measure will be reintroduced, be passed again by the elective house, and then again be sent up to the Lords.

This will be the final sacrifice. With their second rejection the Lords shall exhaust their rights of obstruction. Thereafter the Home Rule bill will be dealt with only by the House of Commons and the King.

MONEY FEATURE SATISFACTORY.

The most interesting feature of the measure is to be found in its monetary sections. For instance, in the outline of financial provisions, it is shown that the total Irish revenue for the current fiscal year is $5,135,000. The expenditure is estimated at $61,770,000, leaving a deficit of $7,635,000.

This deficit will, of course, be met out of the ordinary revenue of the Irish parliament. The deficit service list of Ireland is one shilling a year extra. Almost the entire deficit can be wiped out by an Irish secretary of the treasury, or chancellor of the exchequer, who knows the country and can tell when needful expenditure ends and where extravagance begins.

In fact, government expenditure is already figured that the Irish revenue in the very first budget presented to the British Parliament, will figure a total of $87,810,000, while the expenditure will stand at $18,810,000, leaving a surplus of $69,000,000.

AS RESOURCES STRENGTHENED.

As time goes on those figures will undergo change. And before twenty years are at an end, after the passage of Home Rule, Ireland's resources will have been strengthened a great process of strengthening and increase.

It is estimated that old age pensions, which now stand at $12,320,000 per annum, shall be met within twenty years of fully one million dollars.

And of course, there is a time limit to the burden of land purchase. Sixty years from now, at the farthest, that will be all wiped out. And then Ireland's resources—save for the contribution to the Imperial fund—will turn towards herself.

COMMERCE CAPABLE OF GROWTH.

Ireland's commerce is capable of enormous development. Once capital takes courage and begins to flow freely through the arteries of her commercial system—this will be immediately after home rule is established—the figures of the national exchequer will mount upwards by leaps and bounds.

No country in Europe has finer harbors or rivers, so that all the natural requirements for commercial developments are easily within her grasp.

Leaving out of calculation any increase of her manufactures, and looking only at her natural resources, it is confidently predicted that if things go right politically and the country is given a chance to settle down, the value of the daily produce trade and of the deep sea fisheries will be doubled within ten years.

BIRDMAN TAKEN FOR A BIRD AND SHOT AT

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

PARIS, May 11.—A military aviator, General Gilbert, had an exciting experience yesterday while flying over Le Puy. The curious thing about the experience was that although the aviator was in danger he knew nothing of it until he was shot.

General Gilbert was flying low over some fields, when a farmer, taking him for a machine for a big bird, ran for his gun, which was hanging on the branch of a tree, and fired three times at the aviator.

The farmer had mistaken the aviator for a species of eagle, about which there is a superstition in that part of the country. It ruins the crops if it is seen to fly in Holy Week and is not shot.

General Gilbert, who had heard the shot and seen the smoke, thought a salvo was being fired in his honor, and dropped a handful of pamphlets asking for subscriptions for army aeroplanes.

The old farmer was convinced that General Gilbert had not hit the bird he shot. Some farmers from the town.

AMERICANS TO BE FETTERED.
LONDON, May 11.—Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien will spend several weeks with their daughter, the Countess of Glendower, at her home in the Cotswolds. They are expected during their visit by all the members of the aristocracy.

PHOTOGRAPHED IN LANDS ACROSS THE ATLANTIC

PAVLOVA, THE FAMOUS RUSSIAN DANCER.

LORD AND LADY STAFFORD AND BRIDAL PARTY.

ABOUT THOSE WHO ARE SHOWN HERE

Lord Stafford and his bride are seen in the center of the group, and around them are the fourteen bridesmaids, who looked charming in pink dresses and blue coats. The bride was given away by her father and Lord Stafford was supported by his brother, Lord Alister Lovell-Gower. The reception was held at Grosvenor House, London, which was lent by the Duchess of Westminster for the occasion.

Lord Duncannon and his fiancée, Mlle. De Neufville, whose recent engagement has aroused such interest. Lord Duncannon is the eldest son of Lord Duncannon, is very popular, and a strenuous tariff reformer. His fiancée is a charming girl who comes of an old French Huguenot family.

Pavlova, the incomparable Russian dancer, has returned to the Palace theater in London, the scene of her first English triumphs, after her long and successful tour of the provinces. She brings with her M. Novikoff, who is her partner in her dance; M. Siler, her musical director, and a company of eighteen dancers from the Imperial Opera house, St. Petersburg.

The unpopularity of the insurance bill in the country, the result of the South Manchester election, and greatest of all the recent terrible labor troubles we have been through, which many consider to have been "quicker" by "time-honored" speeches, are said to have rather diminished the confidence reposed in Chancellor Lord George by the Liberal party. And over the miners' bill his reputed support of the miners' side of the question and the inclusion of the "five and two" was certainly decried by the Premier and the safer section in the cabinet. Not even the budget and its accumulated millions appear to have restored the chancellor's popularity.

TEA IN A COOL CELLAR IS LATEST

Cellar Is Scene of Unique Entertainment by Popular London Actor.

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

LONDON, May 11.—Mr. Raymond Laurence, whose performance as the French hero of "Fanny's First Play," has won the admiration of London playgoers, gave a pleasant surprise yesterday to his friends in the form of a tea party in a distinctly novel surroundings. Mr. Laurence had invited his guests to come and have tea with him "in a cellar" at 23 Duke Street, St. James.

If the words of the visitors were heeded before their arrival, it was certainly heightened when they commenced to explore this original rendezvous. Much ingenuity had been displayed by the owner of the cellar, Miss Reid, in converting it into an extremely artistic nook. The impression on descending was one of a room of roses with ramblers and ivy climbing over white lattice, and a flower box of the floor was right carpeted.

LONDON CASTS HOPELESS GLANCES AT STOCKHOLM

By PHILIP EVERETT.
LONDON, May 11.—London is looking forward to the coming Olympic games at Stockholm with brave pessimism, for everyone knows that the picked English athletes, who are to represent John Bull, are almost sure to return without any laurels.

One of the most prominent members of the London Athletic Club, S. Abrahamson, said the other day:

"The country which will sweep everything before her at Stockholm is America."

It was inevitable that under such conditions M. Laurence's party would prove a success. Among the guests to be seen in the various compartments of the cellar were:

Miss Lillah McCarthy, Granville Barker, Guy Standing, Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey Tearle, the Marchioness Townshend, Miss Evelyn Millard, Miss Iris Hoer, Max Leeds, Miss Christine Silver, Mrs. Desmond Deane, Miss Dorothy Minto, Mrs. Edmund Diller, Mr. Martinau, Captain and Mrs. Moss, Miss Vera Barton, Miss Sarah Brooks, Miss Marie Lohr and Graham Brown.

more boast built to conceal our deficiencies, but a stout fact confirmed by such masters of athletics as the American experts themselves.

"In Alce Nelson we have a splendid coach, but a coach cannot do miracles. It seems to have been thought in many circles that there is something magical in the very words 'coach' and 'trainer' that it was only necessary to appoint one of the very numerous and perfectly competent professional experts with which the country was, of course, swarming, to recover the lost supremacy."

"Not only has she high men, but she shows the highest standard of excellence, and where the average is high, the best man will be a champion. At London we saw the Americans signalize every event. In the hurdles they provided all the finalists. In both the 100 metres and 200 metres two finalists, and in the 400 metres three."

"As for ourselves, we can only hope for the best and be prepared for the worst. Entries for the Olympic of 1912 as competitors and spectators for 1916 are vying. The suggestion that 'we can then win'—that we can beat the world in 1912—given the will and the opportunity is at best a hope, an excellent and progressive

CLEAR MYSTERY OF HITHERTO STRANGE PEOPLE

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

BERLIN, May 11.—Dr. von Oppenheim, in charge of the German expedition to Central Mesopotamia, has sent home fascinating reports of his work at Tel Hahaf, one of the capitals of the ancient Hittites. It is believed by archaeologists that his reports will throw a flood of light on the somewhat hazy civilization of this ancient people who flourished in B. C. 1400.

The chief work of Dr. von Oppenheim lately has been the excavation around the Royal Palace. This building he has succeeded in tracing fully, and over 170 stone carvings, some of them of gigantic size and most vivid in execution, have been laid bare. One of the figures is a sort of Hittite Hercules, a man clad in lion's skin and armed with a club; another is an allegorical picture of great interest showing a bearded man being subdued by two youths and fettered. It is believed to be symbolic of spring conquering winter.

Two gigantic winged beasts in basalt have been discovered which are believed to have stood one at each side of the entrance to the palace. All the sculptures are reported to be in an excellent state of preservation.

MRS. FRANK MACKAY ILL.

LONDON, May 11.—Every one is sorry to hear of the serious illness of Mrs. Frank Mackay. Nearly every winter she has taken a hunting box in Leicestershire and is a plucky and popular rider to the hounds.

COUGHT TO COME HERE.
But let him be sent to America for a time. A. C. athletes knew him when he was attached to Stanford University. But it would be an injustice to expect such results from him as can be shown by Mike Murphy in America and Hjertberg in Sweden.

It is to be feared we are flooded by numbers, and world-beaters are scattered everywhere. Italy had Luggi; France had Houlain and Finlay; Germany had van der Grinten, one of the best long-distance men; Germany possessed in Braun the likely winner of the 300 metres and in Passmann the finest all-round jumper in the world; Japan may very easily give us a Marathon winner.

Certain leaders of the suffrage movement are planning to visit London on the fact that their views are gaining ground in very excited quarters. The Princess Louise, Duchess of Argyll, has long been known as one of their supporters, and she has now won the Queen over to her side, though, of course, Queen Mary can give no open sign of her sympathy in a question of politics. But in private she does not hesitate to express decided views on the subject. The latest royal accession to the ranks is seen in the person of the Duchess of Teck, who, however, is not prepared to adopt the more extreme positions. All this has vastly encouraged the militants; but happily there is no chance that royalty will take to window smashing.

Superstitious people will be convinced that if the Schutte airship has not broken its hibernation on the thirteenth of last month and aggravated its offense against the evil laws of number by making its first ascent of the year with thirteen persons in its crew, it would have escaped the exciting and perilous adventures which befell it the other day. The huge aerial craft, which is 450 feet in length, left its hangar at the Lanz engineering works at Heilmann, to the south of Mannheim, shortly before noon, and for some time maneuvered successfully at an altitude of about a thousand feet. Half an hour later, as it was returning from the eastward to its home, the spectators who were watching its evolutions were horrified to see it descend rapidly to earth with a steep slant.

Luckily it fell on a meadow, but the force of the impact was so great that several persons in the front car were thrown out. Professor Schutte of Danzig, designer of the airship, turned a somersault as he described an extensive curve through space, but escaped with nothing worse than a severe shaking. One of the engineers was, however, seriously injured and was carried to a hospital unconscious.

GERMAN DUEL AROUSES COURT

Failure of Official "to Procure Adequate Satisfaction" Is Scored.

Schutte Airship Defies "13," and Disaster Is the Result.

(By FREDERICK WERNER.)

BERLIN, May 11.—Public opinion here is much occupied with a duelling problem, the full details of which have just come to light, though they are not of very recent date. The little Wittenberg town of Mergentheim boasts a volunteer ambulance corps, which took into its head to change its leader, electing a Dr. Sambeth to that position. His predecessor in office, Dr. Schumme, was much annoyed by the loss of the post, and wrote to Dr. Sambeth, asserting that the latter owed his success to an intrigue of a "shameless and dishonorable" character. Before the civil courts Dr. Sambeth was able to prove that his conduct in the affair had been blameless, and his libel was fined $25.

"HONOR" AT STAKE.

If the parties to the squabble had been ordinary mortals there the matter would have ended. But they were both members of the Army Medical Reserve, and so subject to those military rules of "honor" which even the sovereign power of Schopenhauer was unable to destroy. Dr. Sambeth was accordingly cited before a "Court of Honor" to show why he had not challenged Dr. Schumme to a duel, which it appeared in the course of the inquiry the latter was anxious to bring about. The wronged man explained that he had refrained from seeking the reparation of arms, out of consideration for the "Divine command, human law, the dictates of reason and the welfare of his family." These objections, however, had no weight with his judges, who found him "guilty of an offense against the honor of his station, because he had omitted to procure adequate satisfaction, conformable with his position, for the serious insult put upon him in a quarrel with a professional colleague." It was further adjudged that he should be punished by the humiliation of "simple discharge" from his military rank.

This judgment was submitted for confirmation to the Emperor, who in his decision contains the following passage: "A rejection of duelling in principle, on the grounds of religious conviction cannot be made the subject of a judgment of a court of honor, though an Army Medical officer who in this respect opposes the fundamental views of his colleagues cannot be allowed to remain any longer in his position in the service. In consideration, however, of the fact that, according to the investigations which have been made, Dr. Sambeth has no well-founded cause for the insult offered to him, I will, as a matter of grace, allow that he at once apply for his discharge."

DR. SAMBETH BANISHED.

In other words, the doctor must leave the service, if without the stigma which "simple discharge" would have stamped him. Both the Catholic and Protestant press treat this case as yet one more convincing demonstration of the total absurdity of duelling. Dr. Schumme, they say, utters a gross and baseless libel, and refuses either to withdraw it or to apologize, but his honor is unassailable, and he remains an officer of the Medical Service. On the other hand, Dr. Sambeth, because in his obedience to the laws of God and of his country, he refuses to seek his affronted blood, is driven from the service.

Duelling is one of those survivals which in Germany would perish at once with the arrival of a democratic regime. It is an affectation of a military caste and of those who ape its manners and customs. One of the standing difficulties of the V. A. Ministers is the reluctance to explain why duelling is enforced by the highest organs for the execution of the same law which forbids it. In the present chamber there would be an overwhelming majority in favor of the effective prohibition of this relic of the primitive device of trial by combat.

Somewhat analogous to the case of Dr. Sambeth is that of Professor Czorny, a great authority on cancer, and one of the most eminent doctors in Germany, who was lately compelled to retire from the Army Medical Reserve because he had given expression to pronounced real views in connection with the recent general election.

WIRELESS STATION PLANS APPROVED

HONOLULU, H. I., May 11.—The Hawaiian Wireless Company has called the local agency approving plans that were submitted some time ago for the construction of a wireless station at Oahu. The new station will be used for relaying trans-Pacific messages and will be in operation January, 1912.

"There is a pleasure in the pathless woods;
There is a rapture on the lonely shore;
There is a society where none intrudes;
By the deep sea, and music in its roar;
I love not man the less, but Nature more,
From these our interviews, in which I steal
From all I may be, or have been before,
To mingle with the Universe, and feel
What I can see or express, yet cannot all com-

EGBERT STONES TO TRY CAMP LIFE AGAIN.

The Egbert Stones tried camp life at "Eagle's Nest" last summer so successfully that they are going there again this summer. The young girls of the household arrange for many week-end parties and the camp echoes with the sound of young voices and is bright with the happiness and enthusiasm of young life.

There is the Sierra Club, which each year tests the mettle of the California maid—for many girls have won records in the most arduous feats of mountain-climbing. They have traveled over Yosemite trails and have explored the mysteries of the Kings River country and of the great Tuolumne fastnesses. Year by year the Sierras are yielding up their mysteries to the courageous and sure-footed California girl, who reflects in her vivid personality sometimes heavy on the land. The old gypsy spirit of the Romany Rye is interwoven in the atmosphere, and one could wander away at will, answering to the insistent call.

California is known as the land of camping, a perfectly feasible way of spending one's vacation in this land of little rain. And in the West camping has been brought to a fine art in the Yosemite, in Yellowstone Park and in Catalina.

Of course, there are all sorts of camps, and memory goes back to the discomforts of the camps of the old days, when one shared one's daily food with the birds and insects, and where outdoor life was enjoyed against a dusty environment. But we have changed all that. Even the outdoor picnic is a joy now that the automobile is with us, with its accompanying thermos bottle. We have eliminated the deadly pickle and the frightful concoction we used to call cake, dire in its results, and our simple refreshments are wholesome and enjoyable. And, besides, we are developing the wayside inns, so charming in the older countries, and outdoor life is full of charm, whether we plan to spend many weeks or only a few hours of a passing day.

One of the most picturesque camps ever established in Oakland was that of Paul and Seyd Havens in the lovely canyon near Wildwood. The camp was equipped with many luxuries, in the way of rugs and easy chairs, and around the camp-fire many of their friends enjoyed hours of enjoyment, remembered with pleasure when the summer had flown.

The J. Walter Scotts have long pointed the way in establishing a delightful camp life. "Eagle's Nest" is on the Russian river, and there the tents are "pitched" early in the season and preparations are made for a two-months' stay, under ideal conditions. There is bathing in the river, boating thereon, also, and the camp is gay with Japanese lanterns, and swinging hammocks in shady depths send out an irresistible appeal.

The William Colbys are usually at the head of Sierra Club affairs. Mrs. Colby was formerly Miss Rachel Vrooman, and one hears that distinguished men and women from all over the country now come to California to join the Sierra Club in its annual outing.

A number of prominent families are planning this summer a camping vacation of three months, and in the company will be: Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Walker, Mr. and Mrs. R. Augustus Bray, General and Mrs. Oscar Long, and the Misses Amy and Sally Long, Mr. and Mrs. Granville Abbott and their children. The Clinton Walkers have extensive lumber interests in Lassen county, and the camp is to be established in the heart of the great forest there. In all the leading country homes there are most comfortable camps, fitted up for guests who prefer outdoor life. They join the family at mealtime, and in this way many more guests may be entertained in summer house parties.

For, of course, the glory of country life lies in the fact that you may share it with your friends. Of course, automobile trips are a sort of luxurious way of camping out, but you cannot blaze many trails in safety by way of an automobile. The glory of an explorer is not to be yours. To drive over mountain roads, into the far fastnesses, wherein are virgin forests, is not for the automobile. So to be without the latter still has its compensations.

The world has rolled a long way down the roads of science, of literature, or art; but there are times when it does not seem to have rolled at all. We are still brothers to the good old Syrian shepherds who watched their flocks by night, and whose roof tree was the great canopy studded with shining stars.

"WILL-O'-THE-WISE" IN THE DOORWAY.

And so it is that the will-o'-the-wisp that we call "summer vacation" stands in the doorway and beckons us away. And we turn our backs on the tasks that make up life's daily round and follow where she leads. She points to many places for us—to the Yellowstone, which we have a way of comparing to our Yosemite, and the Canadian Rockies, in which is famous Lake Louise, which we also compare with our own Sierras and Lake Tahoe.

And Europe, with its old civilizations, sends out the ever-insistent call to the traveling American, and especially to the Californian, and many well-known families are planning to spend the entire summer abroad.

It is immensely amusing the way the English people are planning this season to capture a share of the good American money which is lavished each year upon Europe. We spend sixty millions over there each season, and England is trying this year to get her due share of the tribute—"to get into the game," as our English cousins politely express it. It is always wise to see ourselves as others see us, and while we are directly related to the English, when we go touring we like to be amused. The English Sunday had been suggested as one reason why Americans like to spend the day on the continent, and one well-known paper suggests a change in English methods:

MANY CALIFORNIANS ARE GOING ABROAD.

Nevertheless, a larger percentage than usual of Californians are going abroad this season, and they are planning to spend a much longer time on the continent.

Mrs. Charles Clark left on Saturday for Europe, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Clement Tobin. They joined in New York Mr. and Mrs. Eugene de Sabla and the Misses Vera and Leontine de Sabla, and the entire party is to sail immediately for Europe.

The De Sablas are planning to travel leisurely on the continent and in their itinerary they will include a motor trip through the chateau country of France.

Mrs. Clark will go directly to London to visit her sister, talented Miss Agnes Tobin, who makes her home there. She is another Californian who, in the world of letters, has truly "arrived."

She has the Celtic genius which is the inheritance of but few, and which is truly a God-given gift. Miss Agnes Tobin's literary work is of rare and exquisite beauty. She first aroused general interest by her translation of Petrarch's sonnets, each one of which was a beautiful gem "of purest ray serene."

"Love's Crucifix" is one of the most deeply interesting of the many poems of recent years. Miss Tobin makes her special appeal to the most cultured among the reading public of England and America, and no writer in our own country takes higher rank than this modest, unassuming young woman, who writes so exquisitely and in whose work is reflected all of which are open until late, and make purchases. No one is shocked because they are walking instead of riding in cabs, and the shop assistant, who gets a share of the turnover, does not think of complaining.

It might be remarked in passing that August is the very worst month in the year for Americans in London. Every town that is interesting is filled with English holiday-makers, and the prices are accordingly high.

MANY CALIFORNIANS ARE GOING ABROAD.

Nevertheless, a larger percentage than usual of Californians are going abroad this season, and they are planning to spend a much longer time on the continent.

Mrs. Charles Clark left on Saturday for Europe, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Clement Tobin. They joined in New York Mr. and Mrs. Eugene de Sabla and the Misses Vera and Leontine de Sabla, and the entire party is to sail immediately for Europe.

The De Sablas are planning to travel leisurely on the continent and in their itinerary they will include a motor trip through the chateau country of France.

Mrs. Clark will go directly to London to visit her sister, talented Miss Agnes Tobin, who makes her home there. She is another Californian who, in the world of letters, has truly "arrived."

She has the Celtic genius which is the inheritance of but few, and which is truly a God-given gift. Miss Agnes Tobin's literary work is of rare and exquisite beauty. She first aroused general interest by her translation of Petrarch's sonnets, each one of which was a beautiful gem "of purest ray serene."

"Love's Crucifix" is one of the most deeply interesting of the many poems of recent years. Miss Tobin makes her special appeal to the most cultured among the reading public of England and America, and no writer in our own country takes higher rank than this modest, unassuming young woman, who writes so exquisitely and in whose work is reflected so much that is from the heart, and in whose efforts shine the glow of the spiritual—that soul light that is the test of genius.

Miss Agnes Tobin is a great favorite in both literary and social London. She knows many distinguished people in that great city and is a favorite in its smart set. Her most intimate friend is Mrs. Meynell, a charming, clever and well-known writer. Miss Tobin is very fond of London and spends a great deal of time there, though she is a very loyal American, and a California woman of whom many of us are very proud.

WILLIAM BOURNS TO VISIT IRELAND.

This summer Mr. and Mrs. William Bourn will be off for the land of the shamrock, for they are to visit their daughter and son-in-law, the Arthur Rose Vincents, who last year purchased Muckross Abbey, a charming Irish estate. It is not far from that beautiful Lake Killarney, of romantic interest in song and story, and is a fine old place with a history. The Bourns will be away all summer, and they are anticipating pleasant vacation days in the far-off green isle of Erin.

WHITELAW REIDS RISE IN FAVOR.

The Whitelaw Reids have steadily risen in American favor ever since they went to represent our country at the court of St. James. They have been so consistent, so typically American, so helpful to their countrymen, that the latter have a respect for them not often accorded to our foreign representatives.

Ambassador Reid presented to King George last week the Panama-Pacific commission, of which John Hays Hammond is president. The presentation was made in Buckingham Palace, and one reads of it:

"The king inquired as to the plans of the exposition to be held in San Francisco in 1915, and scanned with interest the etchings and plans of the buildings presented to him by the commission.

"His majesty expressed the opinion that the California spirit, which rebuilt San Francisco after the great fire and earthquake of April, 1906, was sure to make the exposition a success."

"The king chatted cordially with each member of the commission, which, besides Mr. Hammond, includes R. B. Hale, vice-president of the exposition; Brigadier-General Clarence R. Edwards, William Season, Theodore Hardee, Charles F. Wilson and Archibald C. Emery."

"Afterward the commissioners were the guests of the Earl of Granard at luncheon."

The Earl of Granard married Miss Beatrice Mills of New York.

Miss Jean Reid is following ably in the same line of conduct marked out by Ambassador and Mrs. Reid, and she is easily one of the most popular of the young American matrons of the London smart set. She has taken the handsome house of the Marquis of Bristol in St. James Square, and she is planning a series of luncheons, at which the guests will be mostly American women. She is a very capable and charming hostess, and she hopes to bring Americans of culture in England in closer association with each other.

SPARROW CUTS THROAT OF SLEEPING FARMER. CLARKSBURG, W. Va., May 11.—From Huron, Randolph county, comes news of a peculiar death. Jacob Doll, a prosperous farmer, is the victim, and two fighting sparrows were the cause of his death.

Doll was asleep in a large old-fashioned bickory rocking chair on the front porch of his home with his head tilted on the back of the chair. Suddenly two sparrows which had been fighting in midair swooped violently across the porch, and either a beak or talon of one caught in the flesh of the sleeping man's neck tearing a large jagged wound and cutting the jugular vein.

Blood spouted in a large stream from the wound. When Mrs. Doll came to the porch from the kitchen her husband lay unconscious on the floor. Efforts to check the flow of blood were futile, and Doll expired before a physician arrived.

They recently left England for an extended automobile tour through Belgium, Holland, Germany and Switzerland, at the conclusion of which they will stay at Aix. They intend to return to Paris on their way to America in July.

NEWS OF TRAVELERS FROM OVERSEAS.

News notes of well-known travelers come to us from over the seas. Lady Cunard, who was formerly Maud Burke of Oakland, has gone to Sona, near Venice, to meet the Earl and Countess of Clarendon, and Bernard Berenson, a noted American art critic. Lady Diana Manners, who was the guest of Lady Cunard while the latter was in Venice, has joined her mother, the Duchess of Rutland.

They were all guests in Venice of Anthony J. Drexel for the Campanile fetes. The latter were most attractive and immensely picturesque.

Among the many Americans in Venice for the fetes were Mrs. William G. Henshaw, Miss Henshaw, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Chickering, Miss Elizabeth McNear and Miss Viva Nicholson.

MISS CROCKER GUEST IN ALEXANDER HOME.

Miss Crocker left early in the week for the East and is now a guest in the Alexander home in New York.

One hears that Malcolm Whitman, to whom she is engaged, is coming West early in July to claim his bride.

The wedding will be a brilliant noonday affair in St. Matthew's Episcopal Church at San Mateo. Afterwards there will be a reception, somewhat in the way of a garden fete, at the bride's home in Hillsborough.

Mrs. Walter Martin will be the matron of honor and two of the bridesmaids will be Harriet and Janette Alexander of New York. The other two bridesmaids will be California girls—Marjorie Josselyn and Julia Langhorne. The groomsmen will include several of Mr. Whitman's New York friends.

Mrs. C. B. Alexander will accompany her niece when she returns from New York and will remain here until after her wedding.

WILL BE IN HEART OF EXCLUSIVE SET.

When Miss Jennie Crocker is married and goes to New York for her permanent home she will find herself quite in the heart of the exclusive smart set of New York, for her aunt, Mrs. C. B. Alexander, and her cousins, the Misses Alexander, are very popular there. The Alexanders are all devoted to athletics; they play tennis and golf exceedingly well, and they ride and drive in a fearless and admirable fashion. The outdoor season has begun earlier in the East than in our own state, and all social activity in New York has practically ceased.

The Alexander girls are members of the Ladies' Four-in-Hand Driving Club, which began its practice drives last week. Rainy weather and slippery streets put the young women drivers to more than the usual test of nerve and skill. Among those who successfully drove one of the great coaches last week was Harriet Alexander, Miss Jennie Crocker's cousin, and a great favorite in San Francisco.

Mrs. Arthur Iselin is president of the club and she took turns with Miss Harriet Alexander in driving the great coach "Arrow" from the Colony Club to the Bronx Zoological Park. Miss Alexander was also the hostess at yesterday's run, entertaining friends at the park from 3 to 6. One of the brilliant affairs of last week in New York was the reception and dance given by a committee of members of the Society of Cincinnati at the residence of Charles B. Alexander. The reception was given in honor of distinguished French visitors in New York in honor of the Champlain tercentenary.

Many official guests, titled folk, and representatives of New York society composed the brilliant assembly. The Alexander home in New York is exceedingly beautiful, with French decorations and French paintings, and with tapestries by famous French artists. The reception was an elaborate and important affair.

PARIS DECREES SEASON OF LARGE MUFFS. In a recent letter from Paris there comes to us a paragraph worth quoting for some fascinating members of our own smart set:

"One of the chief innovations of the season is that large muffs will be carried in the hands for the evening and long echarpes, which is the Parisian name for "scarf," will drape the shoulders. Tailor made will be Oriental in line—that is to say, they will have long straight fronts, and the feet will be prettily draped with flowing folds like those we are so used to in the costumes of the Orientals."

MRS. HARRY MECK TO BE HOSTESS.

One of the large affairs of next week will be the bridge afternoon which Mrs. Harry Meck is planning for her friends. She has invited a number of them for next Wednesday and she will entertain at her home, "The Orchards," near San Lorenzo. Mrs. Meck recently returned from a trip to the Orient, and is planning to spend the greater part of the summer at "The Orchards." She will be assisted in receiving by her daughters, Mrs. Stuart Hawley and Mrs. William Volkmann.

MRS. WILLIAM TEVIS GIVES INTERESTING DINNER.

Among the hostesses across the bay this week was popular Mrs. William Tevis, who came up from Bakersfield on Monday. INTERESTING VISITORS ARRIVE IN OAKLAND.

Among the interesting visitors in Oakland during the past week were Mr. and Mrs. Buckleton, who arrived on a recent steamer from a trip to the Orient. They were met by their charming young daughter, Miss Dorothy Buckleton, who was awaiting their arrival. She has recently been a guest of Mrs. Edward Lacey Brayton.

Mr. and Mrs. Buckleton and their daughter are now at the Key Route.

MISS CHARLOTTE BIEDENBACH and Harold H. V. Nicholson will delight their friends tonight at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Biedenbach, in Berkeley.

In a bower of pink roses, Rev. Dr. Nash of the Pacific Theological Seminary, will read the marriage service.

The bride gown will be of white satin embroidered heavily in pearls and the bride will wear the conventional wedding veil and will carry a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley.

Miss Katherine Biedenbach, a small sister, will act as ringbearer, and Miss Elise and Miss Anna Biedenbach will attend the bridesmaids. They will wear blue and pink satin gowns with overdresses of net. Leigh and Edward Nickerson will be the ushers.

The bride has a host of friends here, and in the college town.

The wedding journey the young couple will live in Linton, Nev.

MRS. HARRY MECK, HOSTESS. Mrs. Harry Meck has asked a large number of friends for Wednesday afternoon, when she will compliment her sister, Mrs. G. L. Doran of Los Angeles. She will entertain her friends at "The Orchards," the Meek place, in Hayward.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED. Mrs. Anna Keogh announces the engagement of her daughter, Margarette, to Raymond A. Christman. To the regret of the bride's friends she expects to make her future home in the south, where Mr. Christman's business is located.

The wedding date has been set as yet, but will take place in the month of June.

LUNCHEON IN SAN FRANCISCO. A number of Oaklanders crossed the bay on Friday to attend the luncheon given at the St. Francis, by Countess Eleanor de Clemen, who, with her husband, is on her way to Australia.

RETURN FROM AUTO TRIP. Mr. and Mrs. Tyler Henshaw have returned from a trip to Los Angeles and Riverside, where they spent much time.

QUEST FOR BEAUTY. Velvety Complexion, Wrinkless Skin and Plump Form Easy to Acquire. Any woman can keep her hands soft and velvety and free from chaps and roughness by using a simple lotion made by dissolving two ounces of anarol in a pint of hot water.

For rubbing out the form there is nothing so equal as the famous Vaseline Treatment—make this up yourself—don't get the ready-made kind, as they are usually poor imitations, and expensive. Get one ounce of true vasolin from your druggist. Now make a pint of sugar syrup, using a cup and a half of granulated sugar to enough cold water to make a pint, add the ounce of vasolin and you will have a full pint of this famous treatment, enough to last a month.

TO OPEN BROOKDALE HOME. Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Alexander of Alameda will open their home at Brookdale for the summer on the first of June.

They expect to entertain their friends and have several house parties during their stay in the country.

Blanche Bates, whose acting, coupled with the mighty plays and managerial acumen of David Belasco, has sealed the artistic heights in such creative roles as "Madam Butterfly," "The Darling of the Gods," and "The Girl of the Golden West," all Belasco masterpieces, returns to Oakland to inaugurate a brief engagement at the Macdonough Theater for three nights, commencing Monday, May 13, with matinee Wednesday, and reveal her own bright, sunny and happy self in her latest histrionic triumph, "Nobody's Widow," designated in the advertising as a farcical romance from the pen of Avery Hopwood.

Last season this delightful actress succeeded in influencing Mr. Belasco to allow her to play, first stage love and ambition—comedy—with the result that her success as "Rosanna Clayton," the widow, has equalled anything she has hitherto played and established her as a comedienne with charm and talent as rare as she disclosed while depicting the more serious roles. Her reception in New York City was most enthusiastic, where she played for eight months one of the most successful engagements of her career.

As its title significantly implies, "Nobody's Widow" is a comedy, and thereon arises the incessant humor that begins with a titter at the rise of the curtain and develops into a veritable cyclone of laughter at the final fall.

The widow, Rosanna by name, who, after all, is not a widow despite her weeds, is the heroine of a romantic adventure which overtakes her at the villa of her friend, Betty Jackson, whom she is visiting at Palm Beach.

Rosanna, while traveling in England six months prior to the commencement of the comedy, fell in love and hastily married the Duke of Moreland, who courted and won her under the name of John Clayton. This alias she only discovered one hour before the wedding ceremony—one hour after the nuptials were tied who discovers him in another woman's arms foreverly kissing her. Rosanna immediately packs her trunks and returns to America, circulating the story that her husband died of enlargement of the heart directly after her marriage, and wears widow's weeds for him.

At a house party given by Betty, the supposedly dead husband turns up, and the many complications arising from his appearance there affords the author excellent material for a splendid comedy, and which he has taken advantage of to the fullest extent, as can be attested to by the enormous success of the comedy last season in New York where it ran for the greater portion of the entire season.

Miss Bates has never given a finer exposition of her ability as a comedienne than she does as the fascinating up-to-date widow and Mr. Belasco has given her a company of important comedienne, including Bruce McRae, Adelaide Prince, Kenneth Hunter, Edith Campbell, Alice Lyman and others.

The production is Belasco's in artistic completeness to detail and locale.

"THE SPRING MAID."

"The Spring Maid" comes again on Thursday, May 16, in green and white and gold; through it sweeps color and beauty. Beautiful in voice, beauty in the women, beauty in the scenery, and beauty, a delicate, whimsical, peculiar beauty in the music. It takes the listener back to the days when he dreamed dreams, and all the land has praised the marshaling of so much color, entrancing harmony and merriment into one stage production.

Everywhere, Heinrich Reinhardt's operetta has been welcomed as one worth going to see and then going to see again, for, in addition to its laughter and music, wit and sentiment, it contains Mimi Tilden.

With Miss Tilden will return the unusual organization of singers, chorus and orchestra, including George Leon Moore as Prince Aladar; Dorothy Maynard as the coquettish spring girl; Jack Raffael, trille, Salinger, Dorothy La Mar, and others, but the character of the pompos, laugh-compelling actor of the old school is now played by Charles McNaughton, who has been brought from the London production of "The Spring Maid," and has been the foremost English comedian for more than six years. There is also another change which Werin and Lucscher have made in the desire to make the organization an even more brilliant one. Charles A. Hart, a violin tenor of reputation and dramatic ability, now sings the stirring music falling to the role of Baron Rudl.

specialty provokes unstinted applause and admiration.

Dog fanciers all over the world are remarking on the great popularity of the various breeds of the smallest dogs. Of these none are more interesting than the tiny Chihuahua dogs of northern Mexico.

They are the smallest and one of the rarest of dog families. In the entire country there is no collection of them so complete as that owned by Rosina Casselli. They are interesting as a collection, but infinitely more so because of their remarkable training. They are acrobatic marvels and with apparent enjoyment they execute new tricks on horizontal bars, flying trapeze and the floor. They have cute comedy tricks, run an auto and do innumerable feats that would make their favorites even if they did not have their diminutive size and excited mien and cuteness that ingratiates them with an audience from their first appearance.

When Johnny Ford arrives today he will bring with him a pair of the most remarkable feet that ever tripped their way across a stage. Some one has remarked that Ford cannot make his feet believe, and point to his record as proof of their assertion. As an eccentric dancer Ford has climbed the ladder of fame. For his present offering, new song and new dances have been arranged, and Mr. Ford appears with the assistance of Roy Barton at the piano. The songs and dances are spiced with comedy, much of which is furnished by the fact that won't believe.

Two young men of remarkable physical development are the Arco Brothers, a team of sturdy Teutons, who will appear this week. Their hand to hand balancing is sensational and their posing a splendid exhibition of masculine grace and beauty. One of the brothers is the champion wrestler of Bavaria.

Harvey & De Vora Trio will offer a diversified dancing review with a lot of comedy mingled in. Miss Millie De Vora, who is said to be the smallest comedian on the vaudeville stage, is classified as a pocket edition of Bert Williams. Bert Harvey is the originator of all the comedy steps used in this act.

Morris Golden, a comedy violinist, will delight the crowd with some antics and comic music on his favorite instrument. Edward Blondell with his company of farceurs will stage the lively comedy, "The Lost Boy," a great laugh provoker throughout.

ORPHEUM

Features, those crowning glorious which all managers seek for their week's vaudeville bill, will be very much in evidence at the Oakland Orpheum, beginning this afternoon. For there are Toots Paka and her Hawaiians, an act that is recognized as one of the best features ever brought to this part of the country.

Toots Paka will introduce two things, the most and impressively beautiful music of her native land will be one of them. Her famous Hawaiian dance will be another. A trio of men and Miss Paka present a program of island music, native songs and dancing.

The smallest comedian in the world is also to be a headline act on the new bill. Little Lord Robert, 16, 24 inches tall, weighs but 15 pounds and is 22 years old. Though diminutive in body he has a remarkable intellect. He is quick at repartee and his spontaneous wit in answering questions hurled at him by his audience elicits the greatest surprise and amusement. He has a winsome charm of personality, which inspires the average individual with the desire to embrace this magnetic little man. Lord Robert's success in vaudeville, however, is not based upon the fact that he is the finest actor of animate creation today in the theatrical world. He is equipped with a unique and novel act of which originality is the keynote. He is a finished artist whose art demands recognition and rests on its merits alone. His similes and dancing

STAGE CHATTER ABOUT THIS AND THAT CONCERNING CERTAIN THEATRICAL PERSONS

Stories and Such for Those Who Have Hankering After Footlights

Grace Cameron is daring. If you never knew it before, prepare to be educated. The comedienne who compelled Oakland's estimate that she was a little bit clever than the next one, has taken London prison. If you have never seen her, this, from the pen of W. Buchanan Taylor, a slicky dramatic reviewer who writes for the British press:

"But it has remained for an American to do the most daring thing in this line. She appeared at the Tivoli on Monday for the first time in England. Grace Cameron, an eccentric singlet who is a big favorite on the other side. Before she came on the stage many members of the audience should be fixing a miniature staircase from the stage to the auditorium. Even when the curtain was up and Miss Cameron commenced, it was not quite clear what the little staircase was to be used for, but when she was nearly through with her first song—an eccentric number called 'I'm Falling in Love'—she came out into the auditorium and sat at the top of the stairs whilst she repeated the chorus.

"She went further in her next effort, a very catchy ditty called 'Run Tum Tiddle', which is likely to eat all London humming in the course of the next few weeks. It is one of those semi-lunatic songs, a catchy melody which the great bulk of the public seem to be continually thriving for. When she reached the second chorus Miss Cameron stepped down the stairs, and whilst dancing up and down the center aisle had the refrain repeated again and again.

"The cheerfulness of the thing seized the fancy of the Tivoli audience, and they joined with her, emphasizing the tempo with rhythmic hand-clapping. The chorus must have been sung at least half a dozen times before she retired. Miss Cameron is a bright little woman, who puts an amount of energy into her work. Apart from her ability as a singer of eccentric songs, the daring of her methods would be sufficient to create exceptional interest."

SUTRO'S COMEDY HERE.
"After a new comedy, 'The Perplexed Husband,' with which last season he braved the wrath of London's militant suffragettes and scored a brilliant English triumph, will be among the new American productions made by Chas. Frohman early next fall.

Just how it will be received by the "advanced women" of this country is one of those things no fellow can find out until the time comes, as Lord Dundreary might put it. The play's amusing story concerns the plight of Thomas Pelling, a London tea merchant, who returns from an inspection tour of his plantations in the West Indies to find that his attractive young wife has become a suffragette. Even worse than this, she is also an Ibsen convert, feeling herself to be another Nora in "A Doll's House," and she has installed in the Pelling home a very dreadful and magnificent philosopher-prophet, who, as the female firebrand who cherishes many revolutionary views as to the latitude that should be permitted to women in the conduct of their lives. Poor Mr. Pelling is dismayed until his shrewd married sister shows him how to fight the devil with fire.

Under her crafty guidance he introduces into the Pelling ménage a very charming young woman "with a Greek soul" who, he declares, also needs converting and in whom he pretends to be deeply interested. This lady with the Greek soul at once proceeds to win the always fickle and the dreamy philosopher, whereupon the wife, deserted by "the master," as the discontented professor is known, realizes her folly, abjures the tenets of the "advanced woman" creed, falls into her husband's arms and thus brings the play to a happy and quite sensible ending.

It is asserted that the delicious humor of "The Perplexed Husband" reconciled even its satirized victims to its smashing London success. Let us hope that the American woman's sense of humor may not lag behind that of her English sisters.

LISTEN FOR VOICE.
Two things in the Bernhardt films show—Motion pictures are good when they're very, very good; and Bernhardt's voice is one-third her fame. Watching the love-legend of "Camille," or that part of it thrown upon the screen, you catch yourself straining to hear the voice of the divine one. You missed it! It is a good part of that which has set her down as the world's greatest actress.

"BILLIE" BURKE GEORGIUS AS DISRAELI

THOSE TO COME.
When George Arliss appears here in his new season in his play of "Disraeli," local theatergoers will see one of the biggest successes of the past season in New York. Arliss has done some fine work in his various engagements on the coast, but he is said to realize the character of the former English premier better in his own person than he has done in many seasons.

Julia Marlowe and her co-star-husband will also be out in their repertoire, which includes no new plays but retains the popular old ones. Billie Burke in her last play, "The Perplexed Husband," a comedy attraction and as the petite comedienne is reported to be doing better work than she has ever done before. Her well as being more attractive than ever, she will probably repeat her successes of "My Wife," "Love Watches" and "Mrs. Dot."

As one of the many results of the Titanic disaster, Rose Stahl in her Chas. Klein play, "Maggie Peepers," will also come overland instead of going into London. H. B. Harris, the manager, who was one of those lost on the steamer, had planned to send his star abroad to repeat her success there. "The Chorus Lady," but his death means her remaining in this city.

As for Rita Stanwood, seen here recently in "Excuse Me," her success in that comedy promises her continuance in the cast for another year and her visit here with the clever farce when it comes back.

MIZZI THE FAVORED.
Mizzi Hajos, petted favorite of the music men, Viennese and Hungarians and creator of the leading roles in more new operas of world fame than any other singer, is coming back to Oakland as the prima donna of "The Spring Maid."

Mizzi Hajos is a Hungarian and was born in Budapest. She is now only 20 years of age, but she is regarded by the players of continental Europe with an air of awe and respect. She is of diminutive size for she has broken through their lines of rigid conventionalism most recklessly.

She became a leading woman at a single step; she did not come from a long line of players, she stepped from comedy into drama, and from opera to comedy, and she usually done abroad and she comes of noble family.

Her father was of the family but remained in Hungary, and she was married by her boyish sweetheart of lesser family name. The little Marie Madeline Hajos, as she was christened, has found no reason to bewail her father's choice, even at home where titles mean much, for as she says: "My mother gave me much; miles of ambition, health and temperance."

There is a national conservatory in Budapest under governmental control. Here came the little Hajos at 14 years of age, and her parents contracted for five years of study, but the newcomer was married at 16 and the single year in a comedy, that is now called "The Spring Maid" in America. She was then 15 years old.

She next created the title role in "Our Miss Gibbs" with Fred Wright, and brilliant English comedian. Then she was the Hungarian Impersonator of "The Merry Widow" and played it through her own Magyar land. She created Nadina in "The Chocolate Soldier" for Oscar Straus, and she was called from that work by Heinrich Reinhardt to create the leading role, — the young Princess Rozene — in "The Spring Maid" and has the added compliment of having that opera partially rewritten to more closely fit her personality.

Thus comes Mizzi Hajos, newest of foreign stars, who is said to more surely prove the idea of "magnetic temperament" than any of her foreign sisters.

BRADY REFUS TO SLEEP.
William A. Brady, manager of "Little Miss Brown," by Philip Bartholomew, recently played a series of weeks in Cleveland, and was so tired of the performance, and directed that an extra night be booked at some point near New York, so that he might return to sleep after the play was over.

Fort Chester was selected, and the matter was kept as quiet as possible, but when Mr. Brady reached the little theater he found that most of its occupants were fast asleep, having been invited by members of the company. He also discovered that the stage was not large enough to accommodate the play, and that the equipment was built for theaters of ordinary dimensions.

"We will dismiss the audience," said the manager, "and the play will be coming back, he explained: 'Without the scenery I could not have observed the play, so that he might return to sleep after the play was over.'

PAPA AND HIS SON.
Last season Sir Arthur Pinero sent a play to America called "Prosperity." Panama was the title of a stolen kid. Next season America will see another comedy which will be largely about a kid that was stolen from a stolen kid. The play is called "Prosperity" and it is a comedy about a stolen kid.

NEWS of the STAGE

After reading more than 300 plays, Lester Longman has selected one by Captain Leslie T. Peacocke of Los Angeles. It was produced without a title on April 29, for the week, by Longman's New Bedford, Mass. stock company, at a price of $25 being offered for the best name suggested during the week.

Following the approaching visit of Blanche Bates in "Nobody's Widow," all the Belasco stars will appear here. "The Woman" and "The Concert" will be out early in the fall, to be followed by David Warfield in the early spring and Frances Starr in her new play, "The Case of Becky."

Harry Hilliard, a former prominent player at the Alcazar, in San Francisco, and seen here a few weeks ago as the hero in "The Deep Purple," has been engaged as leading man for the Baker stock company in Portland, Ore.

Donald Bowles, one of the most popular of matinee idols at Ye Liberty stock in Los Angeles, is now playing in several in Los Angeles. This past week he has been enacting the role of the young barrister in "Mme. X."

A. M. Thatcher, an old-time minstrel, is singing for a temperance speaker in Ohio.

Gaby Deslys cabled congratulations to the Winter Garden Company on April 24, adding that she hopes to be with them soon again.

Nat C. Goodwin is having many improvements made on his San Jacinto ranch, including the laying of 100,000 feet of pipe for irrigation.

Max Hart's condensed version of "Pinocchio" with a cast made up of twenty-five juvenile performers opened in Yonkers recently.

John Tiller, the famous English ballet master, who has been in America with his company of "The Ballets Russes," is now playing over the Orpheum circuit, sailed May 4 for London. With him on the return voyage went the Eight Palace Girls, another of the Tiller products.

Al Johnson will play two weeks of vaudeville this spring at the close of the Winter Garden season. He will appear in "The Ballets Russes" in New York. The salary Johnson is to receive is not disclosed, but it is known that he refused $10,000 for a week at the New Brighton theater from Duke Robinson.

Tremblay refused to listen to any vaudeville offer for this season, following the close of "Naughty Marietta." He said the contract made with her managers for a new opera next season prohibited a vood appearance.

With the rainy weather upon us, Lilian Lorraine is thinking of vaudeville. Her first season of two-weekly love with his son's sweetheart! Of course, he must stifle his feelings, since everything in his new duty of fatherhood is to be a stoic cheerfulness, say "Bless you, my children!" Don Juan addresses himself nobly to the task, but all the ladies will fall in love with him. Of course, the boy's sweetheart falls in love with the boy's father. Who would have thought that Don Juan would have a son? For the father knows a son, who has a new hat, and understands how to pin roses to her toilet belt, while the lady is now wearing a hat, and with all the ladies of the petite soiree, take the heart of women. So soon as the boy sees how matters stand he quietly hands the lady a bill but deflected over to his father, and consoles himself with a village maiden.

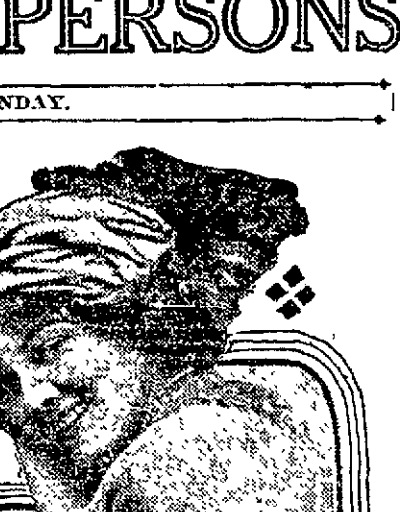

You reflect that Don Juan's bride will do well to keep a sharp eye on him in the years to come, or once more he may find some other lady, bidding him look in the glass and consider his gray hairs.

DEMANDS ARE NERVOUS.
Although Russian dancers who have gone abroad did not have a prosperous season, they are demanding higher salaries than ever before as they return home to St. Petersburg.

Tramondous salaries are being paid the featured dancers. Madame Kachina, a Russian dancer, is now receiving $1000 weekly for a performance.

Karavina is under contract for three short runs of "Naughty Marietta" for the seasons $7000 and the third $8000.

RETA STANWOOD

Among the attractions already announced for the coast during the next theatrical season beginning in the fall are: "Louisiana Lou," "Baby Mine," "Bought and Paid For," "Tommyland Walk," "May I Wish," "In Old Kentucky," "Officer 6666," "Pinatone," "Lambardi Opera Co. Julian Eltinge, "The Woman," "The Round Up," "Dustin Farnum in 'The Littlest Rebel,' "The Common Law," "The Vancouver," "Kiss Waltz," "Butterfly on the Wheel," "John Mason, 'The Quaker Girl,' Max Figman, 'The Girl in the Taxi,' 'Naughty Marietta,' 'The Fortune Hunter,' 'The Gamblers,' 'Madame Sherry,' 'Ben Hur,' 'The Rich Quick Wallingford,' David Warfield, 'Gypsy Love,' William Crane, 'The Prince of Plisen,' 'The Blue Bird,' 'The Concert,' 'The Million,' 'The Star,' 'The Enchantress,' 'The Merry Widow,' John Drew, Raymond Hitchcock, Billie Burke, Francis Starr, 'Everywoman,' 'Polly of the Circus.'"

A couple of years ago, when Gus A. Forber was paying a visit to his people in Calgary, Alta., he played a short season at the request of his friend, Ernest Willis, then manager of the Lyric Theater, with the Empress stock company. "The Vancouver," who were filling a summer engagement at that house.

Among other plays produced was "The Charity Ball." One matinee, just before ringing up, it was discovered that the lady who played the Mother was not at the theater, and Gus went to Billy Bernard, the director of the company, to ask him what he was going to do. "I don't know," said Billy. "Go on, what Mrs. What are you laughing at?" "Nothing," said Gus, "only won't it look rather funny to have someone reading the part of a blind woman?"

Violet Romer, an Oakland girl, in a New York program she gave on May 2, included interpretations of Bohm's "Sarabande," Bizet's "Minuet," Debussy's "Shapshod," Tchaikovsky's "Ardente Cantabile," Saint-Saens' "Danse Macabre," McCoy's "Dance of the Young Hamadryad" and "The Psyche Myth," a group of compositions by Tchaikovsky, Grieg, Elgar and Nizkad.

"The Dance of the Young Hamadryad" is a novelty here, and was presented by permission of the Bohemian Club of San Francisco, for which organization it was composed by William J. McCoy.

Elsie Janis and Joseph Cawthorne, seen here last month in "The Slim Princess," are back in "The Old Town," co-stars in "The Old Town."

Reginald de Koven and Harry B. Smith gave a dinner for the surviving members of the original Robin Hood cast on May 6, when the opera was revived in New York. Those now living are Edwin W. Hoff, Eugene Cowles, H. C. Barnabee, George B. Frothingham, Carlotta Macondo, Peter Lang and Marie Stone. Tom Karl did not sing until the second night, but he will be at the reunion. Robin Hood was first sung in Chicago nearly twenty-two years ago.

Frank Tiney, remembered here for his original and clever monologues at the Orpheum about a year ago, is now a member of the company giving "A Winsome Widow" at Ziegfeld's Moulin Rouge in New York. The piece is a version of Hoyt's old familiar "A Trip to Chinatown" and Tiney's work in black face is one of the hits of the play.

Theodore Roberts, one of the best character actors on the stage, remembered here for his work early in the season with his cousin, Florence Roberts, in "Jim, the Penman," is now appearing in vaudeville on the Orpheum circuit. At present he is in the Pacific northwest country on his way down the coast.

When "The Spring Maid" is seen here again in the middle of the month, it will be given by practically the same cast which presented it before, headed by Mizzi Hajos, the attractive little Hungarian star. The other prominent singers will be George Leon Moore, Jack Raffael, Thillie Salinger and Dorothy Maynard.

Lauders Stevens is star, and his wife, Georgia Cooper, leading women of the Metropolitan stock company, which opened an engagement in San Diego last Monday night. Another member of the company known here is Norval McGregor. "Raffles" was the opening attraction and other plays to be given are "The Only Way" and "The Road to Yesterday."

Emma Calve, Marcelle Sembrich, Nellie Melba, Luisa Tetrazzini, Lillian Nordica, Johanna Gadski, Olive Fremstad, Madame Schumann-Haek and Elena Gerhardt are all booked for American concert tours next season.

When Best of Them Were in Burlesque

BLANCHE BATES

"The palmy days of burlesque" was before the period of opera-bouffe and the coming of the "English blondes." In those days, when stock companies were the rule, and Mitchell and Burton controlled the "stock" singing and dancing were as much a part of every actor's education as elocution and gesture, and it was not considered beneath the dignity of the "Tip Van Winkle" or the "Hamlet" to stoop to travesty parts equally serious the next.

Edwin Booth early in his career appeared in such entertainments as "Blue Beard," and Mr. Jefferson was enormously popular as Beppo, Hlavatha, Pan (in "Midias"), the Tycoon, and Mazaepa—old play-bills recording his appearance as Grumpy Grog to the Jenny Lind of Mrs. John Wood, "with his original grape vine twist and burlesque break-downs."

His performance of Mazaepa at the Winter Garden, in 1861, is still a pleasant memory in many minds. In it he sang a celebrated aria, "The Victim of Despair," and his dancing act upon the bare back of the wild rocking horse of the toy shops was, perhaps, the most remarkable performance of his kind ever witnessed by a danger-loving public. During his several engagements at the Winter Garden, Mr. Jefferson was supported by Mrs. John Wood (particularly as fiancée to his Sir Brian), one of the best burlesque actresses our stage has shown. Her Poca-hontas was never excelled. She played it at Niblo's to Powhatan of Mark Smith, in March, 1872, and almost her last appearance upon the New York stage was as a member of the Grand Opera House in No-man's-land.

Other famous actors who appeared in burlesque at that time were Charles Buxton (as the brother of Joseph Jefferson), and Daniel Stodolka.

One of the funniest burlesques ever seen on the New York stage was when De Wolf Hopper played "Juliet" to Marshall P. Wilder's "Romeo." Nat Goodwin was also a famous burlesque actor, as was Henry B. Dixey, Huntington's "Curiosities of the American Stage."

employment brought her in touch with the Max Hart office. Miss Lorraine has worked for Eto Ziegfeld, Jr.

Bert Leslie is leaving behind him on his latest tour a liberal supply of freshly coined slang phrases. In "Hogan, the Painter," Leslie introduced many new and unique metaphors of the street, which probably will become a part of the nation's slang vocabulary.

Never before has Chicago showed such enthusiastic critical comment upon a production as was given "Madame Butterfly," the Orpheum company's production. Every dramatic reviewer declared that the play, the cast and the production was unequalled in perfection.

Florence Roberts' vaudeville debut was made at the Winthrop Orpheum Theater, where her vehicle, "The Miracle," was pronounced worthy of her talent. Miss Roberts' literary will keep her on the Coast during the summer.

Chicago is to have a Hippodrome seating 1500. Property at Hubbard court and Washburn avenue was secured last Friday, and the building is to be completed within the next seven months. The annual rental is to be $25,000. It is to be 150 feet long. The circus ring will be 65 feet in diameter, and an aquatic tank 40 feet square will be under the stage. Steel and concrete will be the building material employed. The front of the house will be illuminated with 14,000 incandescent lights. The scale of prices will be 10 and 25 cents. Eight acts will be shown, and the entertainment will be of the continuous style, each of two hours duration.

Henry W. Savage will not release "The Merry Widow" for stock nor will he give up at present to any of the road managers, having arranged to give the piece another long road tour next season.

Sam Bernard's next starring vehicle under the direction of the Shuberts will be an adaptation of the Vienna success, "Du Lieber Augustin."

To jump from a position in a restaurant to the leading role of a Broadway musical production in one night is an almost incomprehensible accomplishment. But that is what Charlie Chaplin did—on 4 more—Chaplin could speak no English when John Crow found her. He engaged her on condition that she master the language within a year. She did so within seven months.

Are Your Arms Beautiful?

"It Does Not Matter Much Whether the Arms Are Fat or Thin, If They Are Round and White, and the Hands Graceful and Well Cared For" — Says

Lillian Russell

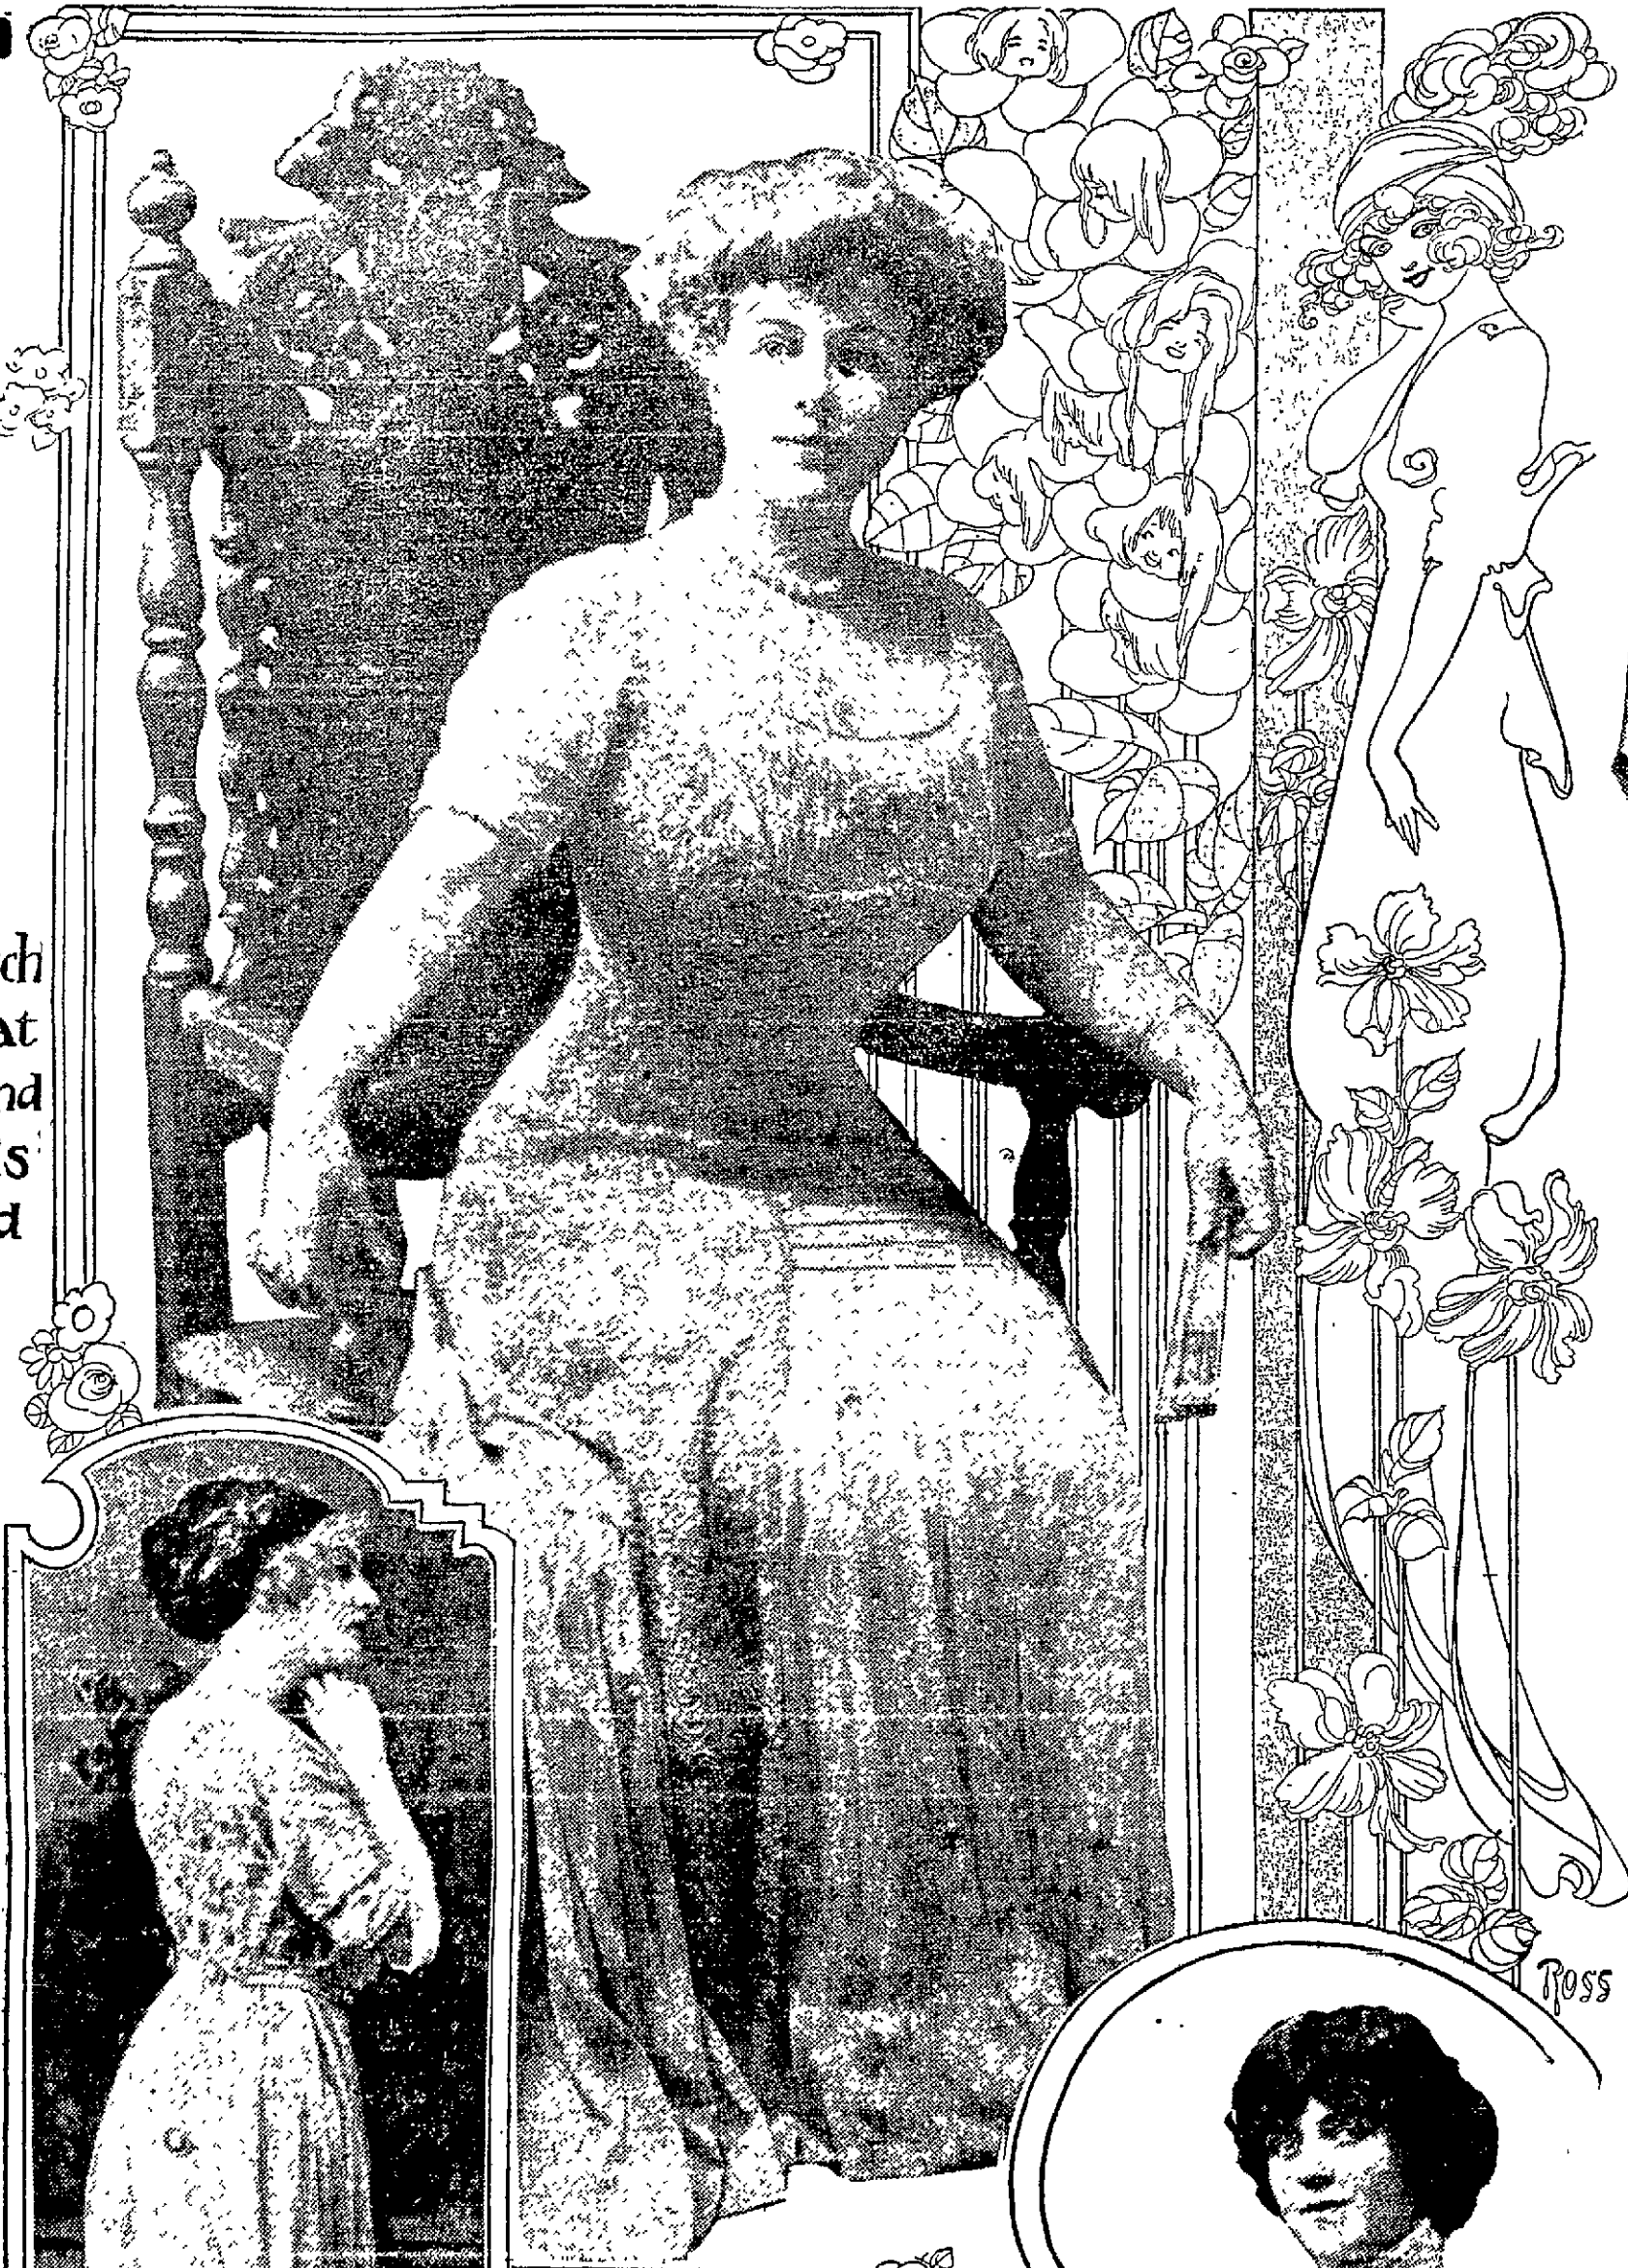

By LILLIAN RUSSELL.

(Copyright, 1912, By Lillian Russell.)

WHAT poet is there who has not sung of gleaming shoulders, tapering arms, and snowy hands?

A pretty pair of shoulders, curving out from a graceful neck and sloping down to shapely arms, will always call forth admiration, and if the tint be snowy white, with just enough of the rose underneath to create the impression of health, they are just so much more attractive. Then, too, their pose must be perfect and their lines graceful. By exercise and by proper development and carriage this great beauty may be cultivated and secured by any woman with a bit of self-discipline.

There are so many disfiguring arm habits that women so easily drift into—the habit of sitting or leaning in a one-sided position, which, sooner or later, shows the results in the shoulders, one of which will be higher than the other. This is especially so with women in business—those whose duties compel them to sit several hours daily at their desks. Unless one is guarded the right shoulder invariably swings higher than the third part of the movement is to carry the fists close under the arm pits and back as far as possible, cross the fists high upon the back, and then lower them easily at the sides. Every part of the exercise includes resistance. Lifting weights from the floor to enlarge the upper part of the arm need not be done with an actual weight in the hand; in fact, it is much better for girls to control the resistance, regulating it according to their own individual strength, which varies from day to day.

Take a long step forward and bend to the floor; with the hands touching the floor, take a deep breath, clinch the fists, and pull the arms up as if lifting a heavy weight; as you lift carry the weight of the body slowly to the back foot, flexing the back knee; keep the elbows high, and twist the hands until the palms are up, elbows back as far as possible. Now forcibly expel the breath, at the same time shooting the arms forward and down, bending again to the floor, every muscle relaxed.

Developing Important Back Muscle.

Repeat this three times to the right and three times to the left, followed by three deep breaths.

There is an important back muscle in the upper arm which is not reached by lifting weights. An eminent piano instructor recommends a movement for this muscle to increase facility in octave playing. Take position with arms front shoulder high, the back of the

"The arms should have the same kind treatment as the face" says Miss Russell.

Almond meal instead of too much soap may be used to wash them.

Cocoa Butter Fattens Them.

If the arms are too thin cocoa butter rubbed on at night will fatten them a little. If they are too stout they can be massaged with camphor spirits, which will reduce them slightly. It does not so much matter whether the arms are a little thin or a little stout if they are round and white and the hands graceful and well manicured.

The elbows and arms above the elbows are often rough and discolored. The roughness is often occasioned by neglecting to remove the outer layer of epithelial cells, and it is sometimes due to the fact that one is careless about thoroughly drying the skin of the arms after bathing. In this case the lemon juice, glycerin, and rosewater should be rubbed on frequently, then dried with a towel and a little talcum powder rubbed on the arms.

If the elbows are discolored and callous a stick of pumice stone should be used when the elbow is wet with warm water, rubbing the pumice gently over the callous places until they are as soft and smooth as the rest of the flesh.

When there is too much hair on the arms a stick of pumice stone may be dipped in common gin and rubbed gently over the hairy places until the hair disappears. I have been told by people who have used this treatment that the hair does not grow again upon the arms after once being removed.

To keep the arms soft and youthful a pure cold cream should be used every night, gently rubbed into the skin until it is almost all absorbed, then the remainder rubbed off with a soft towel.

Hands and arms may be kept pretty and attractive with a little care. Women who do not give attention to their hands and arms should not wear short sleeves, as nothing is more immodest looking than bony or over fat bare arms coming out of a pretty gown.

Perfect Arms Rarely Seen.

Tan is pretty only on young, baby shaped arms. No girl over 16 can wear a coat of tan and look pretty. Nothing is more attractive than lovely white, round arms.

Avoid, as much as possible, placing the hands near the face.

If possible always place your hands so as to expose the side view.

Other, and, though it may not be strikingly noticeable, it is the occasion of ill fitting gowns and a top sided, awkward figure that puts one down as commonplace. As time wears on this defect becomes more apparent and the opportunity for remedying it is beyond recall. In taking up work which necessitates the using of one arm more than the other the woman who cares will in some way attempt to equalize the position so that the disfiguring lopsidedness may be avoided.

Label of Unrefined Woman.

There is the habit of resting one's elbows on the table while one is dining. This is not only an ill bred habit—label of the unrefined that a woman puts on herself—but it will, if persisted in, ruin the beauty of the elbows. Hard, yellow callouses that eventually will be impossible to remove are caused to appear. A calloused elbow is never beautiful. It may be endured in secret when one wears long sleeves, but to expose an elbow of that type in short sleeves to the public is to emphasize one's unloveliness.

At the present day, when short sleeves are worn by fashionable women and girls, arms should be beautiful always, and they can be made so if nature has neglected them.

If the arms are dark colored a mixture of lemon juice and a little glycerin with just a little rosewater added and rubbed into the arms morning and night before re-hands together. With strong tension contract all the muscles vigorously, slowly twist the hands around, moving the forearm only. When you come to the point where the hands can go no further, pause a moment, then twist the entire arm as far as possible, come back to position in the same way, twisting first the forearm and then the upper arm. Repeat until tired.

To increase the size of the forearm, open and close the hand rapidly with tension, increasing the number of times daily. Also bend the wrist back and forth as far as it will go, being extremely careful not to use too much vigor, as the wrist is delicate and should not be strained. The exercise of clinching and relaxing the fingers, given for the development of the forearm, will also develop the strength of the hand.

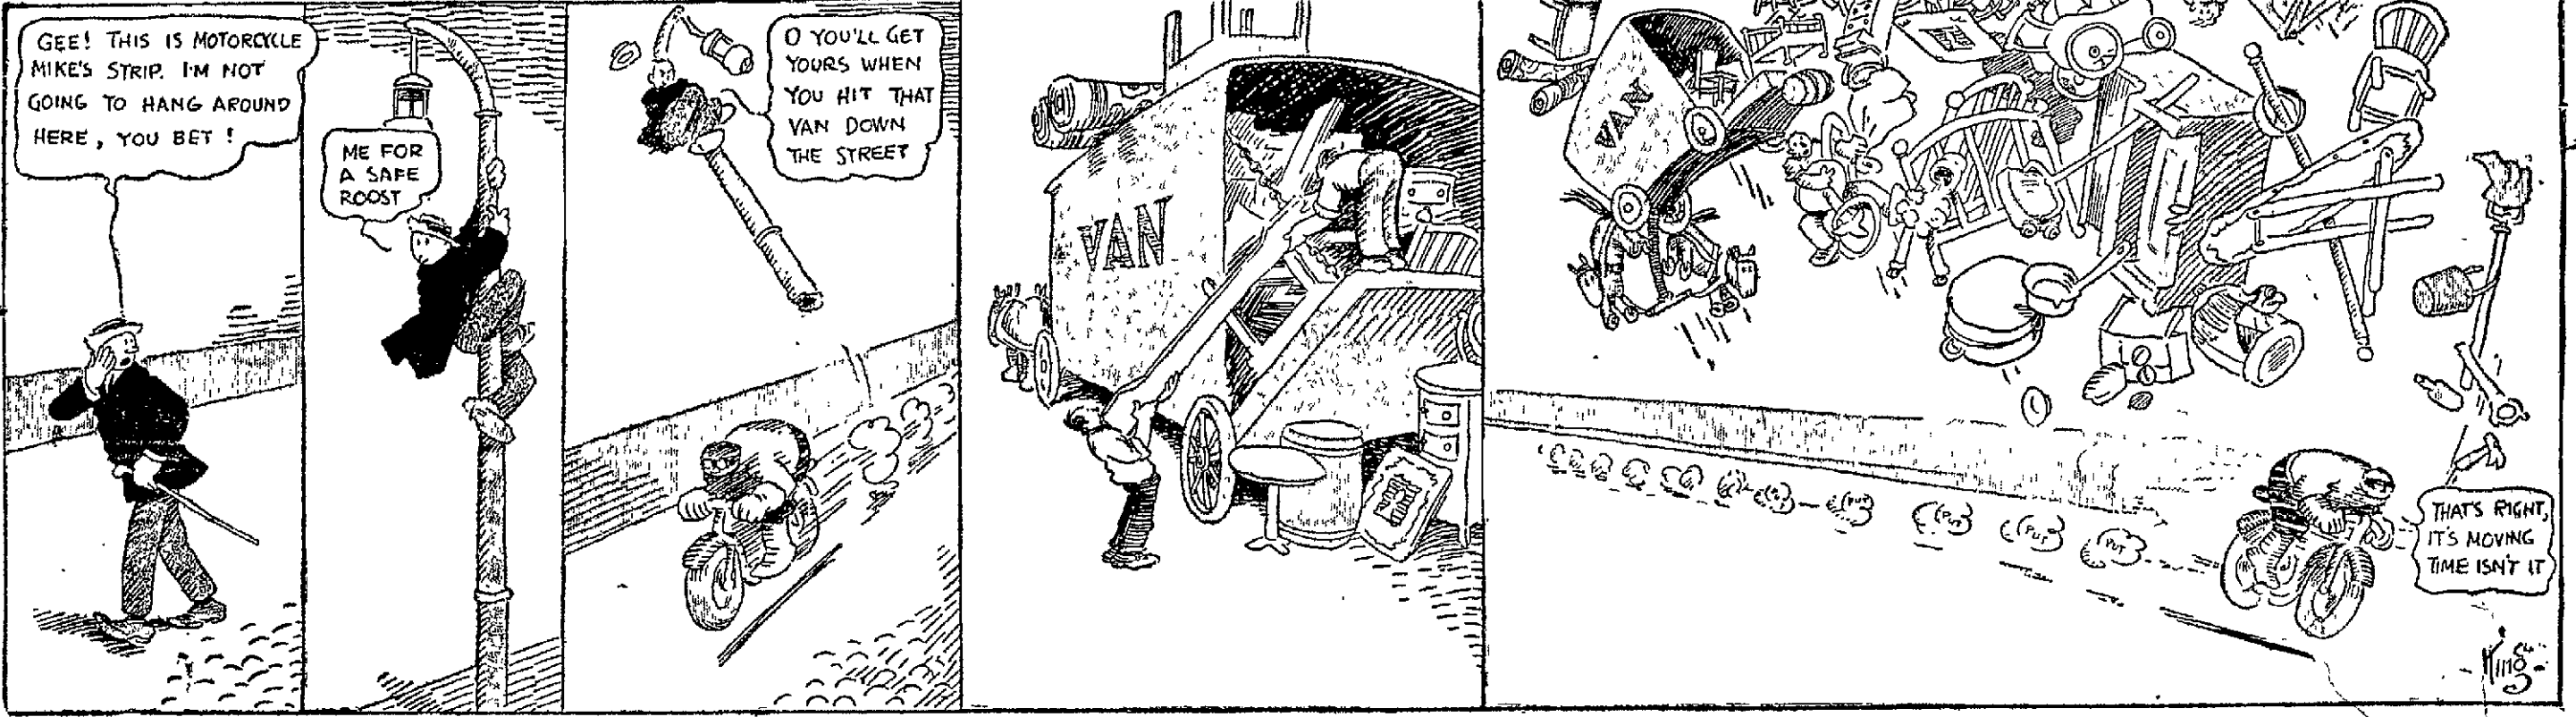

Remember: When exposed the arms should have the same kind treatment that you give your face.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—President Taft returned to the White House from Princeton late tonight. At noon tomorrow he will start for Ohio. He has refused point blank to take the rest that his physicians say is necessary. The President realizes that the fight in the convention will be a close one. Secretary Knox will hasten from California to aid in the campaign. A dozen Senators will join in the fight for delegates.

The Roosevelt managers are out with a statement tonight, claiming 258 instructed delegates for the Colonel, with 116 for Taft. Counting in those indicated, but not formally elected, they give their candidate 302 and Taft 116. There are still 160 to be chosen, as follows:

PREPARE FOR CONVENTION.
CHICAGO, May 11.—Preparations for the sessions of the Republican national committee, which will begin the hearing of contests here June 8, were made today by Assistant Secretary A. R. Smith of New York and Chief Clerk L. G. Hechinger of New Jersey. Secretary William Hayward of New York will arrive next Monday and take charge of the work of the national committee until the convention. Acting Chairman Victor Rosewater of Nebraska, Chairman Harry B. New of Indiana, in charge of the arrangements for the convention, and William F. Sloan of Maryland, sergeant-at-arms, are expected here Tuesday.

Members of the national committee expect they will be called upon to pass upon nearly 200 contests between June 6 and the opening of the convention June 18. It is believed the rules adopted four years ago will be effective then. The rules allowed both sides 30 minutes in the case of contests over delegates-at-large and 15 minutes for district contests. Mrs. G. Lawrence of 2331 Ninth avenue had a narrow escape from death shortly before 11 o'clock last night when an automobile in which she was riding with J. A. Manley of 1717 Market street collided with a street car at Seminary avenue and East Fourteenth street. The two were thrown out upon the roadway, receiving slight injuries. The automobile caught fire and was destroyed.

Captain Thorwald Brown of the Midway station went to the rescue and took the injured persons to the Receiving hospital, where they were treated by Dr. W. H. Irwin and Steward Travers. Manley was able to leave the hospital without assistance. He had received a wrenched left ankle and numerous bruises together with the shake-up. Mrs. Lawrence sustained a slight abrasion on the side of her head which partially dazed her. She was unable to account for the accident and could not recall events leading up to nor after the near tragedy. She was unable to tell whether the machine had been going toward town or away. She explained that her husband is out of the city and that she had merely gone out for a little ride in the automobile.

Manley, the driver and owner of the car, had his machine in the rent service. He refused to make any statement of the accident other than to say that the collision had been his fault.

"I do not know what happened or how it happened," said Mrs. Lawrence at the hospital. "I just simply cannot remember. All I know is that I was taking a ride and here I am. My hand pains me considerably."

She received temporary treatment and returned to her home after telephoning for the neighbor in the flat above. Allen said one of them owed him money, which he could not get, and another was angry with him about the shooting of a revenue officer.

With Friends of Happy Family

Rhody Murray, chief engineer of the ferryboat Bay City and for 28 years a familiar character to commuters, looked particularly spruce yesterday. His friends noted a rambling smile and a self-satisfied expression. Rhody is usually genial, but yesterday he fairly radiated happiness.

Want to know the reason? Well, Rhody Murray and his wife, the night before, celebrated their silver wedding anniversary, and among the 200 persons who crowded St. Jarlath's Hall in Fruitvale were their 12 sons and daughters, as fine specimens of American girlhood and boyhood, as any fond parents might desire.

In the bridal march the sons and daughters trailed behind their proud parents and the hall rang with applause at the spectacle. There were gifts of silverware, in plenty, dancing and a long evening of merrymaking, but it was pride which all Fruitvale showed for Rhody Murray and his wife, and the knowledge that they have done their duty by a record family, that accounts for the record sparkle in the eye of the engineer and keeps his step elastic.

Another Crisis Impends In Great Britain Strike

LONDON, May 11.—The recently enacted minimum wage law for miners has broken down and Great Britain is threatened with another great crisis in the coal trade. Indications point either to stampede in favor of repudiating the act or a split in the miners' federation.

As before South Wales is the storm center, the colliery laborers there objecting to the decisions of Lord Staldwyn, chairman of the local wages board, which gives less than the five shillings a day that the men expected to obtain, under the new act. At a conference today at Cardiff of the South Wales Miners' Federation it was decided not to participate further in the work of the district wages board until the whole situation has been reviewed. A national conference has been called to meet in London next week. James Stanton, the Socialist member, who took a prominent part in the recent strike again heads the revolt. Stanton threatens to bring out all the transport workers in support of the miners if it comes to a strike.

TRIBUNE WILL ISSUE BACK-TO-SOIL EDITION

From east to west there is constantly passing a great caravan of homeseekers interested in the great things that await them in the beautiful acres of California. Realizing this, THE TRIBUNE is preparing a "Back to the Soil" edition. It will appear next Wednesday and will contain columns of interesting matter, both pictorial and editorial, which cannot help but throw some light upon the movement.

Persons give up their all in a place they have called home and seek new fields to conquer. In turning toward California, the land of sunshine and flowers, as it has been most poetically described, they seek reliable information about their opportunities. This information will be found in the "Back to the Soil" edition. In addition to the illustrations and reading matter there will be numerous advertisements of reliable firms that are interested in bringing settlers to this State. A large amount of valuable information will be dispensed in the edition. Prices of land, of homes of every character and description will be set forth in an appealing manner and one that will be in every way convincing.

The edition will be one that you can send to your friends and mark with something contained therein that suits their particular case. You will know that the truth is there. For the first time everything pertaining to the "Back to the Soil" movement will be collected and compiled in one edition and in attractive form. It will tell about California and all that the State assures one who desires to get back to the soil!

Orozco, in Desperate Situa-

SAN FRANCISCO, May 11.—Determined that none of her citizens shall be left without protection or want for the means of fleeing the country, England is sending the sloop of war Algerine to the scene of trouble along the western coast of Mexico under rush orders.

The Algerine arrived here from Esquimalt, British Columbia, early this morning and only remaining long enough to receive a fresh supply of coal. The warship proceeded to sea at 4 p. m. and is now steaming south as fast as her twin propellers will take her.

PLANS CHANGED.
That England believes the conditions in Mexico critical is evident from the sudden and unexpected change made in the disposition of the Algerine. Less than two weeks ago the vessel was about to go into dry dock for repairs and general overhauling, when instructions were received from England directing to get the ship ready for sea immediately.

The vessel was at Comox at the time. Coal was rushed into the bunkers and the next day she proceeded to Esquimalt, where the loading of supplies was completed, after which the passage south began.

TO RUSH TO MEXICAN.
Commander Francis Brooker and his officers explain that the instructions are to make Mazatlan the first port of call. If any Britishers wish to leave who have no available means of getting out, they will be cared for on the Algerine. The Algerine will then proceed south, stopping at the various ports and render whatever assistance may be needed. It was the opinion of the officers that but few refugees will be aided and that the sudden trip of the vessel to the Mexican coast is more in the nature of looking after any possible complications which may endanger British interests.

ROUGH TRIP SOUTH.
The passage from the coast of British Columbia was one of the roughest the officers have ever experienced. The Algerine, which is not a vessel, being only 1050 tons, rolled about and pitched until nothing but lashed fast was thrown about in all directions. It was reported that several of the seamen deserted just before the ship sailed so that instead of the full complement of 150 men there are but 90 in the crew.

CALLS FOR VOLUNTEERS.
WASHINGTON, May 11.—The forces, closely pursued by the federalists are fleeing to the northward with the call for volunteers to fight for "Free Mexico." The United States troops in Mexico City are preparing for an onslaught on Zapata's rebels. Orozco Sr. in the north has issued a call for volunteers to fight for "Free Mexico." This was the gist of the news received at the State Department today from the disaffected Mexican provinces.

OF RAISING BABY

Figures to Show Statistics and Rate of Infant Death.

PHILADELPHIA, May 11.—How much is a baby worth? How much does a baby cost its parents and the state? Statisticians have figured this out and it has been agreed that a squinting bit of humanity which will grow into a full size man represents $2000 to Uncle Sam, and that by the time this same bit of humanity has reached the age of thirty its net profit to the nation will be $5000.

A baby is worth something to cold dollars and cents, and it is to prove this and show that baby raising is a profitable business and that infant mortality is the most wasteful thing that a nation, a state or a city can indulge in, that the Baby Raising Show, at Horticultural Hall, will be held from May 13 to 25.

Last year, in this city, 6707 babies died under 2 years of age, 70 percent of these deaths were preventable. The show is being held to point to the awful figures upon the public consciousness, and then to explain how these figures can be reduced and how Philadelphia can make its baby savings campaign effective.

One of the most prolific causes of infant mortality is improper feeding. The mother is often responsible for this, and if she wants to know how and when to feed her child properly, she has only to visit the diet kitchen of the public health department and listen to the instructions of the expert dietitians.

This kitchen will be under the direction of a woman who has had years of practical experience and under whose care thousands of babies have thrived.

Diseases of children will be given particular attention at the show and the long-looked-for question, "Is it necessary for the baby to have a doctor?" will be discussed. The show will be shown how to prevent the spread of infection, how to guard her own child against catching a disease, and how to care for the baby while it is suffering from any of the ills of childhood.

A separate exhibit will deal with non-communicable diseases and by means of exhibits the mother will be shown how to prevent the spread of infection, how to guard her own child against catching a disease, and how to care for the baby while it is suffering from any of the ills of childhood.

AGED COUPLE OF 123 YEARS ARE COMPANIONS

ELLENBURG, May 11.—Leading her aged blind husband by a rope tied around his waist, Annie Schu-Wa-Kin, who is said to be 123 years old, rode today into Ellensburg from the Wenatchee mountains on her annual pilgrimage to the city.

The aged Indians, who have visited Ellensburg for many years, are known to practically all of the old-timers in the valley, and their history is closely interwoven with events in this part of the state.

The old Indians come to this valley each spring to gather Camas roots, with which to make bread, and to dry it for their winter's food supply. T. W. Farrell, a pioneer merchant, who speaks Chinook fluently, was visiting the Indians and was told the romance in the life of old Schu-Wa-Kin, who, although feeble and blind, is treated with every kindness by his wife, who provides for his material welfare.

Schu-Wa-Kin said that when he was 25 years old, his father, then a chief of a new extinct tribe, forced him to marry a girl he did not like. He had grown up with Annie, but was not allowed to take her as a mate. After living with the wife selected by his father for more than a half century, and always thinking of his first love, the Indian finally decided to change, and the couple separated.

Schu-Wa-Kin then married Annie, who, though blind and old, was as attractive to him as when they first loved, before the days of the white man. The two old people are now inseparable. Today they told Mr. Farrell that they hoped to make their annual trip to the Kittitas valley for many years to come. They live on the Columbia river in the summer time, and have several horses, as well as a number of dogs.

FRUITVALE, May 11.—After a continual round of merry-making for six days, the Native Sons' street carnival closed tonight at a late hour with a grand masquerade ball, presided over by Queen Genevieve and her court. Her majesty led the grand march at the commencement of the dance.

A feature of the evening was the grand electrical illumination on the arrival of her majesty at "Joy Curve" shortly before 8 o'clock.

The general committee, headed by Director-General Mannings, pronounced the week's fiesta one of the most successful ever held in this section. Thousands of persons attended the gaieties each night, the crowds surpassing all previous records this evening.

BOSTON, May 11.—The thirteen-year-old British schooner Vera B. Roberts was just twenty-three days coming here from St. John, because she put into some port along the way every night. Captain Roberts has been afflicted with rheumatism, and he didn't care to be at sea at night. There is a crew of six men, all told, aboard the long stoker, and notwithstanding the long trip the men were quite contented.

So I took it easy, making a port every night and staying there until the sun came up."

May Conserve Energy Stored
In Coal Mines

SIR WILLIAM RAMSAY.

LONDON, May 11.—Sir William Ramsay has a theory that power can be produced from coal direct, which he believes will conserve an enormous amount of energy.

It is his opinion that coal gas can be generated in the coal mine, used to run gas engines at the pit's mouth, and that the power so obtained can be transmitted long distances with little loss.

For a number of years many scientists have been working to obtain power direct from coal, but not in this form. It is admitted that a greater part of the energy in coal is lost in the process of extracting it. Sir William believes from his experiments that most of it can be conserved.

TRENTON, May 11.—The "Anvil Queen" has taken a new name. She was Mrs. Clark Fisher until last Saturday. Now she is Mrs. Cilvano Andrew.

As the widow of Clark Fisher, an anvil manufacturer of Trenton, Mrs. Fisher found herself endowed with big business interests with no one to run it.

She set about learning it herself, and before long to the surprise and admiration of her workmen, she was able to put on an apron and work among them with great skill. Being familiar with the business from the ground up, Mrs. Fisher was able to conduct it successfully and she has accumulated a large fortune from her business.

Mrs. Fisher owns a beautiful home near Trenton, another not far from New York, and an estate on Lake Como in Italy. She is taking her young husband to Italy with her in July. He is a lieutenant in the Argentine navy.

Promoter of Richmond Company Is Accused of Passing Bad Checks.

RICHMOND, May 11.—M. J. Barnett, president of the Wind and Power Company, recently organized in this city for the purpose of promoting the manufacture of a patent windmill and pump, for which a stock selling campaign was instituted, was arrested last night in Modesto on telegraphic advice from Chief of Police J. P. Arnold of this city, who holds a warrant for his arrest on a felony charge of passing a bogus check in the sum of $76.75 on the Oakland Bank of Savings. The warrant was sworn to by Louis Brown of the Richmond Garage, who cashed the alleged worthless check for Barnett.

Chief Arnold left today for Modesto to bring Barnett back. Barnett was one of the prominent promoters of the Wind and Power Company and well known here in connection with an attempt to finance the installation of a plant to build the pumps and windmills of the patent held by the company.

RICHMOND, May 11.—The ferry steamer San Pablo and San Pedro of the Santa Fe railroad, plying between this city and San Francisco, are flying the exposition flag. These engines are now being flown all over the world, and Commodore L. A. Dunnington of the Santa Fe service was the first to display them in this harbor. Each steamer has two flags, 6x8 feet, and they are to be flown from now until the end of the exposition.

The big annual picnic of the Richmond Eagles will be held tomorrow at Grand Canyon, which will fly many hundreds of flags from San Francisco, Oakland and elsewhere.

The local baseball club and the Yosemite club from San Francisco will play a match game here tomorrow.

The will of the late Myrtle Greenwald of this city was filed in the Superior Court of the city today. The estate is valued at $322, 110 of which goes to the Methodist church here, $100 to a brother and the remainder to the husband.

Inasmuch as the time of voting on the annexation to Richmond of the Pullman-Stage territory is close a campaign will be commenced Monday by those favoring the movement, and there seems to be little doubt now but what the project will carry by a large majority.

The participants in the minstrel and vaudeville performance to be given here soon by the Women's West Side Improvement Club, are holding rehearsals at the Pullman-Stage territory.

For a number of years many scientists have been working to obtain power direct from coal, but not in this form. It is admitted that a greater part of the energy in coal is lost in the process of extracting it. Sir William believes from his experiments that most of it can be conserved.

The local Southern Star bridge will stage a force here the latter part of the month.

GOVERNOR 'IN OUR

John A. Mead of Vermont Does Not Make Known His Arrival.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 11.—Keeping his identity secret so that he might be spared the round of receptions and official honors bestowed upon so many state executives who have visited this city recently, Governor John A. Mead of Vermont has been at the Palace Hotel for three days.

The Governor is a naturally modest, although he is an old-time fighter, and declares that he would rather face the cannon of the enemy than be dragged forth into the limelight by public events held in his honor. He is president of the Howe Scale company and is here on a business trip for that corporation.

The exposition officials did not learn of his presence until today, when they were informed by George A. Rigg, Colvin E. Brown, chief of the committee on domestic participation, was detailed to look after the comforts and pleasure of the executive.

On being brought to exposition headquarters, the first person whom Governor Mead recognized was the official herald of the 1915 Fair, William Hooper, who was formerly a resident of Montpelier, Vt.

LUNCHEON GUEST.

After being shown the plans of the exposition the Governor was the guest of honor at a luncheon at the San Francisco Commercial Club and later in the afternoon was taken over the exposition site.

"This is my fourteenth trip to San Francisco," he declared, "and I think the growth and the improvement of the city marvelous. It has been adorned beyond conception, the structures are modern, convenient and in perfect condition. There is a great deal of interest in the exposition in the East. People of our section of the country are awakening to the importance of the affair. At present we are all stirred up over politics, but that will soon be a thing of the past. Vermont is a Republican state and it has never had a Democratic representative in congress, or a Democratic United States senator or governor. Our legislature will not meet until October next, and I am sure there will be a big appropriation for exposition purposes."

Governor Mead leaves tonight for home and will give goodnight addresses by members of the exposition company.

MORE PROTECTION IS TO BE URGED

Steinway Terrace Club to Consider the Fire and Police Matter at Session.

UPPER FRUITVALE, May 11.—The question of adequate fire and police protection for the Upper Fruitvale section will be discussed at a public meeting of the Steinway Terrace Improvement Association next Tuesday evening in a hall at the corner of Rosedale avenue and the Foothill boulevard. An effort will be made by the association to compel the People's Water Company to lay water mains of a sufficient size throughout the district before the street improvement work to be done by the city is started. It is likely that the city commissioners will be appealed to.

Several speakers will also deal with the inadequacy of the police protection given the section. The body has the support of Captain Brown of the Melrose police, who has on several occasions said that the annexed district needed a much larger police force. The meeting will be presided over by J. A. Thomas, president of the club.

FERRY FREIGHT SERVICE HAS ALL IT CAN HANDLE

RICHMOND, May 11.—Captain Hamilton, head of the new company handling freight by ferry service between Richmond and San Francisco, reports that his ferryboat has all that it can do. The service is being inaugurated from business men on both sides of the bay and will extend its service up the San Francisco and Sacramento rivers with other boats and barges. Work on building of a large warehouse at the lower end of the river was commenced today.

SAVE OUR SNAKES,
URGES PROFESSOR

Muhlenberg Teacher Thinks Some Creeping Things Very Valuable.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., May 11.—That the state ought to pass a law to protect certain kinds of snakes, harmless to man and beneficial to the farmer, was the opinion expressed in a lecture on "Nature Study" by Prof. H. D. Bailey, at Muhlenberg College.

"The king snake, the milk snake, the bull, the corn, fox and indigo snakes," said Professor Bailey, "are all valuable allies of the farmer, owing to their habit of largely confining their diet to rats, mice and other creatures obnoxious from the agriculture of view."

"Efforts are now being put forth in some of the states to induce legislatures to make laws, making it a crime, which is punishable by fine, to kill these beneficial creatures. In some of the western states efforts are afoot to increase the number of bull snakes, a harmless creature 7 to 9 feet long, which feeds almost exclusively on destructive rodents. The bull snake owes its name to the fact that it is seen so frequently in cornfields."

"The farmer, because of an innate hatred for anything serpent-like, invariably kills a snake when he sees it. So doing, he slays one of his best friends, for the reptile enters the field for the sole purpose of clearing it of the mice which are playing havoc with crops."

TITANIC RELICS
BRING LAWSUITS

No Appropriate Treaties Between U. S. and England Covering Issues.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—Five international law points have arisen over the proper disposition of the valuables found on the bodies of the Titanic victims, rescued by the Mackay-Bennett, and the department of State is trying to evolve a plan that will be in conformity with the law and at the same time expedite the task of turning over the property to the rightful owners.

The impression prevails that the power is invested in the British government to arrange for the distribution of the valuables, although it is pointed out that the danger of litigation and the delays of the law are likely to seriously hamper the solution of the problem. It is also stated that full responsibility rests with the British government for securing that heirs or relatives receive what belongs to them.

Requests for a ruling on the question have been received by the State Department, but the issue has not yet assumed official form as regards the British government, although it is expected the approval of the United States in the administration of the matter will be forthcoming. The board of inquiry into the sinking of the Titanic is expected to be held in London.

COMMISSION WILL PICK STAR PLAYER

Official Scorers to Determine Which Diamond Star Shall Get Car.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 11. — William A. Lange, better known as "Big Bill," has named the commission which will decide the ownership of the automobile by Hugh Chalmers for the leading player of the Pacific Coast League. William has named the official scorers in each of the league cities as the men who will decide the winner of the fine Chalmers-Detroit car.

The commission will consist of the following official scorers: Harry B. Smith, San Francisco; John J. Earle, Oakland; C. E. Smith, Sacramento; Bob Cronin, Portland; Ray Oliver, Los Angeles; and Harry Williams, Vernon. Should the commission disagree, then Lange will cast a deciding vote.

Chalmers, in giving this car, is following the precedent he set in the National and American League in 1910.

NEGRO HAS CHANGED. DECLARES WASHINGTON

BOSTON, May 11.—Dr. Booker T. Washington was applauded by 350 members of the Boston Congregational Club and the balcony of women when he arose to speak on "Progress of the American Negro" at the monthly meeting.

He drew his first illustration from his own experience of a few years ago, when he owned of the days of slavery handed him an old inventory of the farm in Virginia, including an item which read, "Boys, $1000."

He said, "It is due largely to your determination in planting and maintaining Hampton Institute, where I was educated."

He continued: "We are a fairly healthy race. 10,000,000, with some acquisitions from other races. During the period from 1800 to 1910 the whites increased (by aid of immigration) 22 per cent, and with no immigration the negroes increased 11 per cent—about the same as in England."

UBES BROOMSTICK TO OBTAIN FISHING BAIT

DALLAS, Tex., May 11.—Colonel Bill Broomstick, newspaper correspondent, who forsook the pen to become a fisherman, was seen today in his home state of Texas, gave out plans for a labor-saving device in gathering fishing worms. Colonel Broomstick, in overcoming a state law, recently made out a blanket license to fish in Texas waters. Explaining his fishing worm apparatus, Colonel Broomstick said:

"You take a broomstick 3/4 foot long, drive it into the spot likely to be a good place for worms. Leave the stick sticking out about six inches. Then take a rough board and rub it over the top of the broom handle. This rubbing will cause a vibration of the earth, and the worms, sherry and disturbed, will turn their way out of the ground. A little rest get a full pan of worms in a short time."

"But, colonel," asked a reporter, "don't it take work to rub the board over top of the stick?"

"Not a negro to rub the board," answered the colonel.

MOOSE COMMITTEE COMPLETE FRONTIER DAYS PAGEANT PLANS

MISS B. GRAHAM, WHO WILL BE CHIEF AID IN THE MOOSE FRONTIER DAYS PAGEANT.

The parade committee of the Moose reported at last night's meeting that final arrangements had been completed for the big pageant next Wednesday. Sheriff Frank Barnett has been appointed grand marshal of the parade and will choose his aides Monday.

At Friday night's meeting the Progress and Prosperity Committee of the Chamber of Commerce was represented by twenty members headed by Chairman W. A. Wann.

The committee has also co-operated with the Moose in urging the public to appear on the downtown streets in large numbers when the moving pictures of the parade are taken.

ROUGH RIDERS SHOOT UP CITY

Police Rush to the Scene, But Fail to Find Any Dead in Streets.

Captain of Police J. F. Lynch and Sergeant William Woods are suspecting that some of the "higher-ups" in the police department held a stop-watch on them last evening, at 5:30 o'clock, in order to determine just how long it would take them to get on the scene of a daylight holdup in the business district.

Needless to say, they both vindicated themselves and, incidentally, Patrolman Gannaw proved that he was not to be caught napping. The holdup occurred sure enough, and several revolver shots resounded through the street in the vicinity of the Croft Hotel.

Crowds dinnerward-bound were startled and an uproar ensued. Drums rushing through the streets, a drummer, H. O. A. Rush, dashed into the Croft Hotel, pursued by several cowboys and a volley of revolver shots.

Immediately there was consternation among the crowd, for the report spread that a band of outlaws was holding up the hotel.

In the midst of the turmoil appeared Officer Gannaw, who holds a "Johnny-on-the-spot" reputation in the department. He was hatless and coatless and in his right hand he clutched a small-sized cannon. Then it was that someone sent in a hurry-call to headquarters.

Lynch responded and heard an exciting voice at the other end telling him that bandits had shot several people in Washington street and that a policeman was calling for help.

Blamming up the receiver, Captain Lynch called upon Sergeant Wood to follow, and they sprang into the police automobile and broke a city ordinance in getting to the vicinity of the Hotel Croft. They were in time to smelt the smoke of the encounter, but the crowd was dispersing.

Someone had tipped it off that the whole affair had been a frameup and that some cowboys who are taking part in the Moose Roughriders' exhibition, being given at the Grove-street base ball park, were responsible for the exciting entertainment on Washington street. It then developed that permission had been granted for the affray, with very few of the authorities "in" on the deal.

Captain Lynch suspects that he was a victim; Sergeant Wood is pretty sure that he was.

"Why, we expected to find the dead lying all over the street," he said several hours later, when the laughs were all over.

Patrolman Gannaw dodged back into a tailor shop at Tenth and Washington streets, where, at the time of the outbreak, he had been waiting while a rent in his outer garment was being patched.

CAPTAIN DAY WILL ADDRESS MINISTERS

SAN FRANCISCO, May 11. — The Presbyterian Ministers' Union will meet tomorrow at 220 Sacramento street. An address will be delivered by Captain William J. Day of the California prison commission. For the past twenty years Captain Day has been interested in attempting to solve the problem of handling ex-convicts.

An invitation has been extended by the Moose to the various riding clubs to take part in the parade and numerous favorable replies have been received. One division of the parade will be composed of local equestrians.

Miss Graham's high school horses will be in line and will also take part in the daily performances at "Frontier Days" at the Grove street ball grounds.

The lists for the open riding and steer wrestling events are rapidly filling up and more than twenty members of the Moose have entered the special riding competitions for members of the order.

The parade will start from the Moose clubrooms Wednesday at noon and the first performance of "Frontier Days" will be given the same afternoon.

NEW ENGLANDERS AID EXPOSITION

Will Further Plans at Meeting to Be Held Tomorrow Night.

Four Governors of New England States have written to Secretary J. M. Palmer of the New England Association that they will co-operate with the California organization in the work of securing appropriations for the Panama-Pacific International Exposition of 1915.

According to the plan of former New Englanders now resident in this state, there will be erected in the near future a handsome structure to be known as the New England building, where the industries, arts, crafts and picturesque customs of New England will be shown.

Governor A. J. Pothier of Rhode Island writes that he will bring the matter to the attention of the next General Assembly and feels certain of favorable action. Similar communications have been received from Governor John A. Mead of Vermont, Governor Robert P. Bass of New Hampshire and Governor P. Baldwin of Connecticut.

TO GIVE PROGRAM.

At tomorrow night's meeting of the New England Association, those letters will be read and further discussion of the subject will take place. An interesting program of oratory and music has been arranged, a unique feature of which will be a whistling solo by Miss Bess Virginia Jenkins, aged 12, accompanied on the piano by her brother, Stanley H. Jenkins, aged 14.

President Smith announces that the meetings of the association will be marked by strict informality in dress as no class distinctions among members are desired. The meeting is to be held in the red room of the Fairmont hotel, and will be followed by refreshments from 7 o'clock to 10 o'clock.

Miss E. C. Schell, N. J., May 11.—Just as Miss Eva Schell and Sidney Nau of Pittsburgh were about to be married last night the mother of the bride's parents in this city, the marriage license was missed and the young couple and their assembled friends and relatives were thrown into a state of consternation.

The ceremony was delayed fifteen minutes while a frenzied search was made. Finally the document was found clasped in the chubby fist of an infant daughter of one of the guests, the child having been attracted by the large gold seal on the document.

DRINKS CASE OF BEER DAILY, WIFE CHARGES

ST. LOUIS, May 11.—For eight years T. A. Holbrook, a chemist employed by the John T. Milliken Chemical Company, has drunk a case of beer a day and three or four quarts of whiskey a week, according to a divorce petition filed by Mrs. L. E. Holbrook of 6234 A Theodosia avenue.

Holbrook's income is $208 a month, his wife says. A large part of it has been spent for drink, she alleges.

After their marriage, in 1904, Mrs. Holbrook charges her husband struck her the first time when she saved a neighbor from a fire in her home, near Fairfax, Mo.

In her petition, Mrs. Holbrook estimates that her husband has drunk, kicked and stood on her for thirty times since they moved to St. Louis in 1904.

Last Monday evening, she says, she stood on her when he waved her hand at him when he returned from work. He accused her of flirting with another man who was walking alone of him, she declares, and she started the quarrel which culminated in the separation three days ago.

SAYS POSTMASTER OPENED HIS MAIL

ST. LOUIS, May 11.—Sebastian Nitscher, former postmaster at Pacific, was placed on trial in the United States District Court Tuesday on a charge of tampering with the mails. The complaint against him is made by Rev. Father John A. Gilmer, pastor of the Catholic Church at Pacific who charges Nitscher with having addressed to him that he meant to use the information to be used in a factional fight in the church.

CROWDS LEARN ART OF FARMING AT DAVIS

Many Visitors at the State University Farm Basket Picnic.

ALL-DAY PROGRAM IS CARRIED OUT

Addresses, Livestock Parade and Ball Game Afford Entertainment.

DAVIS, May 11.—The fourth annual basket picnic held at the State University farm here today was largely attended. A program of addresses was given in the pavilion at 10:45 a. m., the speakers being President Benjamin Ide Wheeler and Judge N. A. Hawkins of the Yolo county superior court. Professor E. J. Wickson, dean of the agricultural department of the university, presided.

A large crowd of visitors was welcomed by a committee prior to the exercises. The guests enjoyed a basket luncheon at noon around picnic tables.

At 1:30 p. m. there was a live stock parade, beginning at the barn, moving to the main farm entrance and returning. The stock shown is owned by the university farm. In the line were horses of roan and Percheron and Shire draft types, Holstein, Jersey, shorthorn, Hereford and Polled Angus cattle. The animals were led by students.

At 2:30 o'clock a baseball game was played by the university farm team and the Sacramento high school. Music was furnished during the day by the Lincoln Union High school band, leader Principal A. D. Hoeschel.

From 3:30 to 5 p. m. the agricultural and horticultural demonstration train, which has just completed a run of 4000 miles and has been visited by more than 100,000 people, was open for additional inspection on the tracks near the Southern Pacific station.

No more beautiful setting for a basket picnic could be desired than that offered at the university farm. The popularity of these picnics has been increasing.

HORTICULTURAL EXHIBIT.

Among the many exhibits that were open to visitors was that of horticulture. Located as the farm is in the Sacramento Valley its problems in horticulture are naturally those concerning the valley. As an example the peach is a crop of immense value and on the farm will be found 22 varieties now regarded as of more or less commercial value. There are also 90 varieties which are now being tested in an effort to secure others that may be added to the commercial list of those now grown.

There is a large number of varieties of other fruits and nuts. In all cases experiments are being conducted in an endeavor to improve existing varieties or to develop new ones. There are 15 varieties of almonds, 20 of apples, 9 of apricots, 5 of cherries, 18 of plums, 8 of prunes, 5 of pears and 18 varieties of walnuts. There are not only 18 different varieties, but these are grafted to 29 different kinds of root stock, thus giving an opportunity for a test and experiment of very wide range.

Aside from the experimental work attached to the different varieties of fruits the students are able to obtain a practical acquaintance with the proper methods of cultivation, irrigation, spraying, pruning and all other operations that are connected with successful orchard work.

MODEL VINEYARD.

Twenty acres, divided into eight blocks of equal size, is devoted to the experimental vineyard. The vines are planted six feet apart in rows, with the rows 12 feet apart, thus giving about 600 vines to the acre. Many of the table varieties are now to California and in a few years the farm will be able to supply a number of cuttings of recommended varieties of choice grapes to interested parties. There are at the present about 60 varieties of choice table, raisin and wine grapes. There is also an assortment of different varieties of figs.

There is a complete plant consisting of a grafting house, sheds containing two callousing benches, disinfecting plant with steam boiler, cold frames and cutting benches, which were open to visitors.

GOLDFISH BAIT FOR OTHER FISH

Wealthy Disciple of Izaak Walton Has Aquarium for Novel Lure.

VENTURA, May 11.—Shades of Izaak Walton! If you would be a fisherman, a real fisherman, a trout-catcher—it's up to you to be original. Raise goldfish for bait. Yes, that's the very latest. And what's more, goldfish make good bait. Fish go after the gold with a hop, skip and a plunge, and why not? Don't men bite and jump for gold?

A wealthy follower of rod and reel (name withheld) from the northern part of the State and who makes regular trips to the Matilija region, does that very thing, according to the very latest reports from the big fishing grounds. At his estate in the north this sportsman has had constructed an aquarium, where he raises goldfish in large numbers. At the opening of the trout season he bothers not with the brown and red hackles, the red ants, professors and the other flies from "A" to "Z," the fancy and tricky spinners, the salmon eggs or not even the old reliable anglerworm. Not this fisherman. He simply goes to his goldfish hatchery, fishes a catch, whips his trusty pole and is off for the headwaters of the Ventura river.

And goldfish make good bait.

Fishing still continues good all along the Ventura river, and good catches are reported from those who whip the trout pole and are off for the headwaters of the Matilija and on up to the Sespe and the far-away places the sport was never better, and the fish are of good size. The trip to the upper Sespe is a very popular one with local sportsmen who can spare a few days. The lower Sespe, reached from Fillmore, is popular with some Los Angeles fishermen, and good catches are reported from there. However, for the man who combines fishing and autoing, the Ventura river anywhere from this city to the Matilija springs is the most popular.

J., May 11.—The twenty-seventh Annual meeting of the Association of American Physicians, which will convene here on Wednesday, May 15, promises to be the most interesting in the light of scientific discussion ever held by the association. The doctors will hold a two-day session, their organization numbering among its members some of the most noted physicians in the United States.

Among those who will address the delegates at the first day's session are Drs. Thomas A. Clayton, John Carroll, Le-wellyn F. Barker, F. J. Staden, David L. Erdahl, M. J. Rosenberg, Henry Sewall, B. B. Child and Eugene L. Opie. The

MINERS IN FAVOR OF ENDING COAL STRIKE

Four Hundred Delegates Will Gather Next Tuesday to Consider Compromise.

REFUSAL OF COMMITTEE CAUSE OF CONVENTION

Agreement Suggested by Men Not Passed by General Board.

WILKESBARRE, May 11.—While it is not generally believed that a strike will be advocated by the 400 miners' delegates who will meet here Tuesday to consider the compromise between the miners and operators suggested by their joint sub-committee and rejected by the general committee of the anthracite miners May 9, it was made patent today that a great number of the rank and file of coal miners are heartily in favor of terminating the struggle between the operators and their employees by this means. The radical element will be in the minority at the meeting, however, and though the tentative agreement of the sub-committee will probably be rejected, it is thought that the only action that will be recommended by the conference will be for further negotiations with the operators.

The convention will be composed of one delegate from each of the 400 local unions of the three coal districts involved, and will probably be presided over by National President John P. White of the miners' union. White has been ill for some time in the Iowa, however, and it is his condition is such that he will be unable to take the chair of the leadership of the meeting will be delegated to former state Senator William C. Green, who led the miners' delegates in their last conference with the operators in New York.

RESULT OF REFUSAL.

The present convention is the result of the refusal of the general committee of coal miners to ratify a compromise agreement suggested by sub-committees of the coal miners and coal operators, in New York, May 2. These joint committees submitted a tentative agreement which apparently gave the miners a 10 per cent increase over their present wage scale, but abolished the sliding scale under which they formerly worked. The result of this apparent increase of 10 per cent is estimated to be an actual net wage increase of a little more than 5 per cent under the contract that expired April 1.

Besides abolishing the sliding scale, the agreement provided that the sub-committee advocated a four-year term of contract ending March 31, 1916. The joint committees' refusal further called for a continuance of the original terms of the anthracite coal strike commission appointed in 1902 by President Roosevelt, which provides virtually for the maintenance of an open shop.

DISTASTEFUL TO MEN.

All of these recommendations are distasteful to the large body of miners and each will be debated upon by the delegates at the coming convention. The sub-committee was created as a result of a resolution introduced at the suggestion of John P. White, president of the United Mine Workers, at the joint conference in Philadelphia, April 10, and it is the contention of the operators that the tentative agreement submitted by the joint committees, having been rejected by the miners, obligates the miners to vote for its acceptance. The sub-committee report was unanimous.

NO OTHER PROPOSITION.

"It cannot be expected that the operators will have any further proposition to advance in view of the great care and thoroughness with which this one was prepared by the sub-committees, and in view of the authority and standing of the mine workers' representatives who took part in its preparation." Despite the seeming finality of this statement, however, it is generally believed that a refusal of the miners' convention to ratify the agreement will be followed by further negotiations between the mine workers and the operators.

MONKEYS THRIVE WELL IN COLD, IS REPORT

PHILADELPHIA, May 11.—The annual report of the board of directors of the Zoological Society of Philadelphia shows that the experiment tried this winter of keeping fifteen monkeys in an outside cage was successful, not a single monkey receiving as much as a cold. It was shown that only the tallest monkeys can stand the cold weather, the others get their tails frost bitten.

The report showed that the birth rate was increasing. Among the baby animals were one monkey, three piglets, two foxes, five raccoons, six prairie dogs, one deer, one American elk, four Japanese deer, seventeen parrots, seven, corn-cobbers with five ground rattlesnakes.

FRAUD CHARGED IN COUNTS' WILL

Chief of Belgian King's Cabinet Is One of the Persons Accused.

NEW YORK, May 11.—Count Guillaume d'Archoot, chief of the cabinet of the King of Belgium, is one of several persons who, it is alleged, profited by fraud and undue influence the will made by Countess Gaston d'Archoot on February 5 last, against the probate of which a contest was filed in the Surrogate's office.

Countess d'Archoot died on February 21 last at No. 27 West Tenth street, leaving a large estate, and one of her principal beneficiaries was Count d'Archoot, who was her nephew, and also was made one of the executors of the will. Countess d'Archoot was Miss Wilhelmine Detmold, and when she died her next of kin were several nephews and nieces. Of these, Mrs. Leonie Detmold Macomb, Mrs. Marie Lenthion, Mrs. Zella Lenthion Wheeler and Eugene Detmold have filed objections against the probate of the will in the ground of alleged fraud and undue influence practiced on the old testatrix by Count Guillaume d'Archoot and another nephew, Joseph De Tours Lenthion. The further ground given for the contest of the will is that Count d'Archoot made the will offered for probate and if she did she was of unsound mind when she executed the instrument, sixteen days before her death. One of the witnesses to the execution of the will, Pierre Mall, Belgian consul in this city, and the second executor named was Jonston De Forest, a member of the law firm of De Forest Brothers, who offered the will for probate.

MOTHER SUES DAUGHTER TO BREAK SPOUSE'S WILL

NEW YORK, May 11.—The Rev. Richard H. Sherman of the Episcopal Church, was a witness in the Supreme Court in the suit of Mrs. Georgia C. Balch against her daughter, Miss Balch, to upset the will of her husband, Col. L. E. Balch, of the old manufacturer, who left most of his $250,000 estate to his daughter. The clergyman lived at Point Pleasant, N. J., where the Balch family had a summer home, and he was acquainted with them. He said that Miss Balch's reputation was good.

As to her drinking liquor, Mr. Sherman said he had only seen her drink beer. He had seen her smoke cigarettes even in the presence of his wife and children, but as Mrs. Sherman and Miss Balch were friendly he said he could not turn her out on that account. Then came out in the testimony Mr. Sherman about himself, the first being: "You are a drinking man yourself, are you not?"

"I do drink water, milk, coffee, and I do drink beer. Do you call that a drinking man?" Mrs. Balch has alleged that her daughter had been confined in the Bloomingdale Asylum so that she could get hold of Mrs. Balch's estate. Dr. H. A. Haubold, one of the physicians who examined her, was also a witness. Counsel for Mrs. Balch asked him if he thought it extraordinary that the plaintiff should have been suspicious when three doctors walked in on her, and he said that he did not think so. Then the lawyer asked if he, too, would not be suspicious if three doctors were to visit him under the same circumstances. Dr. Haubold replied, "I would be more suspicious if three lawyers walked in on me." Justice Newburger was him- self too busy enjoying the joke to notice the general laughter that this reply created.

Margaret Shine, who had been a servant in the Balch household, said that Mrs. Balch accused her of another servant of cutting her clothes, and told of other alleged eccentricities of the plaintiff.

CUPID THINS RANKS OF BACHELOR GIRLS

SHARON, Pa., May 11.—Cupid is playing "hot" with the Bachelor Girls' club of West Middlesex, a village five miles south of here. The latest despatch was Miss Susan J. Heasley, a charter member, who was married yesterday to William H. Gilkey of the East Side, former county commissioner. Mrs. Gilkey always took an active part in the affairs of the Bachelor Girls' club, and took a solemn obligation that she would never, never fall a victim to matrimony.

Since the formation of the club quite a number of the members have found the man necessary, and with utter regard for the constitution and bylaws have simply taken matters in their own hands and married. The bachelor girls that were left turned out in a body and gave their member who broke the rules and her husband a rousing serenade.

NEW YORK, May 11.—Frank J. Gould was among the passengers who sailed on "La France" for Europe last week, accompanied by a few Kellys, with whom he appeared when on the decks of the large liner before she pulled away from her moorings. Gould married Miss Kelly some time ago, after procuring a divorce from his wife, who was another Miss Kelly before her marriage to Gould.

Kelly seems to have a fascination for the millionaire, for on this occasion he is talking with him abroad not only the former Miss Kelly, now his wife, but also Hetty, Matilda, Mabel and Arthur Kelly.

SALVATIONIST TO VISIT THIS CITY

Territorial Commander Estill to Speak Here This Evening.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 11.—Commissioner Thomas Estill of Chicago, territorial commander of the Salvation Army, is here on a visit of inspection. He will be present at a public service tomorrow at 8 p. m. in Salvation Army hall, Goddard street, and will speak at the Salvation Army chapel in Oakland. On Monday night he will preside at a concert to be given in the Oakland city hall. Tomorrow morning, with his staff, he will pay a visit to San Quentin prison and conduct a service. It is perhaps not generally known that there is a corps of Salvation Army soldiers in the penitentiary, composed of men who have been converted while incarcerated there.

LEGLESS MAN TAKES HIS SECRET TO GRAVE

DIGBY, N. S., May 11.—Death has finally claimed "George," a legless and silent foreigner of mystery. He was found marooned on the beach at Digby Cove in 1896. During nearly a half century the man had been refused to divulge the secret of his identity, his nationality or the reason of his abandonment by a strange vessel. Declining to talk, he was known only as "George" and spent his last days a ward of the government.

One afternoon in August, 1903, two fishermen saw an unknown schooner tack into the harbor. A boat was lowered over the vessel's side. And when the boat was hoisted back, the man was found lying on the deck. The next day a man was found in a dory on the shore. He had a bottle of water and a package of tea biscuits were within his reach. The man's legs had been badly injured by the work he had been doing apparently by a fall from a boat.

When spoken to he moaned, almost unintelligibly, "George." Every effort was made to get him to talk, but he would not. Questions put to him were met by sullen silence. No language was used, but to no purpose. He was taken to the hospital, where he remained for two or three months. The name of the vessel which put him ashore was never ascertained.

She proceeded today to demonstrate her own bravery by riding up to the top of the skyscraper on one of the iron girders as it was hoisted by a crane.

FEATHERED LIFE USEFUL TO FARMER

Fish and Game Commission Points Out Economic Value of Birds.

The California Fish and Game Commission has issued a series of articles dealing with the economic value of bird life in its relation to the farmer and fruit grower.

With the introduction of new features in agricultural industry, new pests have been added to interfere with the progress of the farmer. San Jose scale and codling moth are examples of new obstacles placed in the way to prevent the perfect growth.

These pests usually lay dormant and unnoticed until they become too numerous to be exterminated. Once they obtain a foothold, however, they are established to stay, and add their toll to the immense loss already levied on the farmer and fruit grower by native insects. While much time as well as money is being expended in trying to find artificial methods of destroying these pests, we too often overlook one of nature's means of controlling them, which is the birds. It is an easy matter to destroy the birds, but it is not so easy to control the insect, weed and rodent forces which are sure to follow such destruction.

It is a well established fact that the destruction of the insect birds in this country has been followed by a marked increase in pests which devastate the crops, causing a subsequent loss to the farmer and fruit grower.

90-DAY SENTENCE FOR LARCENY OF HUSBAND

MILWAUKEE, May 11.—Charged with the larceny of a husband, Mary Toner, 28 years old, was sentenced to ninety days in the house of correction in District Court Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Gertrude Ford, 280 Sixth street, was the complaining witness, and alleged that her poor, helpless husband often fell into the clutches of Miss Toner, who frequently kept him away from her for two or three nights at a stretch.

A letter written by Miss Toner, a colored woman, to L. Ford and intercepted by Mrs. Ford, was the last straw and resulted in a warrant for the woman's arrest.

The letter was read to Judge Neelen. Part of it went thus: "I'm so sorry we had our little playhouse broke up by a awful wife. I think she ought to mind her own business. I certainly hope, my deary sweet-heart, that our little nest will be made over again. Tear this letter up with a thousand kisses."

After Judge Neelen read this epistle he turned to Miss Toner and asked: "What do you want to steal this woman's poor husband for? Aren't you ashamed of yourself?"

"Ah nevah stole her husband, judge!" "You didn't?" "Yes, I nevah done more than borrowed him. An' always returned him to his wife an' can't deny it, judge. If he was satisfied an' don't see where she had any right to butt right in to my private affairs?"

"You take a peculiar view of this affair," commented the court. "Ah only mean to say that this woman is a jealous of me, judge; that's the whole thing in a nutshell. She's jealous of my good looks."

"She has good cause to be jealous," snapped the court. "I think you need about ninety days."

Liquid Compound of Sulphur Rolling Hundreds of Cases of Rheumatism—Many Send for Free Booklet That Gives You Valuable Information.

By F. W. STRANG.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 11.—Sulphur has taken California by storm. Never was such a popular remedy introduced into the Golden State. Thousands of cures testify to the power of Stewart's Liquid Compound of Sulphur. The gospel of Sulphur has now been preached by the newspapers from British Columbia through Washington, Oregon and California to the Mexican line. Everywhere has its success demonstrated that it is the great medicine of the time.

Not a whit less enthusiasm do the people of California show over Sulphur than did those of Seattle and Washington, where Sulphur first came to be known. It has rolled like a wave down the coast, and multitudes owe their relief from the disease to the merits of the new medicine.

Never did rheumatism meet such a foe as Sulphur. The west is especially afflicted with this dread disease, and until the arrival of Sulphur nothing seemed to give more than slight relief. Now the cure is at hand. Sulphur's wonderful curative properties have left not a sufferer where the medicine has been taken carefully, conscientiously and in accordance with the instructions given in the interesting booklet accompanying each bottle.

MOUNTAIN LIONS CAPTURED ALIVE

OVANDO, Mont., May 11.—Hunting of mountain lions in the fastnesses of the Rocky Mountains in Montana is becoming one of the most popular of big game sports as a result of the efforts of Joe Wabbling, one of the best-known hunters and trappers in the Northwest. Wabbling lives in the Swan river country, the big hunting territory of the Flatheads, the Kootenais, Kalispells and other Indians, about three miles from Holland Lake, in a section densely timbered and fringed with the loftiest of mountain ranges. Three days' drive is necessary to reach Wabbling's place from the nearest railroad. Drummond, on the main line of the Northern Pacific railroad.

Wabbling has to his record the slaying of about thirty mountain lions in the course of several years. He now has the aid of the finest Alaskan dogs in the state. No other dog has been found so well fitted for lion hunting. When once they have struck a trail they never leave it, and until they have the lion trod and their baying has brought their master, but they are not to be tampered with, their chase is incessant.

Wabbling has made several ineffectual efforts to domesticate mountain lions for their pelts, but without success. Weeks of captivity failed utterly to soften the spirit of the beast, and finally Wabbling was compelled to turn over the animals to various zoos throughout the country.

Wabbling's capture of mountain lions alive is a thrilling event. The lion is held in a cage, and Wabbling and two of his ranch hands approach from different directions with lariats in hands. Wabbling is an expert with a rope. While one of the ranch hands is spitting at the enraged lion, Wabbling keeps the animal engaged. Wabbling's rope flies through the air and settles around the neck of the lion. Then a second lasso finds its way around the bundle of bristling fur and finally a third.

Mr. Lion is then dragged from his perch, and when he reaches the ground is smothered into captivity and submission with the use of two immense bear hides.

Two moving picture companies have been negotiating with Wabbling for scenes attendant upon capturing a mountain lion alive, and it is likely that a corps of moving picture photographers may enter the Swan river for hunting scenes. Here is found the Rocky Mountain goat in its natural haunts, and the nimble creature clambering among the loftiest crags and nooks in the precipices in the Mission range and the Little Kootenais, which flank hundreds of square miles of virgin forests. Last fall when the heavy snows drove the big game from the ridges to the low lands, 128 white tail deer by actual count, began an attack upon Wabbling's haystacks in his pastures.—St. Paul Dispatch.

18-MONTH-OLD CHILD FOUND BURIED IN MUD

FULLALP, May 11.—Missing her 18-month-old child, Mary George Richter, living at the end of Stewart street, near Clark's creek, prompted by rain on Sunday that something would happen to her baby there, rushed to the creek and found the child unconscious with head partially buried in the mud, where it had fallen evidently while at play. She pulled the baby from the creek, according to her husband, who was near by. He rushed to the spot, and, taking the unconscious child from the arms of its mother, lifted it by its feet and with the head down shook the water from its lungs. A few moments later consciousness was restored.

Mr. and Mrs. Richter are among the highest hop growers in the valley, and have been residents of Fullalup for a number of years.

YEARS OF SUFFERING ENDED.

C. M. C. Stewart Sulphur Co., Seattle: Dear Sir: I have been taking Sulphur for some time. I visited your home first. You had gone East, but I was given two bottles of your medicine, and then as soon as it was on the market I bought a $1 bottle. I thank God every day for such a medicine. I am 68 years old. I had suffered from rheumatism and stomach trouble for years, but now my stomach is cured. My rheumatism is no longer so bad. I could take a walk out of my chair. It left after I used Sulphur. I also had kidney and bladder trouble. It is all gone. I sent away all the little booklets I had to people in other parts of the United States. I wish you would send me some more to send to friends. If you wish to use my name you are at liberty to do so. (Signed) LOIS A. BOBLET, Blaine.

to health that can be traveled with enjoyment at each step. The booklet is honored wherever Sulphur is known.

The Stewart Sulphur Company's offer to send a booklet free to all who ask for it is being spreading over its entire territory. How Sulphur is taken, and why it makes such wonderful cures. I predict that several hundred thousand people in California will soon be readers of the remarkable little work.

It has been a pleasure as I have traveled through California to learn of some of the many marvelous cures wrought in this state. There are scores of persons in this city alone who will tell you of the change of climate since until their final days. Let me tell of some of these instances:

NEWSPAPER MAN CURED. I have permission to refer to the case of Mr. Harry C. Noe, circulation manager of the San Francisco Post. His case was another demonstration of the power which Sulphur has over Rheumatism by driving the poisons and impurities out of the system.

He was so severely afflicted with Rheumatism, starting in his lower limbs and feet, that he was unable to walk. He was so afflicted that he was confronted with the necessity of resigning his position, and returning to his former home in the east. He was in California, and the change of climate would do him good.

A close friend to Mr. Noe had heard of Sulphur, and urged him to obtain a bottle. So the sufferer crossed the street, and purchased a 50-cent bottle. He made a time for himself, and taking the medicine when he began taking the medicine. It was April 15. He showed me the notation.

The first notation in his diary, on April 25, reads: "Rheumatism almost gone." On April 28, "Rheumatism completely cured, and walked fourteen miles as a Sunday recreation through the Swiss Colony vineyards south of the city."

Another case that came to my attention was that of a man who had been afflicted with Rheumatism to such a degree that he was unable to walk. He was in California, and the change of climate would do him good. He was so afflicted that he was confronted with the necessity of resigning his position, and returning to his former home in the east. He was in California, and the change of climate would do him good.

DECLARE WAR AGAINST "COMMUNING MOSQUITO"

MONTCLAIR, N. J., May 11.—Communing mosquitoes that travel back and forth between Montclair and the Hackensack and Newark meadows each day, are to be warred against by the anti-mosquito crusaders of this town, if the co-operation of the Erie and Lackawanna railroad companies can be enlisted. Up to the present time it has been thought that the marsh mosquitoes that came to this town in the early morning hours, and fed on the blood of the people, were the cause of the disease. But the anti-mosquito crusaders of this town, if the co-operation of the Erie and Lackawanna railroad companies can be enlisted. Up to the present time it has been thought that the marsh mosquitoes that came to this town in the early morning hours, and fed on the blood of the people, were the cause of the disease.

According to Dr. Kenneth F. Junior of Brooklyn, one of the most eminent expert whose advice was sought by the Women's Club, it appears that the marsh mosquitoes are in the habit of boarding the trains as they pass over the Hackensack and Newark meadows, and entering the cars as passengers. It is said that the visitors from the marshes spend the night here, and presumably they return to their familiar habitat the next morning.

One of the Lackawanna officials said that it is altogether probable that the mosquitoes make their way to Montclair on freight trains, but he did not think it possible that any of the mosquitoes are apt enough to board the company's fast flying passenger trains. He intimated that there was a strong probability of the mosquitoes commuting with the trains over the Erie road, whose trains have a more leisurely gait.

SHE HATES UGLY MEN AND ALSO BALD HEADS

CHICAGO, May 11.—Because Mrs. Adelaide Maud McKee, society woman, member of the D. A. R. and the Chicago Women's Club, hates "old, ugly and bald-headed men" is no reason that she is declared insane, according to Judge John Owens of the county court.

Francis T. McKee, husband, a wealthy contractor applied for a writ asking that she be sent to an asylum. He testified that her principal topic of conversation consisted of criticisms of the personal appearance of men.

Judge Owens halted the trial and declared that Mrs. McKee had a right to set her own standards of personal beauty for men, and if she did not admire the bald-headed species it was no one's concern, but her own. He denied McKee's writ and soundly scored the plaintiff for bringing such a plea into court. Mrs. McKee says she will sue for divorce.

FAVORS ROTTING TO PAYING WIFE

Spouse Fights Her Husband's Change of Venue; Makes Public Letters.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 11.—In an effort to prevent her husband's request for a change of venue to Los Angeles of a divorce suit which she has instituted against him being granted, Mrs. Charles W. McDonald, wife of a wealthy oil operator of Kern county and Mexico, filed an affidavit in the Superior Court today declaring her husband has no stated place of residence and incorporating in the affidavit two letters she received from him since their separation. Mrs. McDonald is with her father, James H. Borlan, an insurance man of 2619 Pacific avenue.

Mrs. McDonald in her divorce suit, which was filed several months ago, charged her husband with cruelty. Among other things she avers he greatly humiliated her while they were living in Los Angeles by running a bill of $800 at the Hotel Netherlands, which he did not pay.

SHOW REGISTRATION. In support of his contention for a change of venue to Los Angeles, attorneys for the husband have forwarded to the local courts a copy of the registration roster of Los Angeles, which shows that McDonald is a registered voter of that city.

One of the letters Mrs. McDonald furnished a copy of yesterday was written by the husband while a passenger on the Hamburg-American liner Desbours, en route to Buenos Ayres. In it he declared he would sooner rot in a foreign dungeon than pay her alimony. The letter in part follows:

"If you succeed in getting judgment against me you will never collect it, for in such a case I will never return to the United States. I would rot in a foreign prison cell rather than submit to the enforced demands of trickery."

ASKS TO VISIT. The other letter, which was dated Mexico City, December 19 last, and which was written previously to the Buenos Ayres letters, asks the wife's permission to visit her in this city. In part it follows:

"Dear Florence: On my return I would like to come to San Francisco and see you and Billy for the last time. So with this in view will you kindly write a line in care of John D. Tripp Company, Faye building, Los Angeles, and state whether or not you will permit me to see you and the boy if I would come to San Francisco, as this would be the only reason I would come there."

"After my last coming to Buenos Aires, South America, I ask this with no other intention in view than to find out times' sake and the love which once existed between us. I wish you a happy Christmas and New Year."

NAVAL OFFICER IS SEEKING RE-TRIAL

Commander Walker Asks That Wife's Suit for Divorce Be Heard Again.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 11.—Another chapter was added today to the protracted and involved marital troubles of Commander James W. G. Walker, U. S. N., son of the late Rear-Admiral Walker, and his wife, formerly Nina Cain of Washington, when attorneys for Walker pleaded before the Superior Court for a retrial of the action by which Mrs. Walker was granted a divorce at Newport April 25, 1911.

In her divorce petition, Mrs. Walker named Mabel Cochran, formerly a Boston waitress, Commander Walker today presented affidavits from ten physicians to disprove the grounds upon which his wife was granted a decree and the affidavit presented an equal number of affidavits to sustain the charges against Commander Walker. The company, it is said, is "logged out" and has no further use for the lumber carrier.

The Pacific Mail liner City of Pinar arrived from San Francisco at 5:10 o'clock this morning and left at noon for Ancon direct. She carried away 18 passengers from the Northern metropolis and three from Los Angeles. Her cargo consists of 5000 tons of general merchandise for the canal zone and for trans-shipment to New York.

Her Initial Season In Tights Success. Humble Singer Now Winning Fame in New York in "Robin Hood."

NEW YORK, May 11.—Miss Florence Newcomb, not long ago a humble singer in Pittsburgh, is now a Broadway "find" and managers are bidding staggering prices for her services. The reason is her performance of Alan-a-Dale in the revival of "Robin Hood."

Choose Pretty Texas Girl to Christen Ship

MISS CLAUDIA LYONS

NEWPORT NEWS, May 11.—The latest battle ship built for the United States navy is the "Texas" which is to be launched at the yards of the Newport News Shipbuilding company about the middle of May.

She will be the heaviest ship ever launched, and equipped with the most modern improvements. Her displacement will be 27,000 tons.

Miss Claudia Lyons, the pretty daughter of Colonel Cecil Lyons, the leader of the Republican party in Texas, will be the sponsor of the ship.

LOGGING STEAMER NOT TO BE SOLD

Owners of Iaquia Deny That Big Vessel Is No Longer Fit.

LOS ANGELES, May 11.—Persistent rumors that the steamer Iaquia, now discharging in port, is about to be sold to others by the Eastern Redwood Company of Eureka are being denied by the owners, according to reports from the Northern metropolis and three from Los Angeles. The company, it is said, is "logged out" and has no further use for the lumber carrier.

The Pacific Mail liner City of Pinar arrived from San Francisco at 5:10 o'clock this morning and left at noon for Ancon direct. She carried away 18 passengers from the Northern metropolis and three from Los Angeles. Her cargo consists of 5000 tons of general merchandise for the canal zone and for trans-shipment to New York.

The yacht Hawaii left Honolulu May 6 for San Pedro to enter in the regular annual ocean race between the two ports. She is commanded by W. R. Stroud of the Hawaiian Yacht Club.

POLICE AND ARMED MINERS BATTLE

State Troops Are Kept Busy Protecting Workers in the Strike District.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., May 11.—Five hundred striking miners gathered at various collieries today and in three cases the state troops had to interfere to prevent bloodshed. The most serious outbreak occurred at the Pine Ridge Colliery at Miners' Hill, where a squad of troopers caught strikers attacking regular men, engineers and pump men. The crowd was dispersed and the leaders arrested. Two other times the troops arrived at the scene of trouble in time to rescue workmen.

POLICE KEPT BUSY. SCRANTON, Pa., May 11.—Following the killing today by State troopers of a 14-year-old boy at Oliphant colliery, several minor battles occurred during the day at North Scranton. Nearly every foreign miner appears to be armed and the local police are powerless to cope with the situation. Every man of the State constabulary who can be spared from other points is on duty between here and North Scranton, and they are kept continually dashing from one colliery to another to quell outbreaks. The sight of the black clad troopers and their glistening sticks is the only thing which cowers the rioters.

CLUB TO MAKE TOUR OF THE CITY

300 Members of Commercial Body to Hold Annual Dinner.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 11.—The "rubber-neck wagons" of San Francisco will be busy next Friday when 300 members of the San Francisco Commercial Club will make a tour of the city. They will leave the Merchants' Exchange building at 4 p. m., visit the exposition site and hear a lecture on the coming world's fair. A side trip also be taken through the factory district.

At the conclusion of the ride the annual dinner of the club will be held. Amateur "spellers" who will point out the features of interest along the route. Moving pictures will be taken of the jaunt.

MAN INJURED IN ELEVATOR BEGS FOR END IN DEATH

NEW YORK, May 11.—Caught in between the elevator platform and the fourth floor at the International Garage, No. 222 West 40th street, John Harvey, 26, a laborer there, suffered excruciating agony for an hour and three-quarters while the floor of the elevator came down and crushed him.

Harvey's screams were heard all over the building, and again and again he begged the elevators to kill him. While the man was slowly dying a hospital surgeon tried to lessen his sufferings by administering morphine and a Catholic priest gave him the last rites of his church. The man died shortly after the firemen succeeded finally in cutting away the floor of the elevator.

The accident was caused by Harvey's losing his balance while ascending with a large touring car on the elevator. It is said that he reached for the cable to stop the lift, when his hand caught in the man's left foot and right leg being crushed in order to free the sufferer a rope was lowered into the shaft and slung around the man to take the weight of his body off his crushed and pinned limbs.

HE COURTED GIRL 3 YEARS BUT MARRIES MOTHER

WORCESTER, May 11.—"Why don't you marry my sister?" asked comely Mrs. Joseph Karpozit at a recent social at the Karpozit home.

"I'd rather kiss the married one," said Tony, in reply.

"Then Tony told me he would give me $500 to marry his sister," said Mrs. Karpozit in district court today. "And I told him to put up the money and go ahead. Instead of one she took three. I took the money and put it in the bank."

That was the testimony brought out in court today during a hearing on a charge of larceny against the woman's husband by the man who did the kissing.

Lewsky regretted the price he had paid for the kisses and wanted his money back, but could not get it. Then he swore out a warrant for Karpozit's arrest and told the court he knew nothing about it as he was out in the barn milking the cows, but he said his wife obtained the money and told him she got it as a result of the dare she gave Lewsky.

She made Lewsky put up the $500 with Mike Molokovitz, who came to the house with him, and as soon as the kissing was over she grabbed the money from Lewsky and kept it.

She opened a bank account in one of the Worcester savings banks Monday with the money. Judge Utley ordered the discharge of Karpozit.

"ARE WE EATING OUR GRANDPARENTS?" MAYBE

CINCINNATI, May 11.—Who knows, we may be eating some of our grandparents. Not one thing goes to waste in this world. It is a case of evolution.

These observations were contained in a letter to Chief Sanitary Inspector Polson yesterday. The writer declares that dangerous germs are gathered in graveyards and offered for sale in grocery stores and at market places. He also declares even children go into a cemetery near the city limits to scratch for worms.

Western Girl Makes Success As Violinist

MISS MABEL CORDELIA LEE

BERLIN, May 11.—Mabel Cordelia Lee is one of the American girls who have made a success abroad. Mabel does not come from Boston, Cincinnati or New York. She hails from South Dakota, still a western girl has just as much opportunity to make good, which has been proved in this case.

Miss Lee has made a great success as a violin player in Europe, and the critics of Berlin say she is the prettiest girl on the stage. She has just made a triumphant tour of Russia, and received an enthusiastic welcome on her return to Berlin.

She played at the Bluthner Saal with an orchestra under Theo Spiering, well known as the former concert master of the Philharmonic orchestra.

BABY WAS ALL RIGHT; SCALES WERE WRONG

SPOKANE, May 11.—One of the most accurate and delicate scale tests ever required of his office was made today by Inspector of Weights and Measures Schultz, and the prettiest, most expensive and most inaccurate baby scales Schultz had ever seen was presented for his inspection by a handsomely dressed young woman.

"What is the matter with it?" demanded the young mother. "Baby weighs a quarter of a pound more in the afternoon than he does in the morning, and yesterday he lost a pound."

After a thorough test Mr. Schultz condemned the scale with its satin-lined basket, but added the mother to purchase a counter-scale without trimmings upon which he placed the official guarantee of accuracy.

PEG-TOP TROUSERS CLASSED AS 'POEM'

PARIS, May 11.—The merits of "peg-top" pants, predicted by sartorial experts as the coming vogue, are thus eloquently described by "M. Pierre de Treves, arbiter of men's fashions in France: "Fitting tightly around the ankle and falling straight down on the shoe, this cut has the advantage of showing off properly a neat foot. Six inches from the ground exactly, the straight fall of the cloth is broken in the slightest possible way. It is a mere bagatelle, a mere nothing, but it is a poem in itself, and makes the arch of the aristocratic foot stand out in all its beauty."

WHEN A WIDOW WANTS A MAN SHE GETS ONE

MARINETTE, Wis., May 11.—The first genuine leap year wedding of the year took place here when Mrs. Hattie Wilcox, 44, of Menominee took Philip Wilcox, 26, of Saginaw, Mich., to wed.

The bride is 46 and the groom 50. She told the county clerk she proposed to Weins, and not to miss fire after taking that step she personally procured the license.

She said it was her third trip on the matrimonial ship, having divorced her first husband and living to survive her second husband.

That she thought she needed a husband and that the easiest way she knew of to get one was to ask for "a man," was the way she explained the matter.

TRIPS TO SHOWS ARE PRESCRIBED BY COURT

CHICAGO, May 11.—Personally conducted family trips to nickel shows, parks and other places of amusement were ordered by Judge Charles N. Goodnow as a cure for family illa.

"The advice was given" to Loyal Abbott, of 1339 West Jackson boulevard, who admitted that he had been spending his leisure away from home with men friends. He said he had met a "bad bunch."

Judge Goodnow ordered him to go home and "bun" with his family, take them to 5-cent theaters, visit the parks each Sunday and amuse them. Abbott promised to do this and left the courtroom with his wife happily clinging to his arm.

TEETH ARE HUMAN MACHINERY

If you had a piece of machinery, would you let it run daily for years without one drop of oil?

Would not you expect to spend something in repairs to keep this machine in order?

Teeth are the machinery which grind all the nutrition for the human organism. My modern system of dentistry is painless. I employ no boring process and use no anesthetic or injections. Mine is a simple and more pleasant method that leaves no disagreeable after-effects.

I keep all my own work in repair FREE, providing you let me look it over every six months. This is my guarantee.

WHY I CAN GIVE YOU FAIR PRICES.

Because I do not have high rent or unnecessarily expensive office furniture, for which you would have to help pay. (My offices are clean and comfortable). This enables me to give you the very best materials at prices below those you can get elsewhere. I figure on a volume of business which enables me to make a fair profit.

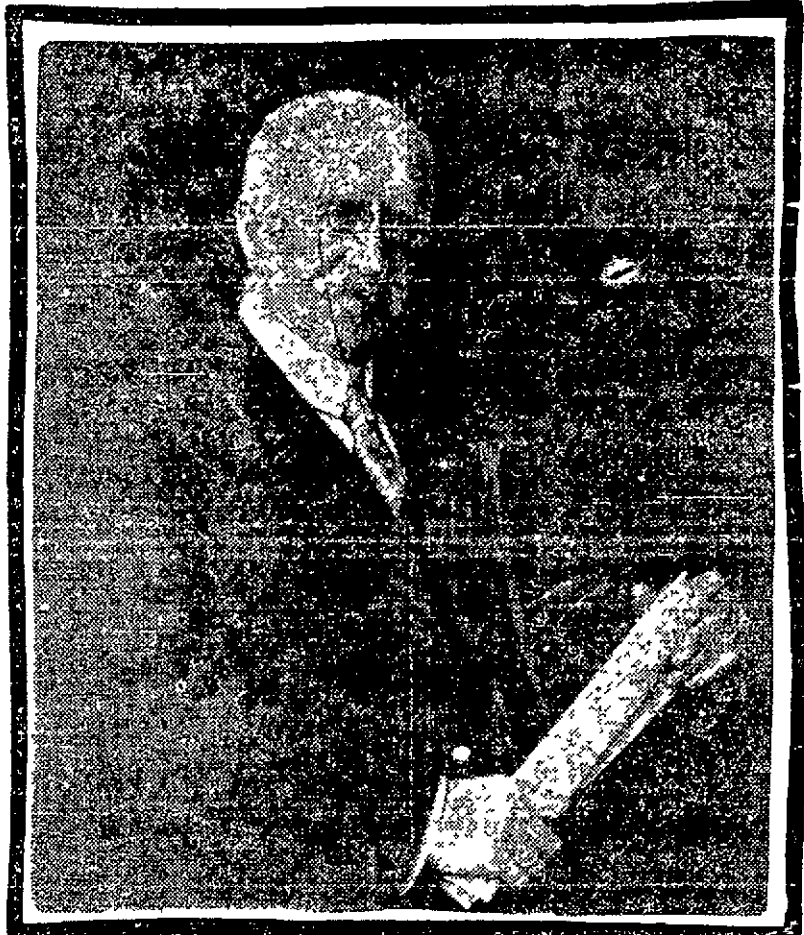

I would like to explain this more fully. Call and see me. You place yourself under no obligations.

I am the inventor of an inexpensive method of inserting teeth without plates. Don't have any roots or teeth extracted until you see me.

BELOVED ORGANIST COMPLETES FORTY YEARS OF ABLE SERVICE

SAMUEL D. MAYER, FOR FORTY CONSECUTIVE YEARS ORGANIST OF THE FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH, SAN FRANCISCO.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 11.—Forty consecutive years of service as organist of the First Congregational church of this city were made the subject of felicitations on Monday night last to Samuel D. Mayer, one of the best known musicians of San Francisco. The occasion was a reception given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Mayer at the First Congregational church, when several hundred members of the congregation, headed by Dr. Charles E. Aked, pastor of the church, and many old friends of the distinguished musician assembled to congratulate him.

The reception was made an opportunity to felicitate the organist on his forty years of service, covering the pastorate of five prominent clergymen. During the early part of the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Mayer received their guests, after which a supper was served during which the congratulatory addresses were made by Dr. Aked and a number of old-time friends.

DR. AKED'S TRIBUTE.
In speaking of Mayer and his lengthy connection with the church, Dr. Aked took occasion to say:

"This years of service are among our most cherished possessions. A great-hearted, sweet-natured, loyal gentleman, a gentleman in the old and splendid meaning of the word, courtly and tender and chivalrous, this church is proud of him and grateful to him and grateful to God for him. It would be interesting to know whether there is another organist in America who has served one church uninterruptedly for forty years."

IN OAKLAND FOUR YEARS.

Mayer's connection with musical life in San Francisco is an extended one. He came to this city from New York in 1868 and was first a member of the choir of Trinity, where his brother was organist. A year later the death of his brother was followed by his selection for the post of organist, from which position he later went to St. John's church in Oakland, remaining there four years. In 1872 Mayer came back to this city and to the church where he has remained since that time. During his term of service he has seen the church presided over by five pastors, Rev. A. L. Stone, Rev. C. D. Barrows, Rev. C. O. Brown, Rev. George C. Adams and the present pastor, Dr. Aked. Mayer has also acted as grand organist for all the Masonic orders of the city, which position he fills at the present time.

DENIES FLOODS ENDANGER CITY

New Orleans Relief Committee Secretary Sends Out Denial.

Denial of the reports that New Orleans is affected by the floods in the Mississippi valley has been received at the Chamber of Commerce in the form of a dispatch from M. B. Trevelyan, secretary of the New Orleans flood relief committee and the New Orleans Progressive Union.

The telegram, which is under date of May 10 from New Orleans, is as follows: Please post this as a bulletin to your members and give copies to your newspapers. The city of New Orleans is not affected by the floods in the Mississippi valley, though a number of the parishes of the state of Louisiana have been inundated and the floods have therefore wrought great damage outside of the city. New Orleans is herself aleviating distress with contributions of money, clothing, bedding and the state militia aiding in rescue work. No levees within 100 miles of New Orleans have broken and no studies that this city is under water are the wildest sort of irresponsible canards. The United States, the state and city engineers agree that New Orleans will pass safely through the crisis and that the worst is now over. The greatest damage is the farmers' loss of opportunity to make crops, and we are now working out a plan to begin in the reconstruction of our agricultural districts as soon as the waters recede. New Orleans, because of its peculiar defensive strength, is the safest city in the Mississippi, Ohio or Missouri valleys, despite the fact that Louisiana must protect herself from the waters of the Gulf of Mexico and the Gulf of Mexico.

It is the duty of the national government by a broad and sane system of conservation at the head waters such as contemplated in the Newlands river reclamation bill. Why should Louisiana spend millions of dollars annually to protect herself from the waters which come from nearly two-thirds of the Union? Louisiana has spent $50,000,000 out of the public treasury and private individuals and railroad millions more for levee protection since the civil war. We earnestly urge the citizens of the United States and particularly the newspapers to give us the only outside of false and alarming stories, and support of the Newlands river regulation bill, which will harness the floods and force them to serve instead of to destroy.

HANGS BY A ROPE TO RESCUE CHILD
Eleven-Year-Old Boy Rescues Three-Year-Old Lad From Well Bottom.

Courage has won a college education for a heroic hero. Dangling head down at the end of a rope, 30 feet below the earth's surface, in a bored well only 15 inches wide, he rescued a three-year-old boy, who had fallen in.

When the cries of the baby came faintly to the surface as the well-borers returned to work one afternoon they realized his terrible predicament. No man could be lowered in that 15-inch bore, no grappling hooks could be used without almost certainly killing as they rescued. To a whole big enough to admit a man, the boy was lowered for the tiny victim, and suffocation before help could reach him.

Henry Matthews, a tailor's apprentice, volunteered to do the only thing possible. So they tied a stout rope first, down the narrow hole. Twice they let him down and brought him up. Each time he tried, but failed to grasp the baby. Then again he went down, and the third time emerged with the baby strapped firmly in his hands.

"Want nothin'," said Henry, when the men cheered and shook his hand. Then he went back to the tail shop.

But the baby's father, B. J. Grant, cashier in a bank, will see that Henry gets a college education, besides the hero medal.

REMOVAL OF MOSQUITO TO END FEVER EPIDEMIC
WASHINGTON, May 11.—The elimination of the mosquito in Cuba and the Panama canal zone has been the means of ending the yellow fever epidemics, which have been the cause of much destruction to human life in those localities.

Dr. W. C. Gorgas has had the sanitary work in the canal zone under his supervision, and foreign experts who have examined his work declare that it is one of the medical wonders of the age.

The National Drainage Congress is a meeting of the most competent men to assume control of the project. His experience, and the wonderful results obtained from his scientific exploits placed him in a position where confidence can be placed in his ability to carry out the destruction of the insects that carry so much poisonous infection from one person to another.

L. Wells of Walla Walla. It has been discovered that Sebastiano was a member of a famous bandit band, headed by his father.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE IS THEME OF STRICKLER New Yorker Lectures to Audience in the Macdonough Theater

A lecture on Christian Science was given at the Macdonough Theater by Virgil O. Strickler of New York, a member of the Board of Lectureship of the mother church in Boston. The speaker was introduced by Orrin W. Jackson of First Church of Christ Scientist of Oakland.

Mr. Jackson said: "Friends, humanity is slowly awakening to the unalterable truth that there is an omnipotent, omnipresent, conscientious force controlling and governing the entire universe, an intelligent, constructive force, without beginning or end, a force absolutely good without a destructive element in it, the supreme cause of all existence, the Creator of all that is, the true relationship to God, and gave to all a God of love, a God who is Spirit, a loving Father who is ever tenderly caring for His children. He proved by His works in the healing of the sick, the raising of the dead, the raising of the dead and in many other wonderful demonstrations of power, the truth of all he taught, and commanded His disciples, in all ages to come, to make practical their religion by their works."

"Christian Science and its workings" was Strickler's subject. He said in part: "However much people may differ in their attitude towards Christian Science, every one will admit that it has done many good things. Entirely apart from the question of physical healing, it is generally conceded that it produces a happy and contented mentality, that it destroys fear, and makes people loving and kind."

CURED OF DRUG HABIT.
"When we add to this the fact that it has healed many sick people who had previously been unable to find relief under other systems, that it has cured many of the drug habit, and of the liquor habit, that it has restored harmony in many homes that were discordant, and has given hope and courage to people who were discouraged, it is easy to understand why Christian Science has spread from one end of the earth to the other with such wonderful rapidity."

"Why should any one not wish to believe that God heals the sick? Is it not a thing to be desired? and is it not something for which humanity has been praying through the centuries? Now that it is here why should any one not wish to accept it? Let each one ask himself that question."

Many people believe that God either sends sickness or at least permits some other power to send it, so that in some way it is an agency for good to work out its spiritual growth. Now if that is true why did Jesus come to make war on it? If God created sickness and sin, originate in mortal mind, and result from the operation of the so-called mind God did not create them, nor do they result from the operation of spiritual law. In destroying them Jesus did not work contrary to God's law. Christian Science insists that Jesus was omnipotent. He did not do the will of the Father at one time, and at another such as overturn His laws. It follows then, that if Jesus performed his works in accordance with, and by means of, God's laws, the same results must follow in every age whenever those laws are understood and applied. Moses and the prophets, and Jesus and his disciples, and followers, healed the sick, raised the dead, and performed many wonderful works by means of this power, and in every age the result of the operation of spiritual law in human consciousness has been to destroy discord and to establish peace.

"Christian Science pleads for a rational understanding of God in place of mere belief about Him, and it is urging mankind to look for the cause of their troubles not in matter, but in the mind and not in matter. It declares that God is not the author of sin, sickness, or death, hence these conditions are illegitimate and can be destroyed by a law of love, and the third time there is any divine authority for man to sin, suffer, or die, and recalls the solemn declaration of the Scripture that God gave man as his birthright dominion over all the earth and over all that it contained."

THEORIES NOT HELPFUL.
As time goes on humanity exhibits an ever increasing interest in theories about God that are not helpful and practical. This tendency has been deplored by the churches as indicating a loss of interest in religion, but it is not so. It indicates a tremendous desire for a religion that is practical.

The demand for practical things also demands a religion that is practical. People are no longer satisfied with theories about what is to happen in another world. What is desired is a demonstration of a religion that saves from present troubles—from sickness and sin, and failure, and unhappiness, and the countless ills of every-day human experience—and if there is a religion that will do that, it can be safely trusted for the future.

"Christian Science is essentially a practical religion. It has been called applied Christianity. There is the same difference between Christian Science and mathematics and engineering. Mathematics does much good in many ways, but it is not until the rules of mathematics are applied to human bridges, railroads, subways, lofty buildings, and other things that are of public utility, and which contribute to the well-being of mankind. So it is only when the teachings of Jesus are understood and applied to human affairs that we see the sick healed, sinners liberated from bondage to evil habits, and other practical things done for the betterment of humanity."

TRIBUTE TO MRS. EDDY.
"When viewed from any point Mrs. Eddy stands as one of the great characters of this age. She has made a discovery in the realm of metaphysics that exerts a more far-reaching influence upon humanity than any discovery ever made in the physical realm. She has founded a religion that has restored to mankind the spiritual healing as practiced by the primitive churches, and at least one of one generation her teachings have so impressed themselves upon the public that it would be difficult to find a place where there is not a Christian Science church or society, or at least where there are not some Christian Scientists. 'Some' is a later every person will adopt that system of religious teaching which brings the largest mass

PRESERVE RETORT USED BY MARSHALL

Relic From Gold Discoverer's Smithy May Be Donated to N. S. G. W.

PLACERVILLE, May 11.—The relic used by James W. Marshall at his blacksmith shop at Kelsey, now Sonoma, will be brought to Placerville this week and will probably be sent to the Native Sons' home at Coloma. The relic was obtained from John Siepp, who owns the land on which that remains of Marshall's smithy still stands.

The old forge still stands in the blacksmith shop, and there are many relics, such as tools and utensils which souvenir hunters are fast carrying away.

The house in which Marshall died has long since been torn down, and only a few of the old-timers around Kelsey know exactly where it stood. It is probable a general movement will be set on foot to collect relics of Marshall's who has discovered gold at Kelsey, where he afterward had his blacksmith shop. Practically everybody in Placerville has some sort of relic of Marshall's life. Marshall had made a perpetual calendar of a deck of cards. E. G. Beach, a Placerville pianist, has one of these cards and would not part with it.

LAST GHOST OF MISSION LAID

Crowd Appears to Witness the Unmasking of the Last Terrorizing Shade.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 11.—The Mission district, which has proverbially held on to the traditions of San Francisco's pioneer days, has regretfully given over one by one the relics of the original settlers, and has torn down out-of-date homes with expressions of remorse, even though they were to give way to substantial buildings, has not until now relinquished a belief in the presence of ghosts.

There have been several haunted houses in the section "south of the slot" and one of them was lately torn down out on the Mission road. It remained, however, for the nocturnal visitor to walk and spread terror amongst the populace near the old hose tower at Fifteenth and Harrison streets. For weeks whisperings have been circulated about the neighborhood that a face had been peering from the topmost opening of the old building. The rumor spread and several persons, including some firemen and two engineers, were willing to take oath that they had observed the ghost-like features and had watched the vacant chair on the lofty point, when they shuddered and experienced a creepy feeling below. When at length the whole structure was aroused, it was determined last night to investigate.

A motley throng was on hand to witness the unmasking of the filmy individual and a pair of volunteers, braver than the rest, mounted the ladder to investigate. Before they reached the place where the ghost was supposed to appear at a regular hour every night, the crowd could plainly see the countenance of the shadow, but alas for superstition and for the belief in ghosts and the return of dead men to haunt their enemies. The investigation developed that the play of an electric arc light shining upon a peculiar formation of the inner wall of the hose tower produced the illusion which was so startling in its realism.

Thus has the last superstition fallen and the haunted houses in the mission are no more.

HOW TO SAVE BY THE POSTAL BANK

Postmaster Paul Schafer Furnishes Important Information for the Public.

Headline the many requests for information concerning certain features of the postal savings system, particularly that which deals with postal savings bonds, Postmaster Paul Schafer calls attention to a pamphlet from the postmaster-general which deals with the subject.

By applying on or before June 1, 1912, depositors of the postal savings bank system may exchange the whole or a part of their deposits for United States registered coupon bonds in denominations of $20, $50 and $100, bearing interest from July 1, 1912, at the rate of 2 1/2 per cent per annum, payable semi-annually and redeemable at the pleasure of the United States after one year from the date of issue, both principal and interest payable twenty years from date in gold coin. These bonds are exempt from taxation in any form.

CONVERSIONS OF DEPOSITS.

Conversions of deposit must be made by the postmaster who issued the certificate. No limitation is placed on the amount of postal bonds that may be taken out, but they can only be secured through the medium of savings certificates and bonds will be issued except to depositors, though the holder may sell or assign them to any person.

The depositor's application must indicate whether bonds are desired in registered or coupon form. Coupon bonds are preferable for a depositor who desires to hold them for a short time only and who has ample facilities for their safe-keeping. These bonds are payable to bearer, and the title will pass by delivery without indorsement. Interest on coupon bonds is collected by means of interest coupons, which are detached by the holder as they become due.

Registered bonds are preferable for persons intending to hold them for a considerable period and they differ from coupon bonds in the following respects:

(a) They have inscribed upon their face the names of the persons to whom they are issued.

(b) They are payable only to the person to whom issued.

(c) The ownership of registered bonds can be transferred only by assignment in proper form.

ASSIGNMENT BY MINORS.

Under the regulations of the department a minor cannot assign registered bonds without a proved guardian. Interest on registered bonds is paid by check. Claims for lost or destroyed bonds should be filed with the secretary of the treasury.

On the application of any holder, the board of trustees will purchase postal savings bonds at par. Registered bonds must be assigned.

BIG CREEK RAILWAY NEARING COMPLETION

FRESNO, May 11.—Nineteen miles of the Big Creek railroad have been completed and the line is now within seven miles of Aubrey Valley, the present terminal point, according to statements made by representatives of the company which is building the road. Two new engines, weighing 50 tons each, have been ordered from an Ohio firm to be used in the mountains above Aubrey Valley. A road engine has been rented from the S. P. There are fourteen camps in operation, but these are being reduced as the line progresses into the hills. It is planned that two ordinary road engines will be used on the line from Fresno to Aubrey Valley after the construction work is completed. From the present terminal to Big Creek the pair of new mountain engines are to be used. These are being built along the same lines as the cog-wheel engines used on the scenic railway running to the top of Mount Tamalpais.

3-YEAR-OLD BABE LOST IN DESERT

Parents and Friends Search 28 Hours Before Finding Child.

SAN BERNARDINO, May 11.—Lost on the great desert for 28 hours was the experience of a little 3-year-old baby while its distracted parents, Mr. and Mrs. Perry L. Smith, who with neighbors and Indian trackers covered many weary miles across the trackless waste endeavoring to find the child.

The little fellow crawled away from the Smith camp near Indian Springs on the irrigation ditch which Smith is constructing.

As soon as the absence of the little fellow was noticed search was begun by Smith, J. G. Laraway and Harry Mathews, in which the families of all joined. They expected that the child would soon be found, but as time went on and night approached the seriousness of the situation became apparent and a message was dispatched to the Indian camp for trackers to try to follow the child by what slight trail he might leave.

Through the piercing cold of the night the search was kept up with the aid of torches and lanterns, but no trace of the little traveler could be found. Every heart was heavy with suspense. When morning finally came and the weary searchers could report nothing hopeful another messenger was dispatched to the Indian Springs ranch and a call made of Deputy Sheriff Ira McFarland to organize a posse to scour the Joshua forest, where it was supposed the child had wandered.

A party of 14 men was soon in pressed into service, and headed by Officer McFarland, a systematic search was begun.

In the meantime the parents of the baby were suffering anguish at the prospect of their little one slowly perishing from the effects of cold, hunger and thirst, alone in the awful solitudes of the desert. The father had offered a reward of $100 to the man who would restore his baby, dead or alive. The activity of the searchers may have been stimulated by the offer of Smith, but the anxiety of the parents was sufficient incentive to put every man to his best efforts.

Another night was fast approaching and with the closing of the second day would vanish all hope of finding the child alive. Finally, the keen eyes of Sam Ben, one of the Indian trackers, detected the light footprints of the child, where an untrained eye could see nothing, and, with the skill possessed only by the Indian, he soon followed the trail to the spot where the little fellow was wandering.

"Waiting for mamma to bring me a drink of water."

The sun was sinking behind the forbidding bulk of a mountain peak when the child was restored to the arms of his parents who had by this time almost given up hope of ever seeing him alive again.

SWAT THAT FLY, AND DO IT NOW

Detroit Reader of THE TRI-BUNE Forwards Some Helpful "Don'ts."

EDITOR OAKLAND TRIBUNE: I noticed your article in the April 15th issue, entitled "Swat That Fly, Do It Now." I enclose a copy of the following article I have sent to a Detroit paper on this subject, which is equally applicable to your city.

Cleanliness is next to Godliness is a well received axiom. Both cleanliness and Godliness are virtues to be desired. Cleanliness according to this truism, comes first, and next comes Godliness, but with cleanliness comes relief from flies and the long train of evils which result from the activities of the fly.

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. This is the time to use all means for the prevention of the spread of flies. Begin early and then keep everlastingly at it. The vigilant fly will use every opportunity he gets, remember that.

Here are several "don'ts" that will aid in fighting the fly:

Don't allow flies in your house.

Don't permit them near your food, especially milk.

Don't buy food where flies are permitted.

Don't let them crawl over the baby or the nipple of its nursing bottle.

Don't dine at a hotel, boarding house or restaurant where flies are tolerated.

Screen every window and door of your house and keep the screens on till winter.

Have separate screen covers for food which must be exposed in pantry and kitchen.

Let cleanliness, and cleanliness, and yet more cleanliness be your motto all summer long.

W. D. BIGGERS,
Detroit, May 2, 1912.

ELECTION FOR PRESIDENT OF CANAL COUNTRY

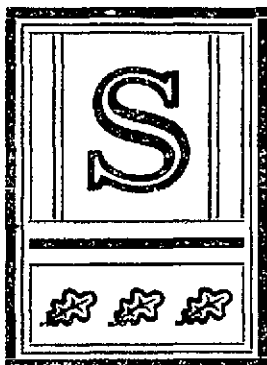

PANAMA, May 11.—Pedro Diaz is the candidate of the Government party of Panama for the Presidency. The election will be held in July, and his opponent is Dr. Pouras, formerly minister of Panama at Washington.

Diaz will be supported by a fraction of the Liberal party and also by some conservatives. Both of the candidates are liberals.

ITALIAN GOVERNMENT ENTERS MULE MARKET

SAN FRANCISCO, May 11.—The Italian government is competing with California wheat growers in the purchase of big draft mules in the Miscon market. Shipments to San Francisco are bringing excellent prices for use on reapers in the bonanza grain farms of Central California. Selected pairs have brought $750. Recent sales of 120 head to the Italian government brought $225 a head.

How Blanche Bates ACQUIRED THE ART OF RAGGING

AN FRANCISCO, May 11.—"It is the last stand of San Francisco—dear old San Francisco."

So said my friend as we sipped a glass at dinner at the Cliff House.

"What's the last stand?" I asked, gazing into his pessimistic eyes.

"The Fair!"

"As Haig Patigan inquires vacuously, 'In what way?'"

"Well, if you travel elsewhere you will soon see what I mean. San Francisco is now generous, jovial, silly in spots, romantic through it all. But do you get any of that life, that feeling anywhere else? Try Los Angeles, Riverside, San Diego. The Fair will bring the Middle West to San Francisco. The fine old city of Romance will become a city of exploitation. The nickel-chaser will rue as he rules elsewhere."

"But think of our coming prosperity!"

"Prosperity is deadly! Romance is beautiful!"

It Is Great to Be Great

They were lined up at the cheap thing we call a depot—something that would not be tolerated in any other half-million city in the world. The troops were there. The Mayor was there. There was a thrill of expectancy.

You could tell there was a thrill by the way men mopped the inside rims of their unusual hats. The automobiles were in line ready for parade. Even a man from Milpitas would have known that a great event was afoot.

The Mayor had said, "His train's a little late, isn't it?" Time tables had been consulted. At last there was a whistle and a rumble. Then a little big man came down the walk—it was Secretary Knox. "Which is Wolgast?" asked a newsboy.

Not Good to Be Too Near

Distance does lend enchantment. They all do look good when they are far away. I have often been told that if we knew the other "statesman" as we know our own they wouldn't be much greater than they are to their wives or their valets.

One of the biggest men in this country in his time was Stephen M. White. They wanted to thrust the Democratic nomination for President over on him the year Bryan first took it. They gave him the double honor for the first time in a Democratic convention—the chairmanship of the platform committee and the chairmanship of the convention.

But we knew every time he went out to take a drink—and so he did not seem so great to us.

Now Secretary Knox came along. We have watched for him a long time. He has a great name and a great position. Yet he left us yawning. His speech at the big banquet lasted within two minutes of an hour. It was prosy, tedious and badly delivered. We all wish we hadn't seen the little man in a big place at such close view.

Secretaries and No Secretaries

We also have had Beveridge with us. He has oratorical ability of a certain kind. He prepares a speech and learns it. There isn't much thrill in his talk, but his speech is delivered just as his copy is given to the press.

We've had him here before. When he got off the train he had in his entourage two secretaries, each with a typewriter and they duly exploited him. He was cold, distant, punctilious.

At the time of his other visit—or at about that time—they also sent to us another orator—Senator Dilliver. Phil Teller was sent to receive him, as he had been sent to receive Beveridge that campaign.

"How many in your party?" asked Teller of Dilliver, remembering the Beveridge secretaries.

"What?" asked the great Republican orator.

"How many in your party? We want to provide for all of you. Have you a secretary?"

"A secretary? Hell, no! It is hard enough for me to take care of Dilliver without taking care of a secretary. There is only one in my party—Dilliver!"

And that man had the real genius of oratory.

Then They Drove On

They were coming up from the Family Farm, where they had had the opening ceremonies and had laid the stone of the Church Among the Hills for Father Lacombe. The roads were good and the motors powerful.

Bud Havens was at the wheel of his European car, and of course the speed limit was just a bit forgotten. The motor cop came along and held up his hand.

"Arrested?" asked Havens.

"Yep!"

"What's the fine?"

THE KNAVE

"Well, Justice Pumpkin is now making it a dollar a mile. I think you'll get about $50."

Up spoke a voice from the tonneau. It was the voice of Felix Hoendorf—"Der Duke." The voice said:

"Say, I match you, von hundred or nothings."

"You're on," said the automobile cop.

They matched, and the Bud Havens European car went blithely on its way.

Blanche Learned to Rag

"Oh, I'm just crazy to learn to rag!"

So said Blanche Bates and she seemed to mean it. "That will be attended to," said Louis Haas.

"Blanche Bates wants to learn to rag," said Haas to Roy Carruthers of the Cliff House. "I'll give the supper."

"You're on—I'll get the ragers," replied Roy.

So it was Thursday night. The supper after the theater was fine. The mood was right—and out from the family after the Bill Fairbanks dinner came the ragers, "Big Bill" Lange at their head.

After about the third lesson, when she had been taught "the dip," the great actress was heard to say thrillingly:

"I have to kneel in 'Nobody's Widow' and I know my knees are black and blue. But let us go again. Wh-e-e-e! It's great!"

The Black Sand Talk on That Saloon

Probably the people who have talked so much about locating a saloon at Fifth and Market streets really don't know why the great fuss was made. It is hard to get the "law down" on such matters. Here is what we used to call "a black sand talk" on the subject—the black sand being what used to show in the horn and the pan with the gold.

Frank Corr wanted to transfer a saloon license from lower Market street to Fifth and Market, where there is a transfer point for the San Mateo cars. That's a small matter and you wouldn't think it would make a stir.

But the Emporium and Hale Brothers, who have great establishments in that neighborhood, didn't want a saloon there. They stirred up the Down Town Association and the property owners, to protest.

Now, you'd think that settled it, wouldn't you?

But you see it didn't settle it. The thing was postponed. It went to the Mayor. It went back and up and down and up. Then the license was granted. Then the Mayor took action against Spiro and O'Grady, the Police Commissioners, who granted the license.

Now that same question is causing drunken men to talk loud in public places. It is causing purchasable men to write many articles on both sides of the question.

Naturally you ask—why all this fuss over the location of a saloon?

This is it: Frank Corr is a popular member of the Olympic Club. He is backed by some of the warmest-hearted and most influential men in San Francisco. The application for that license has become a vital issue. It is parting friendships, almost parting families.

Yet, it seems to me that a man so well backed—he is a man I do not know—could make a success of a saloon almost anywhere. Why not get him a license in a place that will not involve great public servants like Jim Rolph and Jim Woods?

What a Difference in a Pocket

One of our club friends went out for just a little bit of a whirl the other night. He was with one of our best millionaire automobile drivers named "Bill." They sought the paths of pleasure.

In one pocket of his trousers our friend of the first part had three big dollars—three "simoleons," as they are called. In the other pocket he had three twenty-dollar pieces, posed there for a future emergency.

As he went down the line with his wealthy and dare-devil driver friend he met, at one "Coast" resort a male entertainer whom he had known in Chicago. The entertainer sang and our friend slipped him a dollar.

Then he met a buxom woman and danced with her. Again he generously slipped over a dollar.

The next place he invaded he met a chicken. He slipped a dollar to her—I fear into her stocking.

Later—this message over the phone:

"Say, Bill! Unless you can find three twenties on the floor of your car, I have slipped them to entertainers and others on the 'Coast.' Please see what can be done."

And the Tall Ships Sail On

Our Chamber of Commerce and our Supervisors and the others of our resolution-passing bodies indorsed the project for a suspension pier bridge from San Francisco to Oakland. The bridge scheme provides that the floor of the structure shall be at least 150 feet above the water.

After the Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants' Exchange had indorsed the scheme Henry Portman, the brilliant president of the Alaska Packers' Association, went to Secretary Friedlander and said:

"See here! Some of those ships that we winter in Oakland harbor lift their masts 180 feet above the water. How are we going to get under your bridge at 150 feet?"

"Oh, don't worry," said Secretary Friedlander.

"People will be passing to and from Oakland on aeroplane trains before that bridge is built. It does no harm to pass resolutions!"

And he might have added: "And it does no good."

And, yet how many resolutions that body has passed!

The Federal Water Cart

The latest fad among Federal officials is to climb up to a high seat on the water-wagon. Special Deputy Collector William B. Hamilton started the fad now nearly two months ago. He points with pride to his figure and whispers in confidence to his friends he has lost twenty-two pounds since he joined the ranks of abstainers.

Deputy Collector Newton S. Farley was the next to fall in line. He says "never again." Chief Clerk Harry Farmer has stopped both taking an afternoon cocktail and smoking, too. Chief Special Agent Harry Moffitt of the Secret Service joined the club two months ago and now drinks buttermilk. Supervising Inspector of Steam Vessels John K. Bulger swore off the day he was sworn into his new promotion, and United States Marshal Elliott never took a drink of intoxicant liquor in his life.

The Retort Was Emphatic

Captain W. G. Leale, one of the popular members of the Press and Transportation Clubs, is never at a loss for a story. One of his latest involves the name of Roosevelt and has to do with a heated argument between a Scot and an Irishman. Neither had been long enough in the country to qualify as naturalized citizens and become voters. The political atmosphere, however, affected them as it did their voting neighbors, and at different times they were at it hammer and tongs about the merits of Roosevelt and other prominent presidential candidates and what it was best for the country of their adoption to do in making a selection. One day Paddy made an assertion about politics which was very displeasing to the Scotchman and which prompted him to indignantly ask:

"Where did you see that?"

"Roosevelt says so," was the confident reply.

"To h— with him," was the impatient retort. "And to h— with Harry Lauder, then," exclaimed Pat with a snap of his finger at the son of Caledonia as he walked away in high dudgeon.

There's a New Drink in Town

There's a new drink in town. It's French. You can't hit the high places by indulging in it, for it contains no alcohol and is therefore not popular along the tenderloin. It is said to be the latest French remedy for excessive avoirdupois and a hundred and odd fat men are known to be drinking it several times a day. Any barboy can make it in a jiffy, for it is simplicity itself. The ingredients are the white of an egg and the juice of one lemon or lime, preferably the former. The concoction is said to have a deterrent effect on the action of the glands supplying the digestive fluids to the stomach. One well-known professional man, who is frightened at his weight of 285 pounds, with a constant tendency upwards, has been drinking it three times a day for five weeks and says it has caused him to lose an average of three pounds a week during that time. He intends to keep up the practice of three drinks a day for several months. Friends of his of the embonpoint class are doing likewise with good results. Their experience has got noised about and now, so to speak, shoals of the "fatties" are giving rush orders for the drink at many of the saloons.

Davenport's Fad for Poultry

Homer Davenport, the cartoonist, who died a few days ago, did not stop at any cost in collecting fancy poultry. Shortly after the American occupation of the Philippines, a returning army officer incidentally told Davenport about blooded bantam stock he had seen in a town not far from Manila. The cartoonist was all eagerness to get at least four specimens of this variety. Through Washington friends, he got in communication with General Arthur MacArthur, then in command of the army in the Philippines. The latter bought for him the desired chickens and they were forwarded on one of the transports in care of a member of the crew. Arriving here, they were placed in the care of Major Hooper of the Occidental Hotel. Davenport sent a man clear from New York to get them and feed them on the way back to his New Jersey farm. Original cost and expenses for the four chickens were $300. Davenport thought the outlay worth while. They arrived in good condition. By breeding with other stock, he got an uncommonly fine kind of fancy poultry. There were many demands on him for specimens of this new breed for a number of years thereafter both in this country and Europe.

Newspaperman Author of Comedy

Thomas Nunan, the musical critic of the Examiner, whose marriage in Oakland last week to Miss Eula Howard, the pianiste of this city, was a pleasant surprise to his many friends both in and out of newspaper circles, is a man of clever literary attainments. A poem of his entitled "Out of Nature's Creed" will shortly come from the press. Joaquin Miller has read it and given the production high praise. It is an appeal for things of the higher life and running through it is a vein of philosophy delightfully optimistic in tone. A comedy and a cycle of songs that is to be set to music by a well-known composer in the East are other literary efforts of Nunan which are soon to see the light of day. It is understood tentative arrangements have already been made to stage his play. Several theatrical managers, who have read the manuscript, give the comedy much praise.

Honored by the Czarina

California friends of Mme. Bakhmeteff, wife of the Russian ambassador to the United States, were delighted a few days ago to receive word about the way she has recently been honored. Mme. Bakhmeteff is the sister of Truxtun Beale of this city and Washington, and, like the latter, inherited a goodly fortune from her father, who at one time was a leading army officer under Uncle Sam. The lady has been designated by the Czarina of Russia to represent the Russian empire at the International Red Cross Conference, which is now in session in Washington. This is the first gathering of the kind ever held in the United States. Mme. Bakhmeteff will also represent Bulgaria at the Red Cross gathering. The King of Bulgaria and the parliament of the country signed a joint letter bestowing upon her this honor. Her local friends expect her to give a good account of herself at the conference in view of this double appointment and her ability as a speaker in several languages.

Hotel 'Gentleman's Agreement'

The "gentleman's agreement" existing between the St. Francis hotel on the one hand and the Palace and Fairmont on the other not to indulge in lavish expenditure to capture business does not preclude them from building additions to their buildings. This is why the St. Francis is to add a wing of four stories on the north side at the southwest corner of Powell and Post streets. By so doing, the hotel will at last fill the entire frontage on the west side of Powell from Geary to Post. No doubt the Palace will ere long follow suit by an addition of 300 rooms to its structure. This will be done by running up from the first story the southwestern part of the building. The original plans of the new Palace provide for this improvement at any time.

The gentleman's agreement among this trio of hostels has been in existence a year now. It, abolished, among other things, all Eastern and foreign advertisements and agents and cut off favors to steamship captains and pursers. It even swept away free picture postals of the hotels. There was a time when the St. Francis guests were at liberty to take away with them the scented wash rags and paper slippers placed in their rooms. The agreement put a stop to that. The meaning of the agreement is that the respective managements think the cream of the business must and will come to them without solicitation or expense. They have been getting some jolts of late, however. Only the other day British Ambassador Brice passed them by and registered at the Stewart. Major-General Arthur Murray, U. S. A., has done likewise. Quite recently M. Cassimir Perier of Paris, son of one of France's most distinguished presidents, gave them the overlook and went to the Bellevue. Twenty such cases have happened during the past few six or eight weeks.

However, as the agreement is said to effect an aggregate saving in expenses of $90,000 a year to the three hotels, it will no doubt run along indefinitely and probably lead to a merged or single management by the time the exposition opens.

Story of the Three Hacks

Did you ever hear the story of the three hacks? Well, here it goes:

Mr. ———, who, in the language of the street, has a bank roll big enough to choke a hungry cow, is stingy about little things and extravagant when his anger is aroused.

He objects to paying more than a bit for a drink of whisky. This is the reason he never indulges in that beverage at the Palace or Fairmont. Beer is his strong stunt when he goes to their bars. Several times a month he "does" the cocktail route in a hack. He has been using that class of vehicle for years and it has become a habit with him. The jehu's bill climbs up while he is taking his ten and fifteen-cent drinks, but he never seemed to mind that until lately. Three times since the first of the year, while on these indulging tours about town, he has been out long enough for the bills for hack hire to amount to over $25. In each case there has been acrimonious words and a scene between himself and the driver and owner.

"What do you want for your outfit?" he demanded on each occasion, for rather than pay what he thought was an excessive charge he desired to purchase horses and vehicles outright.

And he did. The prices asked seeming reasonable to his muddled brain he paid cash after first being driven to his favorite livery stable. Now he has six horses and three hacks on his hands and his friends are wondering what he will do with them. He doesn't seem to care. He don't have to.

Exposition Directors in Rebellion

Exposition directors have rebelled. Since the honor of being appointed directors was bestowed upon these thirty and odd prominent citizens and up to date they have dug down into their own pockets for all entertaining and banquet expenses. They footed the entire bill when President Taft came here to throw the first spadeful of earth. It was a pretty penny, too. The visit of former Governor David R. Francis of Missouri was another case. Still another instance was when the Governors of Nevada, Utah, Oregon, Washington, Idaho and South Dakota were here, and when the New York legislative committee appeared on the scene. Many other Governors and distinguished personages, who must be entertained, are coming before the fair opens its gates. In addition to the responsible work they have to do and the time required to do it, the directors are already considerable out of pocket. A halt in this personal expense for entertaining fair visitors of importance must be called some time, they think, and now, in their opinion, is the proper moment. Each of them has already subscribed liberally to the exposition funds and they think they should not be expected to personally pay any more for needed receptions and entertainments to properly accredited visitors.

The proposition in some shape, it is said, will soon come before the directors as a body for definite action. Some few of them are of the opinion that it will be good policy to let the matter slide along for awhile or until the work of the exposition is farther advanced and the public begins to see definite results in the way of grounds laid out and buildings started.

The Celestial Queue Scarce

The queue in Chinatown has become so rare a thing that tourists are complaining to their guides, wanting to know what has become of the "Chinese pig tails." With a keen eye to business, therefore, the Chinese merchants are rounding up some of the older men, who have not parted with their head adornment, as a special prize exhibit for the benefit of tourists to whom a Chinaman is a comparative stranger. The queue, of course, is fast disappearing as one of the results of the Chinese revolution. With its abandonment, Chinese are also beginning to rapidly drop the native dress. There are said to be 18,000 Chinese in the local colony and about 60,000 in the State. The latter include the large colonies in Oakland, Los Angeles, Sacramento, Stockton and San Jose. A prominent Chinese merchant said yesterday that fully a quarter of all his countrymen in California have already adopted the American dress. He predicts that within three years the Chinese costume will be a rare sight in the United States.

Another effect of the revolution has been to boom the Chinese newspapers. Four dailies are now published in Chinatown, they being the only daily issues on the mainland in this country. In Hawaii there are two dailies. New York has one Chinese paper, a semi-weekly. Next month it is to become a daily. One of the dailies here, the Young China, was originally started several years ago by Dr. Sun Yat Sen, the distinguished revolutionist, and General Homer Lea, his able supporter, in connection with some of their local and progressive Chinese friends. All of them have been printing cable news from China and still continue to do so. They are being widely read by the Chinese in every nook and corner of the State. Each of the four dailies here are said to be paying annually 10 per cent in dividends and more. The Chung Sai Yat Po daily is represented as paying 20 per cent a year and to have paid 400 per cent during the past twelve years.

Fortune Spent for Pleasure

Frank Thompson, who is making a fight in the Superior Court to get back from his daughter and a trust company $250,000 he placed in the latter a couple of years ago, has spent more money on wine, woman and song in this burg during the past six years than any other single individual. James M. Dunphy's spendthrift career pales into insignificance compared with the Thompson record. The latter, who is an attractive, companionable fellow, has, while in his cups, been robbed right and left by false friends of both sexes. His father, the late Captain R. R. Thompson, multi-millionaire railroad builder in Oregon, willed him a cool million. The $250,000 he is seeking to get back from the trust company is all that is left of it. A quarter of a million went to his wife and daughter when the first Mrs. Thompson divorced him. It is therefore no exaggeration to say that this man in the past six or seven years, mainly since the earthquake, has dissipated half a million dollars. In doing so, he has gone the limit in the way of nocturnal pleasures. Maxim's in London at night, Margit's and the Folies Bergeres in Paris and the choice resorts of the unconventional in Berlin have probably never seen a man more prodigal with his coin than Thompson has been at times in the devious and far-flung night life of San Francisco from the Barbary Coast to the beach allurements.

Having had "money to burn" and having burned it, Thompson thinks he is now mentally and physically able to put a stop to any more such conflagrations.

Some Wealthy Exiled Mexicans

Mr. _____, with large business interests in both Montreal and the City of Mexico, and who just returned from the latter city and is at the St. Francis, chatted last night about some of the deposed rulers of Mexico on condition that his name be withheld. Porfirio Diaz, the former president, he says, is quietly living in Spain on the income from his Mexican investments, one of which is a large interest he holds in the street railway system of the City of Mexico. His associates in that property are mostly rich Canadians. Diaz also owns a lot of good interest-paying bonds of Mexican steam roads. His holdings are therefore in such shape that the Madero government cannot touch them, even were it disposed to try to do so. The St. Francis guest says Diaz never tried to exploit his country for his private purse and is far from being the rich man some of his enemies aver.

Former Minister of Finance Limantour, according to this man, is very wealthy and has settled down in a French chateau for good. His married daughter lives in that country. Of all of Diaz's former political associates, he states that Ramon Coral, vice-president under Diaz and very unpopular, is the richest. He also is living in Europe. Coral, he says, had his finger in every financial pie that came along and laid the basis of his fortune while governor of the State of Sonora. Men surrounding Diaz persuaded him to accept another re-election some two years ago for their own purposes. That, he says, was the one big mistake Diaz ever made, one that finally led to his complete undoing.

Hite Estate Being Settled

The estate of John R. Hite, the Mariposa millionaire mining man, who died in 1906, is being finally settled in Probate Judge Coffey's court, a fact which recalls how his Indian wife contested his will on behalf of herself and got a large sum of money several years ago. They had no children.

Hite was one of many white men in the early days of California who had an Indian squaw for a wife and deserted her when society became organized in the State. In early days on this coast white women were scarce. It was because of this fact that Hite took to himself as wife a member of one of the Indian tribes in the central part of the State. As his wealth increased she was his aid. After years, when California became more thickly populated, the Indian wife of the wealthy miner was forced from her position in his home. Like hundreds of her kind, who accepted white husbands, she did not contest her separation. She allowed her husband to wander off to other climes. She watched his wealth grow and was satisfied with the allowance he made for her support. It is said he tried to settle with her in full several years before he died but failed. She would sign nothing but the receipts for her monthly allowance. He then ignored her in his will. Some enterprising attorneys got hold of her after his death and made a contest, getting a snug sum for her as well as big fees for themselves. Other men of affluence and influence here have been more successful than Hite was in preventing an expose of their similar matrimonial experiences.

Long Distance Love Making

The telegraph companies found in H. P. Wilson of New York, who is now here with his bride on a honeymoon trip, a very good customer while he was courting his wife. The latter was formerly the pretty Lena Dyke of Oakland and this city. One of the most beautiful of girls in her teens, Mrs. Wilson shows in both figure and face that time has dealt most kindly with her. During the past six or seven months, Wilson has had to make repeated trips to this coast in connection with electric light and power matters and as an agent for the late Edwin Hawley. On these occasions, according to those who know, he would send two long telegrams in the daytime and two at night to New York to the woman who is now his wife. He would invariably get in return four answers. This long-distance love making was kept up day after day. Presumably Wilson did the same thing when in other parts of the country. These love messages quickly ran up into money. They are said to have amounted to as high as $50 one day when he was here about seven weeks ago.

O'Grady's Career in Office Holding

Police Commissioner A. L. O'Grady, who, with I. H. Spiro, another member of the board, has been suspended by Mayor Rolph because of the granting of a liquor license to Frank J. Corr for a saloon at Fifth and Market streets, has had a very uncommon record as a public office-holder.

O'Grady is the only official in the history of the city who was "fired" from the Police Commission, or any other office for that matter, and got back again. Schmitz removed him from the Police Commission shortly after the earthquake along with Dr. L. Poheim. It was charged at the time that he and Poheim were going into the crockery and glassware business with the intention of having the saloons as the best customers of their store. Schmitz's appointment of O'Grady to the commission before the fire was a popular one. After Schmitz removed him, he was down and out politically for several years. McCarthy in the last year of his term as mayor gave him a new lease of political life by putting him back on the commission. Should Rolph "fire" him now, he will break the record in this or probably any other large city for that matter, as a twice discharged official from the same office.

"FATTIES" HAVE A NEW DRINK THAT HAS 'EM GOING

Four Prominent Army Officers

Four army officers of Uncle Sam are being much talked about just now by their friends here and in other parts of the country. They are Major Thomas L. Rhoades, Brigadier-General Frederick Funston, Major-General Thomas H. Barry and Brigadier-General Tasker H. Bliss, all of whom were stationed at the Presidio here at different times.

Rhoades is the new military aid to President Taft, taking the place of the lamented Major Archie Butt, who was lost on the Titanic. Rhoades is the first army surgeon to be chosen by a President as his aid in the history of the government. He has many friends here, where he was on duty a number of years ago. Barry is now superintendent at West Point, having gone there from here a couple of years ago. It is believed he will be given charge of the Eastern division in succession to the late Major-General Fred D. Grant. As a captain in 1890, Barry was the regular army officer attached to the Governor's staff of California. Markham was the chief executive of the State at that time. Barry made a stinging report to the War Department about the California National Guard. It was resented at the time, but its correctness was afterwards acknowledged. The vacancy in the rank of major-general caused by Grant's death, it is thought, will either be filled by the appointment of Funston or Bliss, with the chances greatly in favor of the latter because he retires before Funston. The latter is at the head of the brigadier-generals but does not reach the retiring age until November 29, 1929. Congress jumped him over many heads because of his capture of Aguinaldo. On this account, both Roosevelt and Taft thought he could wait for further promotion and have repeatedly jumped older brigadiers over his head when it came to filling vacant major-generalships. It is believed the same course will be followed in this instance. If Bliss, who recently left here, does not get that appointment, some army officers think Brigadier-Generals Pershing and Wotherspoon stand the next best chances.

STOCKS BUOYANT IN WALL STREET

(By THOMAS C. SHOTWELL.)
WALL STREET, NEW YORK, May 11.—Stocks were buoyant today in Wall street and closed at about the best prices. Material net gains were recorded in scores of stocks. A new high record was made by the latter were of course, American Can and on the curb British-American Tobacco and Anglo-American Oil sold at the highest prices on record when they closed at 19 and 18 respectively. The tobacco stock is up because of an important deal made with the Imperial Tobacco company of England, which turns the United States over to the tobacco trust. hand and foot.

LEADERS IN MARKET.
Lehigh Valley and Steel were the market leaders most of the day. Lehigh was 2 points higher at the opening and added 2 more to that price. The action of that issue and of American Can shows clearly that the First National Bank outfit is committed to the long side of the market. Their enthusiasm for the market is based largely upon a belief that at conference in the afternoon the anthracite troubles will be adjusted and that this settlement will facilitate arbitration of the railroad troubles.

In steel the advance was due a good deal to the optimistic statement made by Charles M. Schwab, who takes the position that the trade is in a healthy condition. The decision by the Supreme Court in the coal trust cases is expected Monday. The decision will have a favorable influence on the market, no matter what it is. The crop outlook is magnificent and business in general is showing constant improvement.

ABERDEEN SHIPPING IS PICKING UP

ABERDEEN, May 11.—Off-shore shipping from Gray Harbor is livelier than it has been for several months. Dr. transoceanic steamers, four barken and three schooners are now in the harbor loading for off-shore points, with several other windjammers about due. The barkentine Jane L. Stanford is ready to sail with 1,110,000 feet of lumber for Aberdeen.

PROBATION OFFICER RECEIVES AN INTERESTING LETTER FROM ONE OF HIS CHARGES.
It is stated by Probation Officer Ruess that the "dry" counties outside of the city is a good thing for the exiles who are sent away for reformation. Some are sent to farms and various other places away from the temptations of city life, and wonderful results are being accomplished. One of the juveniles in the Court sent to the country to reform sent in a letter which explains the mental conditions which are a part of reformation. The letter reads as follows: I was in the city, Cal., May 7, 1912.

CASH TRADE RULES IN WHEAT MARKET

500,000 Bushels Are Sold; Bears in Chicago Are Without a Leader.

(By JOSEPH F. PRITCHARD.)
CHICAGO, May 11.—The cash trade in wheat today was reported by the Armour Grain Company, James S. Templeton & Co., Rosenbaum Bros. and one or two other cash handlers, at 500,000 bushels. These transactions overbalanced everything in the trade that was considered of a bearish character and many of those who threw overboard July and September Friday in order to secure profits in the belief that prices were about to decline, led in the buying today.

The bears in wheat seem to lack a leader at the present time and the trade, generally speaking, is still quite bullish and nearly the entire professional camp is anxious to follow any pronounced buying of the more deferred months. Such men as James Rankin, James A. Patton, Charles E. Lewis, John T. Milliken and an army of smaller speculators who are located in various sections of the country, all believe that the wheat crop of this year will be abnormally short and that nearly all that grain now available will be wanted either by mills or speculators before another crop is available.

IN FULL CONTROL.
Indications point to the fact that the holders of May and cash wheat at Chicago will continue in full control of the market until they have liquidated at a profit every pound of this grain now in their hands. The fact was fully demonstrated today that those who have profits in corn are likely to secure them on any hard spots to develop. This, of course, refers only to the scattered long interests in the market, as those who control the May are not likely to sell out until prices reach a higher level than those now ruling.

OATS BEING SOLD.
Local professionals in oats continue to favor the selling side of the market, but none of them care to put out short lines of the May future. The buying for several days past has been confined largely to the shorts in the market. Patrick Conahy, the Milwaukee packer, who has just returned from a long foreign tour, was a heavy seller of oats and private wire houses were liquidating the entire lot. There were net gains in wheat today of 1-1/2¢-2¢ and netting spots were 3-1/2¢ to above the lowest levels of the session. Corn closed 1-1/2¢-1¢ lower on profit-taking. Oats were unchanged to 1-1/2¢-1¢ lower and provisions were fractionally lower all around.

ORATOR IS WARNED TO USE CLEAN LANGUAGE

SEATTLE, May 11.—The Socialist orator who was arrested last night while he was addressing a street crowd was cautioned by the chief of police to use clean language in his speeches, and then was turned loose. The police say it is not their intention to interfere with orderly meetings.

FINDS WIFE NEAR DEATH FROM GAS ASPHYXIATION

SAN FRANCISCO, May 11.—While suffering from a toothache, which became so unbearable that she was forced to use strong medicine in an effort to soothe the pain, Mrs. Marie Fair, 24 years old, almost succumbed to gas asphyxiation this morning. Mrs. Fair, who lives at 1841 Scott street, is the wife of a shipping clerk for the Southern Pacific. She left home to purchase medicine and returned about 9 a. m. After placing some toothache drops in the cavity, she went down on a lounge in the kitchen. The gas stove had not been completely turned off, and her husband returning home this forenoon, found her unconscious. She was hurried to the Central Hospital and is expected to recover.

APPELLATE COURT CONFIRMS DAMAGE

SACRAMENTO, May 11.—In an opinion handed down today by the Third District Court of Appeal, the Superior Court of San Francisco was upheld in the case of P. O'Connell, ex guardian for Lawrence O'Connell, vs. the United Railways, appellants. This was a case in which Lawrence O'Connell, a lad, was awarded damages in the sum of $5000 for injuries, while working for the company. The Appellate Court held that the company was responsible for the accident.

DRY COUNTRY BEST TO EFFECT REFORM

Probation Officer Receives an Interesting Letter From One of His Charges.

It is stated by Probation Officer Ruess that the "dry" counties outside of the city is a good thing for the exiles who are sent away for reformation. Some are sent to farms and various other places away from the temptations of city life, and wonderful results are being accomplished. One of the juveniles in the Court sent to the country to reform sent in a letter which explains the mental conditions which are a part of reformation. The letter reads as follows: I was in the city, Cal., May 7, 1912.

Dear Friend Mr. Ruess: I guess you will be somewhat surprised to receive this letter. When I left Oakland I determined to tell you of any and all troubles I came in contact with. I so wished to tell you in my regular Sunday sessions, but I was not strong enough to do so, well knowing what it means to me.

There is a Chinese doctor in this town who is practicing without a state board license, also he is advertising, which is against the state law. Dr. _____ spoke to me about it, and he being secretary of the county medical society, kindly asked me if I would go up to see the Chinaman and tell him to leave town, as the doctor did not wish to inform the state board. Well, Mr. Ruess, I did so, and the Chinaman offered me $100 to go with him. He would leave town, and my God, etc., being not able to get any money ahead on my salary I took his offer, knowing that I could pay my restitution money and some of the other big debts. He gave me $20—I kept it, being afraid that I should not get it, and I went back, because my conscience hurt me so.

I could see the four walls of a prison cell before my eyes all the while. Did you but know of the sad regrets I have had since then you would feel for me, too. Not one night's peace since then.

TRIED SAME GAME.
There is a fellow here in town whose name is _____ When I told him of this Chinaman he goes up to get some money, too. I have since heard he has a bad reputation in Sacramento. The Chinaman would give him nothing, but inform the sheriff, and had it not been for Dr. _____ I would have been arrested. Thank God, I have told you this. I been making enough to meet my needs I should not have done as I did. I am going to the mountains now where there is less temptation, and shall try my utmost to make something of myself that I wish to be. Once I am square with the world in financial ways I shall succeed, and what I say is true. Never yet did I tell you an untruth. Sincerely hoping you will overlook this mistake. I am, P. S.—I gave the money back.

HAND IS MANGLED IN ELECTRIC FAN WHEELS

BAKERSFIELD, May 11.—Caught in the flying wheels of an electric fan, C. H. Beauchamp, an Associated Oil Company employe at McKittrick, suffered a badly mangled left hand and was brought to the San Joaquin Hospital here for attention.

The hand was so badly cut up and ripped forward from the wrist to the middle finger that amputation was necessary. Beauchamp was working at one of the north-end stations at the time the accident happened. He was extremely fortunate that he was not dragged forward into the revolving wheels and killed. Other employes about the place heard his scream and rushed to his aid. The machinery was stopped and Beauchamp was assisted, fainting, to the machinery to Dr. Rafferty's office in McKittrick. It is said that unless complications set in Beauchamp will make speedy recovery.

MISS RIEGELMAN STAR OF Y. M. C. A. ANNUAL CONCERT IN EBELL HALL

Miss Alice Davies and Lowell Redfield Contribute to Program

A thoroughly enjoyable program was that given on Thursday evening by the Y. M. C. A., which gave its annual concert at Ebell Hall. Assisting on the program was Miss Mabel Riegelman, Miss Alice Davies and Lowell Redfield, all of whom gave much pleasure to the audience, which was deeply appreciative and enjoyed repeatedly after each number. The special star of the evening was Mabel Riegelman, whose splendid soprano was heard to advantage. She sang an aria from the opera "A Lover's Quarrel," by Pirelli, with much power and a distinctness of pronunciation which is all too rare. A group of songs from the German was rendered in pure tone and delightful shading, and several songs in English, including the lovely "Yours at the Spring," were sung in faultless style.

Miss Riegelman should go far in the musical world, possessed as she is of intelligence, strength and a full-toned, well-trained soprano voice of exceptionally good range and quality.

Miss Alice Davies, pleased with her violin work, which showed talent above the ordinary. She possesses a very winsome personality. Lowell Redfield won hearty applause by his sturdy rendering of Handel's "Egyptian War Song," which possesses fire and spirit in plenty. He was accompanied by Mrs. Lowell Redfield, whose piano work is a delight.

Pleasing work was done by a quartet of solo voices from the chorus, who deserve much praise for their creditable performance. Some very good voices are in the chorus, and the organization of which Henry F. Edson is director is to be congratulated. Here are the members of the chorus:

Mrs. Waldo Rucker, a local musician, is winning distinction as a composer of ability. Her latest work is entitled "Prairie Bell," and is an Indian intermezzo, which is being played at present at the

Mrs. Rucker is to be congratulated upon the quality of her work and her progress will be watched with keen interest.

"Hilawatha's Wedding Feast," by S. Coleridge-Taylor, will be given next month by the Cecilia Choral Club of Oakland and San Francisco. The chorus of 100 voices is under the direction of Percy A. R. Dow.

A children's opera, "The Nurnberg Stove," will be given at the Berkeley High School auditorium Friday evening and Saturday afternoon, May 24-25. Miss Cora W. Jenkins, the director of the Jenkins school of music, has written the music and there are songs, to touch the heart of the young and the old, wonderful fairy music, a stately scene in the king's palace and many charming situations.

"The Stove" was a marvelous work of art made in the fifteenth century, and found in an old ruin in Bavaria by Grandfather Strehla. The little peasant boy August, so worshiped his stove for its beauty that when his father, who was very poor, sold it to traveling traders, August climbed inside of it, and had a wonderful journey, arriving finally at the king's palace.

The play is a dramatization of Ouida's famous story by that name and was made for Miss Jenkins by Miss Mary Lambert.

The cast is composed of about sixty grown people and forty children, August, the hero, being sustained by Miss Bernice Brand, a young lady with a most beautiful contralto voice and exceptional dramatic ability.

Richard Frost Phelps, supervisor of manual training in Alameda, has built a stove for the play. It is about eight feet tall and five feet broad and copied after the original "Hirschyogel."

LAWS TO PROTECT MIGRATORY BIRDS

Measures Introduced Into the Senate and House Reported Favorably.

MILLIONS OF DOLLARS MAY BE SAVED, CLAIM

Much Game Is Now Slaughtered and Increase Is Not Proportionate.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—Bills to provide federal protection for migratory birds, which were introduced in the United States Senate by Senator McLean and in the House of Representatives by Congressman Weeks, have both been reported favorably out of committee. The former was considered by the Senate committee on forest reservations and the protection of game, and the latter by the House committee on agriculture.

In urging the necessity of this legislation, the American Game Protective and Propagation Association of 111 Broadway, New York city, says:

"Millions of dollars can annually be saved to the people of the United States by wise and conservative treatment of the enormous natural resources represented by our migratory birds. Under present conditions countless numbers of ducks, geese and shore birds are slaughtered at a time when every female killed means the destruction of a small flock. At all times the killing goes on at a rate that is out of all proportion to the natural increase."

"E. V. Visart, state game warden of Arkansas, reported in his endorsement of the Weeks' bill that 30,000 birds were sent from Mississippi county in one shipment on October 15, 1911. According to the game warden of Louisiana, there were 4,265,585 ducks, geese and shore birds killed in that state during the winter of 1910 and 1911."

"The favorable report on the McLean bill by the Senate committee contains the following:

"Game commissioners and other officials representing forty-three of the forty-eight states have united together with some of the leading ornithologists of the country, appeared before your committee, and their testimony, based upon years of experience and practical observation, was conclusive of the fact that the most favorable report on the McLean bill by the Senate committee contains the following:

"It is further pointed out in this report that the annual loss to the country through the destruction of migratory birds is estimated at $795,000,000 to $800,000,000. To bring home the significance of these figures, the report adds that: 'There are about 600 colleges in the United States today. Their buildings and endowments have been centuries in accumulation. The value of the college and university buildings is estimated at $260,000,000 and the endowments at $219,000,000. If they should be destroyed tomorrow—buildings and endowments—the income of one year would replace them and leave a balance sufficient to endow 32 new universities in the sum of $10,000,000 each.'

"We have in this country today about 20,000,000 school children, and the cost of their education has been by far the heaviest tax laid upon the surplus of the country, yet it costs more by many millions to feed our insects than it does to educate our children. If there is any way in which this vast and destructive tax upon the national income can be prevented or stayed or retarded in any appreciable measure, it would seem to be the part of wisdom to act without delay."

"In conclusion the report says: 'All of the foregoing evidence goes to demonstrate the existence of a national economic relation between these three orders of life (vegetation, insects and birds). There is a sort of interdependence, and the existence of each one is dependent upon the existence of the others. But for the vegetation the insects would perish, and but for the insects the birds would be shortly destroyed by the unchecked increase of insect destruction.'

"It is the earnest recommendation of your committee that the pending bill receive favorable consideration."

and Rigdon advised and directed by Miss Virginia Whitehead.

A large orchestra composed almost entirely of professionals and conducted by Dr. Arthur Weiss will give the finishing touch to this very original and delightful production.

Mr. and Mrs. Cedric Wright, who are visiting the parents of the former, Mr. and Mrs. George T. Wright of Alameda, are making preparations for a violin recital in San Francisco. The Wrights recently returned from Vienna, where they studied under Sevik, instructor of Jan Kubelik, the famous violinist. They gave a recital in Alameda recently, which was highly successful and included the Tenebrae Sonata, by Tartini, the first movement of the Tchaikowski Concerto, played by Mrs. Wright and the Scotch fantasia by Max Bruch, played by Wright. Frederick Warren was the accompanist.

After their visit, here the Wrights will return to Vienna to study again under Sevik.

Vordt's Requiem Mass was given by the membership of the Berkeley Oratorio Society, in the Greek theater yesterday afternoon at three o'clock, to a large quota of music-lovers of the University town and points about the bay. The impressive memorial composition was given a fine presentation under the direction of the University Chorus, Paul Steinhardt, who faithfully trained the chorus of over one hundred and fifty to the point of perfection.

Some time ago the Oakland Society gave a private rendition of the mass, which was attended with much success and yesterday, with the aid of a complete concert orchestra, and the four eminent soloists who excellently interpreted the immortal work was heard. Vordt's Requiem is tuneful almost to the point of Grand Opera, and it is claimed that the famous composer of "Aida," "Trovatore," "Traviata," "Rigoletto," "Othello," etc., has given the world his best achievement in this immortal work which he composed in honor of the memory of his friend, the poet Manzoni. It is given on an average of three or four times a year in New York, by the stars of the metropolitan, delight in singing its impressive tunes. Steinhardt hopes to make it one of the annual music fests of the University, along with the Stabat Mater and other noted productions.

The soloists of yesterday were Mrs. O'Brien, Miss M. V. Vordt, Mrs. Carroll Nicholson, Contralto Carl Anderson, tenor, and C. E. Perry Jr. bass, and the augmented orchestra had a concert by John McNeill and E. M. Merz with the entire production directed by Steinhardt.

Piedmont's Park Project.

Mayor Craig opposes the acquisition of Piedmont Park by the municipality of Piedmont on novel grounds. He says Piedmont Park will attract an undesirable class of persons. Why? Why will undesirable persons go to Piedmont Park more than to any other public park or playground? It is fair to presume that if it should be acquired for a public park the sale of intoxicants on the grounds or in the vicinity would be prohibited.

Certainly no amusements other than clean, healthful and moral recreations would be permitted.

Nature seems to have created Piedmont Park for a public pleasure ground. It has been one for many years and has been improved to make it more attractive. It has a fine growth of noble trees, and is laid out in winding flower-bordered walks. It is an ideal beauty spot centrally located. Why it should be specially attractive to undesirable persons is difficult to understand.

Mayor Craig has himself placed a valuation of $8000 per acre on the land comprised in Piedmont Park. Thirty acres of it, together with many improvements and playground accessories, are offered to the municipality for $200,000. There seems no room to cavil at the price.

But Mayor Craig says it will cost $35,000 to improve the tract for use as a public park. In view of the conditions existing there, this statement is singular. Some tennis courts are all that is necessary, it would seem, to complete the equipment. Everything else is there now—swings for children, and an open-air auditorium, etc. What else is needed?

Would not tennis courts, swings, etc., have to be constructed on any tract the town of Piedmont might buy? Would it not be necessary to improve any grounds the municipality might purchase? If another park site were acquired it would have to be planted with trees, shrubs and flowers and laid out in walks. All these exist at present in Piedmont Park, which cannot be duplicated in Piedmont in point of natural beauty and convenience of location. If it were situated within the limits of Oakland the chance to acquire it at the price it is offered to Piedmont would be jumped at with avidity.

One lone Republican in the House voted against the bill to increase the pensions of the old soldiers of the Civil War, and he represents a California district. His name is William Kent, and he is a candidate for delegate at large on the Roosevelt ticket. Kent has voted right along against the vine-growers, wool-growers and sugar beet growers of this State, and now he has voted against the old soldiers who fought to save the Union.

The Cry of the Demagogues.

The men who are ululating and vociferating the length and breadth of the land that the people must rule are denying an existing fact. The people rule now. They have always ruled in this country since the British yoke was shaken off and we trust they always will. The method by which popular rule can be made effective, stable and prosperous. It is contended by demagogues with ulterior ends to serve that the people do not rule unless the body of the electorate exercises the functions of a legislature and a court of final resort. For the mass of people to legislate and exercise judicial functions is utterly impracticable. The proposed scheme of direct legislation is coupled with a proposition to abolish all constitutional safeguards for person and property—safeguards which are the fundamentals of civil and religious liberty in every land under the sun. No government has ever stood and never can stand unless it is planted on constitutional laws or some system of order that guarantees security to the rights of person and property and method of criminal and civil adjudication in accordance with fixed rules and settled principles. Now we are told the people do not rule unless they are permitted to settle constitutional questions by ballot. Trial by jury is guaranteed by the constitution. Suppose some judge were to deny this right and sentence an accused person against whom public sentiment was violently excited. Is his constitutional right to be left to the decision of a popular vote? As well abolish all constitutional guarantees at once. Then civil and religious liberty and the rights of property and of minorities would disappear, because the will of the majority at the moment would be free of restraint. There would be no rule of procedure to govern trials, no settled mode of weighing and sifting evidence, no basic principle of order—nothing that would stand for a moment between an angry mob and the object of its wrath. Under the system under which we live and which, though not without imperfection, is the best yet devised by man, the legislature can pass no act in violation of the constitution, and judicial process is regulated by certain fixed rules. The people can amend the constitution whenever they desire to do so and they can compel the legislature to repeal unpopular laws or pass necessary ones; they elect their judges and legislators just as they do administrative officers. But everything is done in accordance with fixed principles, and by set rule, which preserve inviolate the rights of the individual. But an individual has no rights the majority is bound to respect, say the demagogues. Let the people make a law to fit every case else they are enslaved, they argue, and they delude the notion that every citizen is qualified to be a chief justice and a Senator. It is an insane and impracticable scheme, the next thing to anarchy.

Smelting Iron by Electricity.

If the smelting of iron by electric process can be made a commercial success in California it will be a great thing for this State. There are vast deposits of iron ore in California and water power beyond calculation which can be utilized for the generation of electricity. If the electric process can be developed to meet practical requirements and we have no doubt it will—the fuel and transportation problem will be solved for all time. The smelting agent can be transmitted at small cost direct to the ore, reducing the expense of assemblage to a minimum. For some years a company has been experimenting in Shasta with smelting by electric process. It is announced that it has been demonstrated that the process can be made a financial success. The first carload of pig-iron is now on its way to market, and it is expected that for the last twenty-three days a furnace has been running steadily, turning out from ten to twelve tons of iron daily. This is not a large quantity, to be sure, but it is a good beginning. It is sufficient to demonstrate the feasibility of the process. If the results are anything near the claims made, it will not be many years before big steel working plants will be established on the shore of San Francisco bay, and iron mining will become one of the great industries of California.

Gifford Pinchot on Lying.

In his speeches Gifford Pinchot is telling the people of California that Senator La Follette is a liar. Better testimony than Pinchot's word will have to be submitted before a verdict of guilty is brought in against the man from Wisconsin.

But what objection has Pinchot to offer against lying? He affects Roosevelt did a patriotic thing in breaking his pledge not to be a candidate for a third term. He urged the Colonel to break that pledge.

When the reciprocity agreement with Canada was pending, Roosevelt spoke in favor of it and wrote President Taft a letter commending him for his efforts to put it through. Since taking the stump as a candidate for President, the Colonel has denounced the reciprocity agreement and denied that he ever favored it. When Taft hauled his letter of commendation on him, Roosevelt said no gentleman would make public private letters unless the writer gave permission. Pinchot has never found fault with the Colonel for making the false statement which Taft exposed.

Roosevelt has denounced the Payne-Aldrich law which he endorsed in the New York State Republican Convention in 1910, but Pinchot saw nothing blameworthy in a self-contradiction that involved a falsehood. Roosevelt is right, whatever he says or does, but other men must hew to the line of truth or be forever condemned.

But Roosevelt's violations of his word are matters of record, while the man who accuses La Follette is the only witness against him. Pinchot is judge, jury and accuser. He is trying to excuse a man who is convicted out of his own mouth of making false statements by charging La Follette with not telling the truth. La Follette's word is more entitled to credence than that of Pinchot, and in this instance Pinchot is making a defense of lying while pretending to condemn it.

The San Francisco Mint will not be closed and an appropriation will be provided to continue coinage operations. This should be gratifying to every citizen of California. Indeed the entire Pacific Coast should feel glad. It is nonsense to assert that saving the mint is a partisan victory. While the Republican members of the House stood solidly for the mint, it could not have been saved without the aid of Speaker Clark and a considerable body of Democrats. A minority cannot win a fight when opposed by the majority and the organization of the House. Therefore the honors are divided, and California owes a debt of gratitude to both sides. The claim put forth by certain newspapers that each individually saved the mint is unworthy of notice. The empty boast deceives no one and is simply an advertising vaunt. The press and people of California rose up in defense of the mint and the State's delegation in Congress stood up as one man to prevent it being closed. What's the use of any man saying, "I did it." The decision rested with Congress, and it was for Champ Clark to say thumbs up or thumbs down. Fortunately he gave the right signal.

It is not good form any longer in the Kansas State Agricultural College to eat pie with a knife. A course in table manners has been added to the curriculum, and students are instructed at meals how to handle knife and fork and to use a napkin instead of the sleeve or the tablecloth, as was the former practice. Drinking tea or coffee from a saucer is not scholastic any more. Bleeding Kansas has become fastidious since the grasshoppers disappeared and the automobile has come. Perhaps if Jerry Simpson were alive he would not now regard socks as superfluities of an effete civilization and an evidence of political corruption.

20 YEARS AGO IN OAKLAND

Rev. H. A. Ketchum, pastor of the Presbyterian church, preached upon the text Isaiah 1:11 and in the evening, at the same church, Rev. J. C. Thompson, a missionary from China, will preach.

The Catholics of Berkeley are celebrating their patronal feast of St. Joseph's. Father Scola, S. J., of St. Ignace will preach the sermon.

Horace U. McPhee, editor of the Eastmore News and Valley Union, a delegate to the State Republican convention, is here with his wife and daughter, Edith, as the guest of his father-in-law, H. W. Marquand.

The grand orchestra concert given by the Ladies Aid Society of the First Baptist church of Berkeley, under the direction of George P. Lowell of Oakland, was a very successful affair.

W. Thomas and A. H. Luch have returned from a fishing trip to San Pablo bay.

The Alameda board of health held its regular meeting last evening and Health Officer McLean reported eleven deaths in April.

Ex-Mayor and Mrs. Charles D. French entertained during the week at home, 1414 Grove street. Mrs. John Russ assisted.

OLD LONDON CRIES

The days when the street cries and noises of London or any large city could be regarded as a musical distraction have vanished. Indeed, if the street traders had not forgotten their songs they would stand small chance of being heard in the din of modern traffic, but it is doubtful if many remember the quaint and sometimes charming songs and cries of their trades. Some of them are recalled in an introductory article to "London Stories."

"Lily white vinegar, threepence a quart," must have had a somewhat haunting rhythm, and "Buy any wafers of wax" is arresting. Here is the popular song on the "Buy a broom" cry.

Buy a broom, buy a broom, buy a broom,
Fair ladies, ah! do not refuse me!
The winter comes on very soon, very soon,
And then, you know, ladies, you lose me!

Buy a broom, buy a broom, buy a broom,
Like the bee, I have the same reason
To lay up against winter's gloom,
For the summer is my only season.

Buy a broom, buy a broom, buy a broom,
The night watchman's cry is familiar to most, "Fast 11 and a starlight night!" This book quotes a quaint version.

"Two great dangers the Londoner had specially to fear—the danger of fire and the danger of darkness—and so the watch sang out to avert the danger of fire.

Maid in your smocks
Look well to your locks,
Your fire and your light,
And God give you good night.

"The Simplers" were, in fact, the dispensers of a forgotten pharmacopoeia. From a rare half-sheet print of the Seventeenth Century we give some of their cries:

Here's pennyroyal and marjoram,
Come buy my nettle-tops,
Here's a water-cress and scurvy-grass!
Come buy my sage of virtue, he's a broom,
Come buy my wormwood and ruewort,
Here's all the herbs of every sort.
Here's southernwood that's very good,
Dandelion and house-leek,
Here's dragon's-tongue and wood-sorrel,
With bear's-foot and horehound.

How far these Simplers walked is not known—15 miles into London and 15 miles back would be a small computation. But it has been ascertained that another street cry, one William Conway of Bethnal Green, whose cry was "Hard metal spoons to sell or change!" walked 25 miles a day six days a week, and never knew a day's illness. He had 11 walks about London streets which he went in turn, and it is recorded that he never passed a day without taking some money.

Balloting for May Queen resulted in the crowning of Mrs. N. S. Hubbard, who wore a wreath of pink sweet peas. Mrs. Sydney Smith gave several delightful whistling solos, with piano accompaniment, among them "Abide With Me," and the "Spring Song" of Rubenstein. Mrs. A. H. Glascock gave a talk on the Panama Canal, which she recently visited, illustrating with photos and postcards. Among those who responded cleverly to the toasts were: Mrs. Stephen Klefer, president, "The Message From the Flowers"; Mrs. Annie Little, "Barbie"; Mrs. J. Diggs, "A California Welcome to the Biennial"; Miss Rosemary Dobbins, "A Toast to Sweet Peace"; Mrs. Frederick E. Crowell, "My Club Friend."

An entertaining feature of the day was the delightful singing by Mrs. W. H. Wastem, who was accompanied by Rose Berry. The breakfast was attended by members only and marked the last indoor affair of the club for the season. The annual picnic of the club will be held May 21 at Mosswood Park.

FIRST FOREST FIRE OF SEASON

Blaze in Devil Canyon Is Extinguished by Federal Service.

The 1912 forest fire season opened in California May 4, with a fire in Devil Canyon on the Angeles National Forest, which was extinguished by the Forest Service after it had burned 200 acres. The fire was caused by a power company burning brush on its right-of-way. Supervisor Charlton of the Angeles National Forest reports that in ordinary years such fires are rare, but this year the country has dried out, and a bad season is expected.

The United States Forest Service at San Francisco states that the Forest rangers are organized for a vigorous campaign against fire in the National Forests of the State and urge upon the public compliance with what are known as "The Six Rules." The Forest Office says that if every traveler in the mountains would carefully follow these simple directions, the record would be far better than last year, in spite of the fact that the weather was the worst of the worst fires in 1911 were caused by hunters and campers.

FINISH 800 FOOT IRRIGATING TUNNEL

OAKDALE, May 11.—An 800-foot tunnel on the line of the main supply canal of the South San Joaquin irrigation district will be completed the middle of the week. It is part of T. K. Beard's contract. Two ten-man teams are hauling cement to the joint diverting dam at Willow Bar. Ninety per cent of the open excavation between Arnold's station, on the Santa Fe railroad, and the diverting dam, a distance of ten miles, has been finished. This work is on the Oakdale irrigation district canal. About per cent of the tunnels on the Oakdale district has been finished. It is said that the next estimate of work to be finished by the end of the season will be $100,000.

LIBRARIES WILL GET CONFEDERATE CURRENCY

AUTO ROBBERS CAUGHT AFTER LENGTHY CHASE

CHICAGO, May 11.—Three men who were arrested on the South Side last night while in the act of stealing an automobile, the police believe, may be able to throw light on several robberies and assaults committed by a trio of men traveling abroad in motor cars.

The men were surprised while in the act of making away with the machine of J. J. Carroll. They were taken after a chase of several blocks, in which they were shot at several times.

ROAD TO TAHOE IS BARRED TO AUTOS

TRUCKEE, May 11.—The road to Lake Tahoe by way of this city is impassable to automobiles and vehicles on account of the deep snow near the summit. There is from four to five feet of snow at the summit and snow covers the road all the way from that point to Donner Lake. It will probably be a month before the road is in condition for travel and even then it will not be in the best of condition for autos. Only the road to the lake is in fairly good shape. A gang of men is at work on the road and if no storm breaks between now and June 1 the road will be open. From here to Camanche the road is good. Camanche is the highest point on the line between Placerville and Riverdon.

SCHOOL CHILDREN'S ATTENDANCE IS INCREASING

U. S. Educational Commission
Furnishes Interesting Statistics.

MORE SALARY FOR SEASONED TEACHERS

In Eleven States Annual Pay of Teachers Is Less
Than $400.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—Both the bright and the dark sides of the American educational system are discussed by Dr. P. P. Claxton, the United States commissioner of education, in his annual review of educational conditions, soon to be issued for free distribution by the United States bureau of education.

Dr. Claxton notes that the average number of days attended by each child enrolled in the public schools increased in the first decade of this century by almost 14 per cent. Nevertheless, he points out, the average daily attendance of these children is still only 113 days in the year, or less than 6 1/2 months. Assuming that this rate of attendance shall continue through the 13 school years (5 to 18), the average amount of schooling received by each child of the school population will be only 1464 days or a little more than five years of ten school months each.

The average monthly salary for male teachers has increased about 23 per cent in the decade under discussion, while female teachers are getting 27 per cent more than in 1900. At the same time the average wage for public school teachers all over the country, including teachers in the wealthy cities and in the high schools, is less than $500, about $3 a day for the actual number of days working, about $140 a day for the actual working days of the year.

In this connection, Dr. Claxton says that it should be remembered that teachers are expected to give their entire time either to the actual work in the schoolroom, to school work which must be done out of school hours, or to preparing themselves, in summer schools and elsewhere, for better service. Clearly, there must be a large increase in the salaries of teachers before we may expect the efficient service which is desired.

In some states the wage scale for teachers falls far below the country-wide average. Thus, Dr. Claxton observes: "In eleven states the average annual salary for teachers is less than $400; in eight it is less than $300; in two, less than $250. For salaries like this it is hardly possible to hire the services of men and women of good native ability and sufficient scholarship, training and experience to enable them to do satisfactory work."

Moreover, "a very large percentage of the teachers are men and women less than 21 years old. In the country a large less than one-half have had adequate preparation for their work. In some states less than 25 per cent have had the full preparation given by normal schools and in most of the states less than 10 per cent of the teachers in the country schools have had such preparation. Few continue to teach long enough to gain wisdom and skill from experience. In several states from 70 to 80 per cent of the teachers every year are beginners. In a few states the average length of service is less than four years of six months each."

NOT YET FINANCED.
Continuing his review, Dr. Claxton shows that the value of all public school property increased more than 75 per cent in the first ten years of this century, but that even now it amounts to less than $40 for each child of school age. Similarly, although the income of public schools has increased more than $3 per cent in this period, still even now it is very low in many commonwealths. Thus the expenditure for public education is less than $5 per capita in 25 states and less than $2.50 per capita in 10 states.

HIGH SCHOOL QUESTION.
Dr. Claxton also remarks that the number of public high schools in this country for the period 1900-1910 increased more than 70 per cent, and that the number of high school pupils jumped more than 76 per cent. However, there is still much room for improvement. Says Dr. Claxton: "The United States bureau of education has no reliable statistics on the subject, but it is quite probable that less than half the children of the country finish well more than the first six grades, only about one-fourth of the children ever enter high school, less than eight in every 100 do the full four years of high-school work. Fewer than five in a 100 receive any education above the high school."

AFTERNOON COURTS REVIVAL FEARED BY LONDON
(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)
LONDON, May 11.—A projected royal arrangement which society is viewing with concern and alarm is the Queen's decision to consider adopting Queen Victoria's custom in regard to the drawing rooms and holding them in the afternoon. The appearance in full court dress in the glare of daylight is somewhat trying for middle-aged women, and even young ones in the bloom of beauty do not prefer it.

The habits of the present King and Queen are the reverse of King Edward and Queen Alexandra. The late King was an inveterate night bird, whereas King George and Queen Mary desire to retire early. So in all probability the afternoon drawing room will be resuscitated in the present season.

Another change is that the royal garden party is to be held at Windsor Castle this year, instead of Buckingham Palace. The function is to take place in the middle of July.

His majesty has led the fashion in early hours this season. By 7:30 he is up and about and often in the grounds of the palace waiting the arrival of the post. The dinner is at 1:30. The King is up at 7:45, as in the last reign. And the King has a strict rule of retiring at 11 o'clock, except, of course, on nights of state functions. The King's doings are always watched by society and one instance is that invitations to dances are now 9 o'clock until 1:30.

DOUBLE-TRACK S. P. IN SIERRA NEVADA

RENO, May 11.—The Utah Construction Company has been awarded the contract by the Southern Pacific railroad for the double-tracking of the road from Lawrence to Winnemucca, four miles east of Truckee. The work is to start at once and when completed the double track will extend from Sparks to Truckee, as it is for the double track work extending from Winnemucca to Truckee. According to railroad officials, the work will be started as soon as laborers can be recruited and taken to the scene. The survey for the double track was completed over a year ago, and it is understood that the extra track will be placed in position with but few changes from the present route. The action of constructing the double track is thought locally to mean that the railroad officials are preparing for tunneling through the Sierra and carrying out the pet project advocated by the late E. H. Harriman.

NATION'S WELFARE AND ITS FARMS

Government Official Declares
Agricultural Prosperity Is Vital.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—The national welfare depends upon agricultural prosperity; agriculture itself is daily becoming more and more of a science; and these two factors reinforce the pressing demand for more and better agricultural education among the rural population. But where are the teachers of agriculture coming from? This question is asked by A. C. Monahan, specialist in rural education of the United States Bureau of Education in a bulletin just issued by the Bureau for free distribution.

"At present nearly 2000 high schools are teaching agriculture, the course being taken by an aggregate of some $7,000 pupils," Mr. Monahan writes.

"But in all these schools only a very few besides those giving four-year courses in this subject have instructors with a college or normal school training in scientific agriculture. While a large percentage of the active teachers with this training have had no training in psychology or pedagogy. Probably no one factor has had greater influence in retarding the introduction of substantial courses in agriculture in all those high schools whose pupils are drawn in large numbers from farming districts than the shortage of properly qualified teachers. It will be several years before the supply of men available as instructors in agriculture will be sufficient to meet the demand. Although the salaries paid are from 50 to 100 per cent higher than are those for instructors in other subjects in secondary schools, the state colleges of agriculture are finding difficulty in persuading men to qualify specially for teaching, because even these salaries are not equal to those paid the graduates of these institutions in the agricultural industries."

It is important, however, that properly trained men be obtained. Agriculture as a high school science has not yet been developed into a pedagogical form and until it is so developed a higher grade, better trained teacher is needed for the agricultural subjects than for any other subject in the high school curriculum.

LIBERAL EDUCATION.
"Men for this work need a liberal education in the general culture subjects, together with special training: first, in the physical and natural sciences, particularly in their relations to the science and art of agriculture; second, in technical and practical agriculture and farm practice; third, in rural sociology and agricultural economics; fourth, in general psychology and pedagogy; fifth, in special agricultural pedagogy, including the history of agricultural and industrial education, the place and purpose of agriculture in the high school, the function of the agricultural high school, special methods of teaching agriculture, and other similar aspects of agricultural teaching. The opportunity for such preparation is offered by several of the State colleges of agriculture."

The Bureau of Education's bulletin, which is entitled "Agricultural Education in Secondary Schools," will be sent free upon request to the Commissioner of Education, Department of the Interior, Washington, D. C. Among the topics covered in the bulletin are the following: Essentials in a State system of agricultural education; the need for reliable scientific data regarding the rural problem, and the proper equipment of an agricultural high school.

A bibliography of recent publications of the Bureau of Education which deal with agricultural education is also included.

SALMON SEASON IS PUZZLE TO PACKERS

SEATTLE, May 11.—With the salmon canning season already open to the north and the opening of the season on Puget Sound about a month away, some uncertainty exists among packers as to the outcome of the season's operations. On Puget Sound the situation is complicated. Pink salmon, which run in large numbers on alternate years, will not run this summer. It will also be an off year for sockeyes. Packers will have to devote their attention largely to spring chum, cohoes and dog salmon. While statistically the pack on the sound this season should be light, there are packers who look for a large output. They base their guesses on the assumption that the salmon season will this year be more numerous than ever before and at the same time more aggressive.

Willie Ritchie Has Better of Ad Wolgast After Four Rounds of Torrid Milling

DEAN OF SPORT WRITERS GIVES OPINION OF MILL

W. W. Naughton Critically Watches Wolgast and Ritchie Bout; Thinks Champion Has Slowed Up

By W. W. NAUGHTON.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 11.—While boxing four rounds with Willie Ritchie at the Eighth street arena today, Champion Ad Wolgast scored two knockdowns. It was well that he did so, for had it not been for his success in the direction indicated, the crowd would have felt like giving Ritchie the credit of a victory over the prince of 133-pounders. This because Ritchie outboxed Wolgast in each of the other three rounds and sent him staggering repeatedly with hard lefts and rights.

Jack Welsh presided over the bout and performed all the offices commonly allotted to a referee with the exception of rendering a decision. He was prevented from making a ruling through an agreement entered into between the boxers before the fight. It was that Welsh would have attached more weight to the two knockdowns than to all the prodding and cuffing Wolgast received from Ritchie.

FIGURES A KNOCKDOWN.
A knockdown blow, of course, wipes out a fighter by a pattering opponent and as a knockdown blow is the nearest thing to a knockout it stands to reason that a referee would take more heed than a number of blows which did not carry knockdown force. On this basis of reasoning it is possible that if a decision had been given today it would have been in favor of Wolgast. If, however, there had been a decision and it had been a draw, the writer believes it would have found favor with the majority of the spectators.

To judge from Ritchie's showing today he is not the fighter he was before the operation for appendicitis. If his contest with that spittin', Joe Rivers, were scheduled for a week or two from now the chances are that Rivers would be an even money choice, if not indeed a favorite.

But nearly two months' lay-off before Wolgast and Rivers get together, and if the champion is well advised in the meantime he will cut out all his short-bout engagements and devote his whole attention to preparation for the Fourth of July affair at Los Angeles. It is as sure as the sun shines that if Wolgast is in no better shape in July than he was today there will be a new lightweight champion to rave over.

WOLGAST MISSED OFFEN.
One of the most noticeable things about Wolgast's boxing yesterday was the lack of punch which he missed. Not one out of every four blows at novice Ritchie reached the mark. Ritchie, on the contrary, lashed out with wonderful precision and if it had not been for the local lad's nervous condition Wolgast would have fared far worse than he did.

The importance of the occasion overwhelmed Ritchie. He was in a flustered condition when he appeared in the ring, but not from fear, for he is a game lad. The idea of hooking up with a world's champion and the possibilities that lay in the meeting were what unnerved Master Ritchie. His state of mind was best shown by his actions each time when he staggered Wolgast. Instead of taking things coolly and watching for a chance to inflict a severe blow he was all eagerness, as he tore after Wolgast and defeated the very purpose he had in view.

Wolgast's defense was poor and a thing which happened in the first round afforded the best proof that the effects of the operation are still with him. In forcing Ritchie towards the ropes Wolgast slid up on Ritchie's shoulders while the San Franciscan was ducking. A look of pain came over the champion's face and Ritchie obviously grabbed Wolgast in his arms and assisted him to his feet.

Wolgast, when the round ended, seemed to sink in the chair. In his corner and the look of stress was still with him. He said later that he had hurt his back when he bumped over Ritchie in the manner described, but it is more likely that the far he received when he collided with Ritchie's shoulder was felt by the champion somewhere near the seat of the surgeon's operation. If this surmise is correct it means that Wolgast has a poor chance of keeping up his championship title, for the little bump he received today did not seem severe enough to distress the average properly trained ringman.

The real excitement occurred in the first round, shortly after Ritchie had helped Wolgast to stand erect. Ritchie dealt Wolgast a clean right hander just under the ear and Wolgast went tottering to the ropes. The crowd was on its feet in a flash, hollering as fight crowds do. The notion prevailed that Ritchie had dazed the champion and that another punch of the same kind would spell "knockout" for Mr. Wolgast.

On this particular occasion, however, Wolgast's head cleared rapidly. When the shock of the blow passed, he grinned and went after Ritchie, making vicious swings with the left. It may have been a "blue" assault but it served its purpose, for Ritchie backed rapidly along the ropes.

RITCHIE HIT HARD.
There was another exciting moment in the second round and for that matter a spell of continuous excitement. This time it was a left hook with which Ritchie caused the champion to reel. The champion spread his legs and covered his ears with his gloves. Ritchie, all eagerness, pressed Wolgast to the ropes and stood too close to him to do effective work. Wolgast continued under cover for a few seconds, the inference being that he was hurt, and Ritchie, using better generalship, stepped away a bit and ripped in uppercuts with both hands. Some of them landed and some were stepped by Wolgast's forearms. Meanwhile the champion was recovering from the disturbing effects of that first left hook.

W. W. NAUGHTON.

ENCINAL YACHTSMEN WILL CRUISE TODAY

Tomorrow afternoon a big program of swimming, rowing and sailing races will be given. Women will be swimming races for young women, men and for boys and girls. The program will continue throughout the afternoon.

UNITED STATES LEAGUE. Chicago-Cincinnati, rain. Pittsburgh 3, Cleveland 1. Washington 5, St. Louis 1. New York 6, Reading 6.

Found Ritchie's body a few times, but Ritchie stood to his guns and staggered the champion once again with a right uppercut. Wolgast backed to the ropes and seemed to be in difficulties.

Ritchie, too eager by far, hustled Wolgast into a corner, but failed to locate any further openings. Wolgast loosened up again shortly before the end of the round and swung one spiteful left against the San Franciscan's jaw.

THIRD IS HUMMER.

Ritchie did very well at the beginning of the third round with a straight left to the jaw and a grueling center ensued. Wolgast, who felt that he was losing credit, cut loose with full range swings to the body and face and Ritchie fought back. They fell to the floor in one rally and when they arose Ritchie had the man with upper cuts. Then when Willie's friends were hawling their loudest and urging their man to lay on harder Wolgast let go a left swing which took Ritchie on the chin and sent him to the floor. Ritchie arose quickly and Wolgast dropped him again, this time with a right hander.

It looked bad for Willie right then, but soon after he stood erect again the bell came to his relief. Wolgast in the meantime having aimed a dozen left swings, now one of which reached the mark.

The concluding round was a fierce one. Ritchie certainly landed a great number of blows, but by this time his punching force had diminished. He kept the champion expostulating blood with repeated left and right hand jobs between the nose and mouth, but he could not hit hard enough to send Wolgast off his balance as he had done in the preceding rounds.

GENEROUS FANS AID FIGHTER WHO IS LOSING EYES

One touch of nature makes the whole world akin. Yesterday afternoon those men that follow the fight game, saw a short, stout young fellow, wearing heavy dark glasses, being led into the ring at Cochrane arena.

In a few moments Billy Gordon had told those fellows that the man before them was Young Togo, a Japanese boxer, and that he was to have a benefit at Dreamland Rink on next Wednesday evening, because he was going stone blind.

Like a bolt from the blue, dollars, half-dollar pieces and quarters began to pour into the ring while now and then a gold piece was added to the pile. Then when the offerings were counted nearly $250, was handed to the stricken boxer.

And to help the cause along, Sid Grauman gave him a check for $10.

A ROMANCE SHATTERED

Mother's Sweetheart of 25 Years Ago Elopes With Young Daughter.

SCRANTON, Pa., May 11.—A shattered romance of long ago, and the unusual love of a 19-year-old girl for a man old enough to be her grandfather, furnished an absorbing story in police court here when Jim Leary of Nichols, N. Y., faced a charge of enticing pretty Irene Lane from her home in the same village. The pair were taken off a Lackawanna train when it was learned that they were on their way to Brick Church, N. Y., to be married.

Leary, standing six feet, but looking every day of his 60 years, was in striking contrast to the beautiful girl who declared between sons that she was the best man in the world, and that she was still willing to marry him if the authorities would not interfere.

"Like him just as much as mother did, and she's always been sorry that she didn't marry him," said the girl.

Irene told the magistrate that Leary was an old sweetheart of her mother, and that she had grown to love him during the several months that he had lived with the family in Nichols. Twenty-five years ago Leary and the girl's mother were about to be married, but on account of parental objections the engagement was broken. Leary afterward married another girl, but his wife died in a few years and in his loneliness he turned to his sweetheart of the old days. In the meantime she, too, had married, and with the consent of her husband, Leary came into their home as a boarder.

For years Irene and Leary have been constant companions. "I have had no boy friends," said the girl, "and I've been good to me, and I don't want to leave him. When he told me that we would have to be married if we were to go away and live together, I was perfectly willing to run away with him. He didn't have to coax me to go. He said he was going to take care of me, and I said, 'Just like mother.'"

Leary said that he explained the situation to his wife, and that she had consented to the marriage. The magistrate fined Leary $10 for enticing a minor, and Irene was committed to the county jail for a few days. The old man said his fine and offered to leave Nichols county to go to his wife's home in Nichols. The disorderly conduct consisted of hugs and kisses between the pair. This first attracted the attention of passengers on the train and led to the pair's arrest.

THE FIGHT BY ROUNDS

ROUND ONE.

ROUND TWO.

They clinched, with Wolgast driving his left to the body and a moment later swung a terrific right to the jaw, staggering Ritchie. The champion ripped in a good left to the face, but the Californian sent his opponent back with two vicious short-arm blows. Ritchie followed his advantage, landing solid punches to the jaw and Wolgast again sprang to the floor. As he arose Ritchie followed the champion with his feet in a terrific upsurge. Ritchie again staggered the champion with a successful right to the jaw. Wolgast was on his feet in a twinkling, but he was not in the face of this hammering Wolgast covered up. It was all Ritchie's round and Wolgast looked a bit crestfallen when he took his seat listening to the crowd cheer "an antagonist." Wolgast's second gave him a taste of whiskey during the intermission.

ROUND THREE.

They went at it fiercely at close range, both landing on the body. The crowd yelled with excitement. Wolgast responded with a straight left to the jaw and followed up with right and left to the face. So fierce was the milling that both sprang to the floor. As he arose Wolgast planted his right solidly to the stomach, but Ritchie retaliated with two powerful lefts to the chin. Ritchie then pecked away at the face, getting home almost at will. Suddenly Wolgast shot his left fist to the jaw and Ritchie staggered to the floor. As he arose Wolgast topped him to the mat with a right cross and Ritchie was very groggy. The round ended with Wolgast smiling.

ROUND FOUR.

Wolgast lunged his left twice to the stomach and missed with left for the jaw. Wolgast closed in trying for a finishing punch, but Ritchie was evasive. As they mixed Wolgast drove his left into Ritchie's chest and he staggered. The champion then forced his man to the ropes, but missed several times with fierce swings. Ritchie then got the champion into a corner and he landed many hard rights to the jaw. The men fought a furious clip with Ritchie nettled. Wolgast kept blood as he came out of a mix during which Ritchie scored his only victory with lefts to the mouth. The round and fight ended in a mix with Wolgast splitting blood. The crowd was very given. Opinion on the result was divided.

CALIFORNIAN GIVES PROOF THAT HE IS SOME BOXER

Cadillac Man Has His Old-Time Punch and Will Be Among Those Present for Many Many Moons to Come

By BERT LOWRY.

DOLPH WOLGAST of Cadillac, Michigan, is a great and grand little fighter whether he has an appendix or not. This he demonstrated at Jim Cochrane's arena yesterday afternoon when he was called upon to wade through a four-round bout with one William Ritchie. This William Ritchie is a great and grand fighter, too, and he demonstrated to the fans as well as Mr. Jones and Mr. Ad Wolgast that there is another fighter that can show Mr. Jones and Mr. Wolgast something in the line of milling.

heads and bodies of each other. Some men were harmless, while others were the which of pain.

Wolgast had begun to bleed at the mouth after an amateurish blow from Ritchie, and the crowd trifled down his chin and onto the nose. Ritchie looked to have a bad time on the now badly damaged mouth. Wolgast began to get his wind and to show his mouth.

Unrelenting was Ritchie, and he tried and tried to land that knockout blow. All the tricks of the trade showed in the mind of Wolgast and the knowledge of the game stood him in good stead. It was his battle with his own gameness and stamina that was his more than anything else.

WELCOMES THE GONG.
With arms tying the gong sounded and it must have been welcome to both men. For while Ritchie looked to have the best of the milling and was landing the most blows, Wolgast wasn't much hurt. He was a fighter and he was letting them all over his head or on his body, and they were not one-half as damaging as were those that Ritchie delivered.

With the closing of the bout the two boys smiled at each other and then shook hands. As they climbed down the ropes Wolgast went painfully toward his dressing room, stopping occasionally to spit away the blood and maybe to rest. Ritchie's second threw his bath towel over him and he jumped through the ropes loudly the victor.

Through the crowd he worked his way with the cheers and congratulations of the boys all the credit in the world is due to him. It was a great stand for a Californian made against the world's champion, and it was a great stand for a little Californian made against the world's champion, and it was a great stand for a little Californian made against the world's champion.

All the way through the fight, and no man could say that he did not get his money's worth and that some. James W. Cochrane handled the mill in his usual calm manner, and his assistant, Gregory Mitchell, signed up a bunch of preliminary fighters that gave plenty of action in every bout.

The first bout brought together George Hall and Harry Keller, and they fought a draw. Willie Campbell and George W. Smith fought a draw, and then Harry Foley did the right thing by stopping the mill, for Cochrane was out of his mind. Eddie Burns and Eddie Duarte, the latter a Philippine, boxed four hurricanes and a draw without really favoring the Californian.

Douglas fought a draw, while the referee again showed that he was right when he stopped the bout between Joe Adams and George Temple in the second round.

Referee Foley also stopped the bout between Yufiro Watanabe, the Japanese, and Willie Hoppe, the pride of Butcher town, because the day was without chance against the white boy. Jack Welsh referred the "main event" and Harry Foley assisted by Harry Smith and Joe Watts as judges, handled the press, and all of them did their work in a satisfactory manner.

MILLION MILES OF ROAD TO RECEIVE ATTENTION

Action for Betterment of Highways Being Taken Throughout the Land; Texas to Have Farmers' Run

A million miles of road in all parts of the United States this year will receive attention of one kind or another, as a result of the greater use of the highway, brought about mainly by the increased number of self-propelled vehicles. In making this estimate, Chairman George C. Diehl of the A. A. A. National Good Roads Board, believes the total is a conservative one, for there are now 2,000,000 miles of roads, of which nearly one-half comes in for a substantial amount of daily traveling. In the spring reports which the Good Roads Board received from all parts of the country there is unusual girth of information, indicating positive progress.

Down in Texas the Texas Good Roads Association and the Texas State Automobile Association are combining in what will be known as a Farmer's Run, a condition of which stipulates that the entrant must live on a farm or ranch, own his own automobile, and drive it himself. In the Lone Star State the percentage of cars sold to farmers has more than doubled during the past six months.

GETTING ACTION IN NEBRASKA.
In Nebraska the legislative committee of the State Automobile Association is preparing three measures to be introduced at the next session of its legislature. First there is provision for a State Highway Commission, and it follows as a natural sequence that there must be State aid in construction and maintenance. Another law will be one permitting the use of convicts on the roads, a plan followed most successfully principally in the South, though also being adopted quite generally in the West. Even New Jersey's legislature adopted a law permitting the use of convicts in road building. The particular reason why the Nebraskans are starting this early is because they intend to consult with legislative candidates, and will only support those who believe in up-to-date highway laws by New Mexico.

Before the present Arizona legislature adjourns, President T. G. Norris of the Arizona Good Roads Association hopes to procure an appropriation of funds, by the use of which the roads of Arizona will be logged and mapped. Similar action is sought by New Mexico.

IDAHOO HELPS IN WORK.
Idaho at the annual meeting of its State automobile association, pledged the raising of a sufficient amount of money to complete what is known as the Ross Fork road, which will give a graded highway from Salt Lake City to Island Park and on to the Yellowstone Park. Dr. Snodgrass of the Bannock County Automobile Club, one of Idaho's most active organizations, comments:

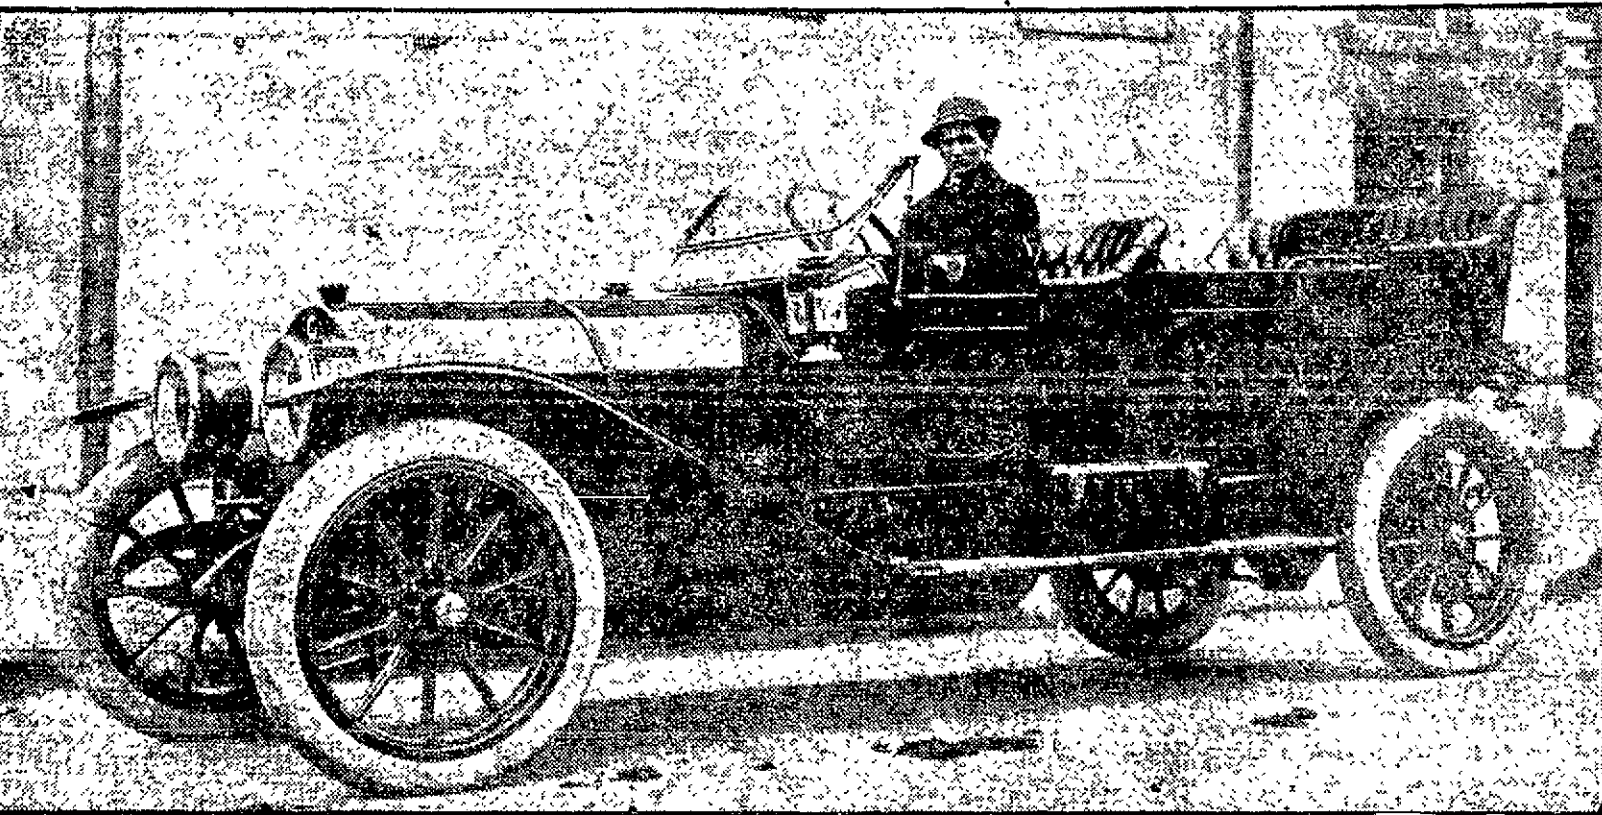

"The drive to Yellowstone from Ogden or Salt Lake is now a pleasure. Assured all transcontinental travelers that we are alive to the good roads movement and will keep on moving for good roads."

Concurrent with the opening of New Jersey to the automobile tourists of other States there came the necessity for urgent good roads measures, which were passed by the legislature at its concluding session. One law provides for a State system of highways, and distributes the cost of their building; another measure revised the act concerning permanent improvement and maintenance of public roads; the third amendment added the State Treasurer of the State Highway Commission. In spending the $2000 of the automobile money for sign-posting roads, State Commissioner Stevens will probably mark the trunk line route from Jersey City to Camden, which, being interstate in character, is greatly used by non-residents who have more difficulty than State travelers in their journeyings.

AL. LEONARD LOOKS THE LOCAL FIELD OVER

Al. Leonard, who is now Pacific Coast representative for the Beckley-Ralston Co. of Chicago, one of the largest automobile jobbing firms in the country, is spending some little time in the local field in his firm's interest. Al. and his illuminating smile form a happy combination, and the two together work in harmony in the task of getting the business for the B. and R. Co.

GEORGE DANIELS IS COMING WEST

President of Oakland Motor Co. to Visit Coast on Tour of Inspection.

George E. Daniels, president and general manager of the Oakland Motor Company, will be in San Francisco the coming week. This is the first time that Daniels has been out to the coast in several years, his visit at this time being for the purpose of looking over the western automobile situation.

Charles A. Magee, the comptroller of the General Motors Company, who has been visiting the city, left this week for the southern part of the state. Magee, before leaving, had many kind things to say of California.

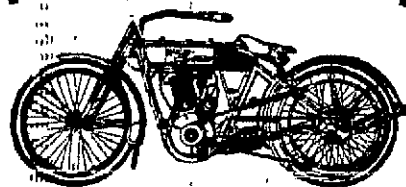

He was most forcibly struck with the people he met, and in discussing his stay here said: "I am glad that I came west, and only sorry that circumstances had so willed it that I had not been here before. We of the east have some idea of the people here, their energy and the way they go to the point in their business dealings. They have an individuality that is all their own."

"You are not aware of this individuality in doing business at long range, thousands of miles away. You have to come here to fully appreciate it. Take, for instance, the farmer in California; you call him here a rancher. Outside of the fact that he wears a little more sunburn than you indoor living people there is nothing to distinguish him from the city merchant. He is up-to-date; he knows just what kind of a car he wants to buy, and from what I have seen of him while here he buys the best. He seems to be most particular about the chassis; the finish and comfort of the body is an item with him, but first of all he wants as near perfection in the power plant as he can money will get him. Then, again, I was surprised to find out the number of high-grade cars that were being sold to these ranchmen. They are merchants of the land, and not the farmer of old, that was the source of revenue for the funny pages."

30,000 TRUCKS TO BE MADE THIS YEAR

Motor Expert Compiles Figures Showing the Growth of Industry.

In an interesting lecture given by E. S. Foljambe, editor of the Commercial Car Journal of Philadelphia, some surprising statistics were given regarding the automobile industry.

In his opening remark Mr. Foljambe quoted figures showing that in a brief period of not over twelve years, the manufacture of motor-driven vehicles has leaped into the third place of importance among the industries of this country.

Twelve years ago there were not over 3000 motor vehicles in use in America—now there are over 652,461, these being the registration figures up to April, 1912. The daily production of pleasure cars during the year 1911 reached the surprising figure of 700 per day and this number will be exceeded at the present rate for 1912, one maker alone now producing 10,000 cars a month or at the rate of a complete car every minute and 21 seconds.

Commercial cars have not been a factor until the last three years. There are now over 200 American manufacturers of pleasure cars, and 280 makers of trucks.

Up to 1911, registration figures show 25,451 commercial vehicles in use.

It is significant of the recent impetus in the manufacture of commercial cars that estimates place the production for 1912 at 50,000. Thus, in one year the total number of motor trucks in use will be double.

In a canvass made, it was ascertained that some 73 per cent of all users of commercial cars, in every line of business, throughout the United States, are unanimous in the opinion that the motor-driven truck is not only past the experimental stage, but ranks with the telephone, telegraph, electric light and transportation lines. Numerous quotations of letters from men in all kinds of business, were given, showing conclusively that commercial cars are considered more economical than former methods.

To fact, their use has opened up new territories, increased business and produced satisfactory customers—while with horses, or even by rail, these territories were either inaccessible, or too expensive to bring within reach. Several instances were also given in which the trucks actually compete with the railroads and show a resultant saving.

Mr. Foljambe expressed the belief that although the commercial car will undoubtedly do all of the heavy hauling in our large cities, and gradually be accepted throughout the country, as have the railroad, telegraph, telephone and other space annihilating inventions, yet the horse will never be entirely displaced. He said it is a mistake to assume that the horse will entirely disappear from our streets, as there will always be circumstances which will retain this faithful friend in the service of man.

My Greatest Success

By R. E. Olds, Designer

Trainloads of Reo the Fifth

In the past 25 years a dozen models of mine have become the season's sensation. Again and again I have seen the factory swamped, and men paying a bonus to get my latest creation.

But Reo the Fifth has broken all records. I never saw a demand which compares with this.

Five cities at this writing have trainload orders with us—orders for forty carloads each—to go in a single shipment.

But the demand is just beginning. Very few men have yet discovered this car.

Soon there will be 10,000 cars in the hands of 10,000 owners. Ten thousand men will be telling others how Reo the Fifth performs.

Then will develop the real demand for this final car of mine.

Not a Passing Sensation

Other season sensations have come and gone. New cars and better came out to displace them.

Those days are over now. Reo the Fifth comes close to the limit in motor car engineering. It embodies the final results of my 25 years of experience. In every detail it marks the best I know.

There is no probability that we shall ever see a materially better car. The years can bring only minor changes.

It Deserves It

This car deserves popularity. That is my satisfaction.

The men who buy it get the utmost of which I am capable. There will be no regrets—none to say I misled him. And none will ever see a car which gives more for the money.

The steel in this car is all analyzed. Every vital part is put to radical test.

Parts are ground over and over; to get utter exactness. Inspection is carried to extremes.

There are big margins of safety. The bearings are Timken and Hyatt—roller bearings, in place of the usual ball bearings.

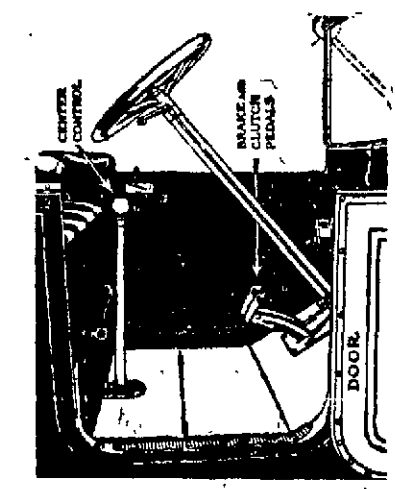

The tonneau is roomy, the wheels are large, the car is over-tired. The carburetor is doubly heated.

The body is finished in 17 coats. The upholstering is deep, the lamps are enameled. Even the engine is nickel trimmed.

Every part of the car shows the final touch—the avoidance of petty economies. I am proud of it. Not an iota has been omitted which could add to the worth of this car.

Center Control— No Side Levers

Then here, for the first time, we get rid of all side levers. All the gear shifting is done with this center cane handle—done by the right hand. It is done by moving this lever less than three inches in each of four directions.

Both brakes are operated by foot pedals, one of which also operates the clutch. So the entrance in front, on either side, is clear.

This arrangement permits of the left side-drive. The driver sits, as he should sit, close to the passing cars—on the up side of the road. Heretofore this was possible in electric cars only.

Thus we have solved the last important problems in designing.

Price Still $1055

The price of this car remains at $1055, though subject to instant advance. This price is too low for a car like this. It leaves no adequate margin.

But we shall continue this price, in all probability, until materials on hand are exhausted.

Come See It

This car is the topic of Mordom. It is the most talked-of car of the season. At $1055 it is the most under-priced car that was ever put on the market.

Come to the local show-rooms and see it. Make your own comparisons. Judge it for yourself.

It's Easy to Say "Only a Few Cars Left"

Whenever a dealer finds himself with a warehouse full of cars, it is most natural to Pound the Big Gong and rush into print relative to the "Shortage of Cars."

He thinks by making you believe that he is nearly sold out that you will want his car.

For twelve years we have never made a statement that we could not back.

So many indefinite, extravagant claims are being made relative to 1912 business—such as a quoting of State registrations (you can buy a registration for $2)—that we want the public to know the exact truth.

We have sold and delivered Three Hundred and Sixty-seven New 1912 Chalmers Cars in Northern California, and we still have on file fifty-nine orders, with deposits, for 1912 Cars for delivery before July 1.

Our allotment for the season of 1912 totals 467 cars. This leaves us exactly 41 Chalmers to sell during the next three months; 33 of which are model 36s, and 8 are the new Six cylinders.

SUGGESTS NEW ROUTE FOR ANNUAL A. A. TOUR

New York to San Francisco Trip Is Practicable and Easy to Make, States Noted Tourist

According to Dr. Charles G. Percival, editor of Health Magazine of New York city, who has crossed the continent four times in four different directions to say nothing of having traveled 45,000 miles in a continuous automobile journey into every state in the Union, Canada, Mexico, British Columbia, Alaska and the Yukon in the Abbott-Detroit "Building" in the last twenty months, there is nothing wonderful in a trip across the continent and that there is no reason why next year's annual tour of the A. A. A. could not be made from New York city to San Francisco inside of three weeks with ease and comfort by the competing cars. Dr. Percival puts the distance at exactly 4000 miles, and gives from his veteran experience the following schedule and shows how the cross-continent tour can be run and avers that during the Pacific-Panama Exposition to be held in San Francisco that thousands of automobilists will make the trip. The route, as given by him, follows some of the most interesting country in the United States and is replete with beautiful scenery, and, with the exception of perhaps four days, good hotel accommodations can be secured, and during these days accommodations can be secured at many of the large and commodious ranches, whose hospitable owners are always glad to welcome and entertain visitors. Gasoline is procurable at almost every 100 miles along the route, and one who has ever taken the trip will never rave again of the beauties of Europe, claims the much traveled New York physician.

The route and daily schedule, as given by Dr. Percival, follows, and August has been picked by the Abbott tourists as the best time of the year. Aside of a good block and tackle and several blankets, large desert water bags, shovel and axe, he advises no extra and cumbersome equipment, though he suggests every tourist carry a small alcohol cooking stove and two days' rations of palatable canned foods:

MILLER TIRES HELP IN TETZLAFF'S WINNING RACE

Teddy Tetzlaff attributes to one source more than any other, as a factor in his winning the Santa Monica race, the service given him by the Miller tires equipped on his Fiat. Prior to the running of the classic Tetzlaff was regarded a rank outsider and little hope was held out for his chances to capture first honors.

After several laps had been run and he was still in the lead he was looked upon in an altogether different light. One noticeable fact was that he was not hampered by tire trouble. During the entire contest he changed but three tires. In the terrific grind to which they were subjected the Miller casings and tubes withstood the strain without difficulty.

If you want to really know how good they are, communicate with "Terrible Teddy."

HYDRA-MOTOR-BIKE WILL TACKLE THE BAY AGAIN

ALAMEDA, May 11.—Eugene Frey, inventor of a hydra-motorcycle designed for traveling on land or water, will make a second attempt to cross San Francisco bay in his novel craft tomorrow. The machine is a motorcycle equipped with pontoons and a sail. On land the pontoons are folded up and the machine is run as a motorcycle. On the water the pontoons float the machine and the motorcycle engine drive it. The sail is to insure stowage away in case the engine is disabled. Frey has been experimenting with his unusual vehicle on Lake Merritt in Oakland for several weeks. He attempted to cross the bay recently, but the driving chain of the motorcycle broke and ended the attempt. The breaking of the chain caused Frey to add a sail to the equipment.

WOMEN AUTOISTS ENJOY TOUR IN A KLINE KAR

Mrs. Florence M. Boyers, at the wheel of her four-cylinder Kline Kar, and her two sisters and Mrs. Hager, comprising a party of four, have just completed a pleasant trip to Byron Springs. They visited points in Contra Costa, Sonoma and other counties. The young ladies report a very enjoyable trip, not having a single mishap in the way of a puncture or otherwise, to mar the pleasure of the trip. Mrs. Boyers drove the car during the entire journey and states that the roads which they traveled were in fine condition.

GUY SMITH PURCHASES THREE NEW CHALMERS

Lawrence Hunsacker closed a sale last week with Guy Smith, the local theatrical man, for three Chalmers cars. Two of them are the 36 models, one a roadster and the other a touring car. The third is a seven-passenger, six-cylinder touring car. Competition for the business among several of the dealers was of the keenest nature, Hunsacker and the Pioneer Auto Co. finally winning out. Smith is delighted with his new cars, and when not busily engaged during the day he is sure to be found in some one of the three cars.

TAKE A TOUR TO THE NAPA SPRINGS

Newspaper Scribes Enjoy a Pretty Ride to the Famed Health Resort.

Ever been to Napa Soda Springs? Ever ride there leisurely over the beautiful drives through Marin, Sonoma and Napa counties? Well, if one hasn't, he should be penalized for missing one of the most enjoyable and delightful scenic pleasures with which this section of California is surrounded. Upon the invitation of Raymond Jackson, of the Jackson Napa Soda Springs, last Sunday two models of the Howard Automobile Co.—one a Buick "28" and the other a model "32"—were selected to convey a corps of newspapermen to Napa and the springs, the object being a general observation of the conditions of the roads between Sausalito and Napa.

The roads were found to be in excellent condition, save in the vicinity of Ross, where they are badly in need of repair.

Aside from this locality, it is a pleasure to automobile through a perfect paradise of beautiful homes in the various places, down the line.

The tribute to nature seen in the surroundings of Jackson's Napa Soda Springs is one of the most notable to be had anywhere. Beautiful white stone buildings are located on the sides and head of Castle Peak and overlook the magnificent valley of Napa county, with its broad checker-board of agriculture and truck gardening.

There is everything for the convenience of guests. The hotel, buildings and grounds are under the supervision of Mr. J. H. Flegg & Son. Everything is operated in the highest degree of good management. Nothing is left undone or omitted that will add to the pleasure of a visit to these springs. Its water is noted for its beneficial results and is highly recommended by leading physicians. For generations, longer than the memory of the oldest inhabitant, this pure water has given up from the bowels of the earth a generous and unending supply.

NEW CHALMERS ROADSTER MODELS REACH COAST

The first carload of the new Chalmers "30" Roadsters arrived in San Francisco on Monday. This new model is fully equipped with self-starter, top, glass front, etc., and the price of $1850 f. o. b. San Francisco on same is going to make it a very popular car in California.

SOUTH POLE MOVES, WRITES EXPLORER

LONDON, May 11.—The Australian mail brought details from Hobart, Tasmania, of the news brought here on March 12, by the ship Aurora, which took Dr. Douglas Mawson's Antarctic expedition to Adelle land.

Among other things, the expedition had proved that Adelle land, which was reported to have been discovered by Durville in 1883, did not exist. The expedition found Termination land, which was originally discovered by Wilkes. Numerous islands were also discovered along the great ice barrier.

Doctor Mawson sent back by the Aurora a letter in which he describes the southern magnet pole as a force center which, like a will-o-the-wisp, is dancing around daily within a circular area, the diameter of which is variable and uncertain. It may be a few miles or more than thirty. The whole area it has circled is 240 miles in 60 years.

An English countess says she is coming to live in this country because she likes American men. This is no accident!

JONES AUTO TO EXPAND WITH BUSINESS GROWTH

The work of enlarging the salesroom of the Jones Auto Co. will be under way this week and within a fortnight the task completed will give to this corner headquarters as commodious and complete in arrangements as are to be found on the western coast.

Since the signing up of the sale of automobiles the business of the firm in this accessory line has increased considerably, bringing about at this time a shortage of stock in many lines. New supplies are being regularly received, placed in stock and made ready for shipment to customers.

OLD LOVE LETTERS HUSBAND'S LEGACY

CHICAGO, May 11.—Three wills left by Mrs. Margaret Potter Black, an author, who died recently, were filed in the probate court. In the last will, which was signed in February, 1910, Mrs. Black bequeathed to her former husband, John D. Black, "his letters written to me during my past life, and nothing more." A nephew, Orrin W. Potter, 2d, receives the bulk of the estate under this will.

The earlier testaments gave a large share of the estate to the husband, and one of them names him sole executor. The estate is worth $150,000.

40 years building the Tough White Tread

Long before there were any rubber-tired vehicles, we were learning about rubber—how to add durability, yet retain the elasticity of the pure gum. When the automobile arrived, this experience made Goodrich Tires—

The Original American Clinchers,

the standard of value, because they were "made of real rubber"—and made right. Experience, also, led us to adopt, from the first, the right method of construction—the mileage-producing tire—Integrally Molded—Wearing as a unit

GOODRICH TIRES

Last of all, over 30 years of experience was responsible for the first really tough tread, on a pneumatic automobile tire—the justly Famous White Tough Tread —the most durable form of rubber known, made inseparable with the tire, that it cannot peel, part or come loose.

Like the Sole of a Good Shoe the White Tough Tread stays on, wears slowly and protects the "upper" or flexible part from injury and contact with the ground.....Goodrich users never "travel on their uppers."

Goodrich Service is a "Good Will Service." One hundred supply stations furnish all styles, to fit all rims—and take care of the user after sale.

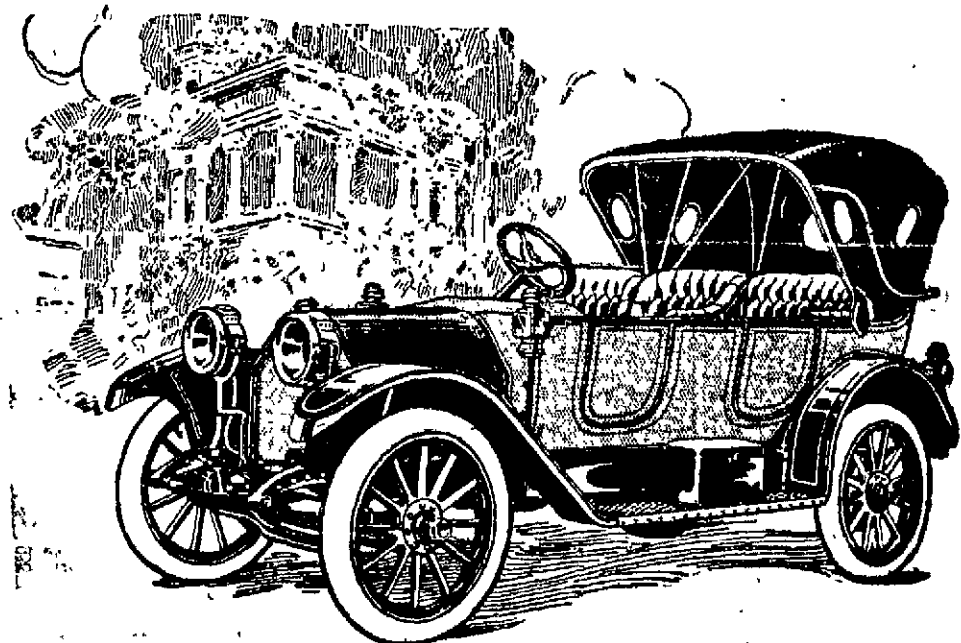

Which will you have this year: Pleasurable Mileage, from tires that started right and are right, together with generous service, or — "just tires?"

F. H. Dailey, county agent for Reos, and California representative for the Ames, concluded arrangements last week whereby he becomes a distributor of the well-known line of Premier cars. The deal was closed with T. C. Whitcomb, special representative for the Premier Motor Car Company.

By the addition of this line Dailey now carries and will sell as complete a line of cars, in horse power and price, as can be found in any saleroom on either side of the bay.

The Indianapolis factory has been negotiating with the local man for some time and the latter, before closing, satisfied himself that in the Premier he would have a car, which, in the vernacular of the street, "would take the dust from no other man's car."

The Premier is made on two chassis, one of a four-cylinder and the other a six. Both are of high horse power and in constructive design have long since established a reputation for excellence that is equaled by few.

A performance made a year ago by eleven Premier owners in traveling from New York to San Francisco, thence to Los Angeles, was one which won for it an esteem among motor experts that will always be associated with each year's model bearing the name "Premier."

Without other than the same amount of preparation being made when a long tour is to be undertaken, these private owners essayed the task of successfully making the journey from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast, running on fast schedule time. The trip was concluded by all of the cars to start, without difficulty of any nature. This feat at the time was the subject of country-wide discussion.

In its present hands, the Premier will be well taken care of and before the year is rounded out a number of the latest cars will be found running on the streets of the cities about the bay.

It's a REO AGAIN, HOLDS. The Warren-Reo agency, which has been putting up for the coveted honor of the holder of the Fresno-San Francisco road record, some months ago, the Leo lowered it only to be beaten by the Warren. Then the Reo started out for still better time and succeeded. In capturing the second victory, "The Warren" soon followed suit and cut a substantial slice from the Reo mark. Last week, the Reo made another and a successful try for the record and in turn reduced the time between the Golden Gate and main cities to a figure that will probably remain unbeaten.

Four hours and twenty-seven minutes was the time it took driver Earl Jackson to cover the distance between the two points, a mark considerably faster than that made by the Owl train. The accomplishment is just another notch to the credit of the sturdy Reo.

A Pittsburg woman's dog swallowed a $450 diamond. If this keeps up judges at kennel shows will have to be provided with X-rays.

Congressional Candidate Uses Flanders to Help Him in Political Fight.

Campaigning for office in a motor car was reduced to a science in the recent political disturbance in Chicago, by John F. Delaney. Mr. Delaney was running for a nomination to Congress in one of the districts that includes several Chicago suburbs. He is young and ambitious and wanted to become known to as many of his prospective constituents and in as short a time as possible. An automobile naturally recommended itself and Delaney picked a Flanders "20."

To outfit the car for campaigning Delaney designed a folding platform with a padded base, which, when extended, neatly bridged the gap between the two seats, resting on the backs of both. This platform was strong and large enough to accommodate four persons. Delaney carried along a quartet of musicians.

When the music had drawn the crowd together, Delaney, megaphone in hand, would assail the live issues of the day. The meeting ended, the platform would be folded up and the entourage would dash away for the next stop, often traveling through many miles through roads soaked with the rains of early spring.

Delaney's Flanders "20" was covered with his literature and was itself an attractive feature of his campaign.

When the campaign ended, Delaney embodied his experiences in a newspaper article in which he insisted that a capable motor car was absolutely necessary to the equipment of any campaign speaker.

"In one day," he maintained, "I spoke to 4000 persons and made the towns of West Pullman, Blue Island, Harvey, Dalton and Riverdale, covering more than 25 miles over rough roads, between stops, and with mud in several places up to the axles. I made 55 speeches in Chicago from my campaign car. Almost always the car was shamefully overloaded but the motor never failed."

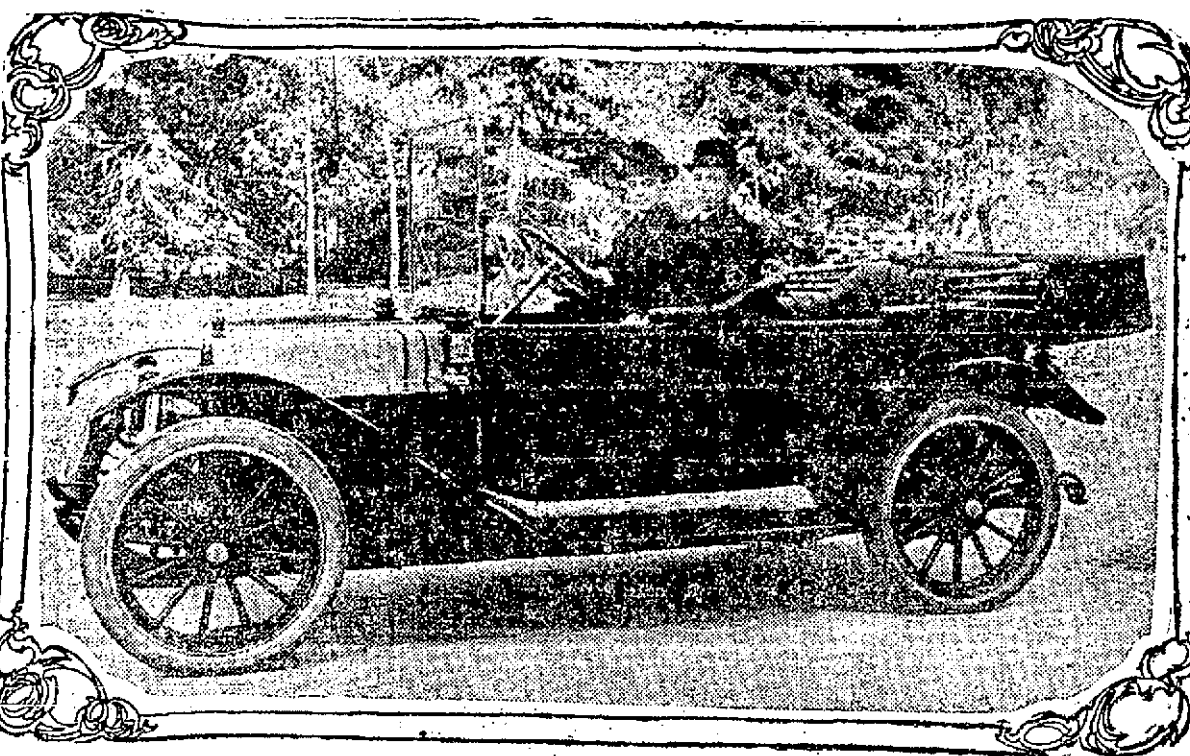

"The expense of a campaign of this sort is no small element in its favor. Aside from the practically negligible amount of gasoline and oil for the car, and the salaries of my musicians, I was spending no more than I had stayed at home."

REO FINDS ITS WAY IN TO NEW OWNERS' HANDS

A number of deliveries of Reo cars have been made recently by the F. H. Dailey Motor Car Co., sales distributors in this country for the car. Among the happy owners who have joined the satisfied clan known as the Reo family are: John Goldstone of Alameda, N. E. Metcalf of Oakland, Dr. Riley of Alameda, J. E. Baker, president of the First National Bank of the Emerald City; Rene Guillou of Berkeley, Dr. Pond, the well-known physician, who also hails from Alameda, has ordered a Reo touring car, delivery to be made in New York, where the doctor will soon visit. From this point he will spend several weeks touring the New England states, and will then ship his car home.

T. R. has called down his Washington press bureau for issuing statements full of bitter invectives against Taft. That man certainly has a jealous disposition.

CHRISTOFFERSON IS USING NEW CRAFT

Aviator Recently Injured Again
Busy Flying on Marsh in Alameda.

ALAMEDA, May 11.—Silas Christofferson, the young aviator who has resumed his aerial work on the Alameda marsh after having been injured, three weeks ago, made a dozen or more fine flights about the field today. Christofferson went into the air easily each time. That he is contemplating some extended aerial feat is evidenced by his talk. He frequently makes reference to Bryant's and Francis' trip across the bay to the Presidio last Wednesday.

Christofferson said today that when once in the air and looking over towards the Presidio on a still day, it was a great temptation to start out across the bay on a long spin. Christofferson is arranging to put a passenger seat on the rebuilt Curtiss he is now using. He and his brother constructed the machine in two weeks of time from the battered remnants of the machine he wrecked in a fall when his ankle was hurt. The same engine and running gear is in the new machine. All but five of the ribs of the old machine were broken in the tumble. Christofferson is now building a new engine and expect to soon construct a new biplane of single propeller style, with the propeller in front instead of at the back.

Speaking of his recent accident, Christofferson said today that he believed it was a lucky thing for an aviator to have a severe though not crippling fall early in his career, as it taught him needed caution. The young aviator says his startling experience of falling sixty feet with his aircraft has in nowise weakened his nerve.

Christofferson declares that he has no use for automatic balancers and says that they prevent an aviator from maneuvering freely in the air. He explains his own recent mishap by saying that he was not familiar with the airship he was flying in and was in ignorance of the strength of the engine.

TIRE FITTING TASK IS MINIMIZED BY NEW RIM

Tire fitting is not always the easy task motorists could wish, but the Michelin Tire Company has minimized the difficulty with the introduction of its 1912 Quick Detachable Clincher. An important advantage of this tire is that it is very easy to put on any quick detachable rim. It eliminates the necessity for laborious fitting. It simply drops on the rim without forcing and without the use of tools.

Another feature is the elimination of the inside envelope flap or tube protector, which has usually been considered a necessary evil. The absence of protectors simplifies the fitting of inner tubes, reducing the danger of pinching, as well as the labor formerly involved when protectors were necessary.

The Michelin Quick Detachable Clincher is shaped full and round. The tread is broad and flat. The side walls are properly proportioned to assure maximum durability without sacrificing resiliency.

It is believed by the Michelin Company that car owners will appreciate a tire of advanced design that at once removes several of the old vexations of motoring.

UNITED STATES TIRE OF- FICIAL VISITS BRANCHES.

P. O. Eckhardt, assistant secretary of the United States Tire Company and C. A. Gilbert, western district manager, have been making a tour of the Pacific Coast branches.

Mr. Eckhardt has been working his way westward and when he returns to New York will have visited every branch of the United States Tire Company in the country.

After inspecting the Portland and Seattle houses he moved south to San Francisco and then to Los Angeles. While in the south the party accompanied by John S. Wiese, the Los Angeles manager, took a motor trip around the kite and spent one day at Catalina.

This was the eastern official's first visit to the Pacific Coast and he was much impressed with the business conditions, and the general beauty of the country. He found all the United States branches doing a record business and says that there is every indication that the volume of business will be doubled during the next year.

AVIATOR CURTIS BUYS FLANDERS

Quick Sale Made to the Noted
Birdman by Chicago
Dealer.

One of the quickest sales on record is that of a Flanders Electric Coupe to Glen E. Curtis, the world famous aviator, in Chicago the other day.

Mr. Curtis does not live in Chicago, but in Hammondsport, N. Y. However, that's a detail and evidently did not enter into Mr. Curtis' considerations. He was passing through the Windy City, and, walking down Michigan avenue, saw the beautiful coupe standing at the curb. Stopping, he stepped to the door of the Flanders Motor Company and asked in his unceremonious way:

"What's the name of that car?" Being told, he said, "O, I've heard of it."

"Beautiful car, isn't it?" "Latest thing out, too, isn't it?" "I like it."

"What's the price?" On being told the price was only $2250, he said, "Well, I'll take that one."

There was a little argument at that point because it was the demonstrating car and the salesman insisted that a new one would perhaps look a little better. However, Curtis had made up his mind and was determined to have the identical car that had aroused his attention as he came along. It was shipped to Hammondsport, N. Y., that afternoon.

MICHELIN ISSUES INSTRUCTION BOOK

Explained Thoroughly in
"Bibendum."

Just now, at the beginning of the season, when motorists are again taking their cars out on the road, many automobiles are being examined with critical eyes to detect any trouble that may have been brought on by the long winter's rest.

One of the things which should be looked into is the condition of the rims. It may seem like a small thing, yet the rust which is likely to collect on rims during the months of idleness is a real danger.

Rust can always be detected by the appearance of the beads of the envelope. When the beads show a strongly marked yellowish stain it is evident that the tire has not been properly cared for. This stain is nothing else than rust, which forms on the rims and is deposited on the beads of the tire. If it is allowed to remain it will destroy the tire, for it will slowly but surely eat away the fabric. Moreover, the edges of rusted rims will become more uneven every day.

Further, when a rim is rusted it is impossible to maintain the close and regular contact which should exist between rim and bead. Water will soon find its way into the tire to work its usual harm.

Many suggestions on the proper care of tires, tubes and rims are instructively discussed in the two books, "Bibendum," issued by the Michelin Tire Company of Milltown, New Jersey. Copies will be mailed free to motorists on request.

MAXWELL VICTORY WAS A NOTABLE CONQUEST

The Maxwell victory in the light car event of the Santa Monica race gives to the representatives of the car throughout the country a rare opportunity to advance their claims for the capability of it. An amateur in the strict sense of the word, to whom but six months ago the mechanism of a motor car was a mystery, drove the little speed burner to a triumphant finish in a combat with older and far more tried men. George Joermann, the boy who gained the honors for the Maxwell and incidentally achieved a little glory himself has just passed his twentieth year in life.

Three months ago the racing fever made inroads on him and he became the possessor of an old model car, remodeled, it entered the recent road race, and his feat—well, it is known and much discussed subject at this time among the thousands who witnessed his performance.

More consistent showing was never made by any car. Starting seventh in the light car contest, the Maxwell gradually moved up a peg until first position was reached. Joermann completed his race in this position and though closely pressed came under the wire nearly a minute ahead of the car to finish second.

FAMOUS SURGEON USES MOTZ CUSHION TIRES

Dr. Charles H. Mayo, whose skill in surgery has drawn the greatest of the earth to the town of Rochester, Minn., has just contracted for a handsome "Arco Electric" automobile. A celebrity like Dr. Mayo, who gives to the world the best he knows in his particular line, demands from the world the best in all his possessions and surroundings. So it is not to be wondered at that Dr. Mayo in purchasing his car was careful to see that it was equipped with the well-known Motz cushion tires.

THE STURDY STUTZ

$2200 F. O. B. San Francisco

Is truly the Car that—"MADE GOOD IN A DAY"
And then—THE NEXT DAY—
And then—EVERY DAY SINCE

Its latest and greatest demonstration of sturdiness in the world-famed Santa Monica race shows, just a little more forcibly than ever that the STUTZ, in or near its class, is beyond the realm of competition.

Two regular stock-stripped models finished fourth and fifth in the Free-for-All, being beaten only by cars of three times their horsepower and five times higher in price.

One STUTZ went through the grind without a single stop, while the other stopped but once for a single tire change. Both cars averaged a speed of seventy-three miles per hour.

The Vital
Value of "Give"
in a Tire

HERE'S a question of big importance to the car owner—
The Resilience of his tires.

True, mileage is of prime importance. But mere mileage without the life and vim of pure rubber, properly compounded, means little.

Many a man buys a costly automobile—and forgets that the first essential in its protection is tires that will not only bear it up—but that will have the proper "give" to absorb the shocks—save racking and injury to the machinery.

Firestone tires are made to stand the strain.

They not only offer the "Most Miles per Dollar of Cost" but they have a wonderful, unequalled resilience—because of the unique composition of pure Up-River Fine Para rubber.

"Firestone" TIRES

The tread of Firestone tires combines lightness with strength and buoyancy, which means protection for the car under the hardest road conditions, with tires pumped to capacity.

We use selected long fibre combed Sea Island cotton for our fabric—woven to withstand a strain of 325 pounds to the square inch.

But it is in the making—the saturation of the fabric—the building—the curing and curing again—to make the whole tire one inseparable piece—that the superior quality of Firestone construction proves itself most.

Careful supervision attends every detail of Firestone manufacture. The tires are inspected over and over again.

True, Firestone tires cost a little more than ordinary tires. They are richly worth it and earn their additional cost over and over again in actual mileage and in car protection.

Be sure to specify Firestone Smooth Tread or Non-Skid Tires.

Built in all types to fit any standard rim.

All high-grade cars are equipped with quick-detachable, demountable rims. Don't experiment. Insist on Firestone—the only rims that have stood the test of time and are universally acknowledged correct in principle and service.

'HOCKNEY TUESDAY' ORGY OF KISSING

Old English Custom of Giving Embraces to Damsels Is Perpetuated.

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service)

LONDON, May 11.—Just when England is beginning to pride herself on its progress of modernity, Hungerford on the borders of Berkshire and Wiltshire, slips back into the centuries because it is Hockney Tuesday.

Unless you have lived through Hockney Tuesday you can have no conception of what it means. It needs strong nerves and a stronger constitution to enter into the spirit of ancient times.

At 8 o'clock the town cries, in grey and scarlet, with brass buttons, come out of the town hall and blow three notes on the ancient horn given by John O'Gaunt, and that is the signal for two tutt-men to emerge from the constable's house with plates tipped with flowers—daffodils, primroses and tulips, surmounted by an orange.

It is their business to go forth and kiss the damsels of the town irrespective of age or beauty, according to custom.

James Blake and Anthony Bowsher were the tutt-men today. Blake is 60 years old, Bowsher is younger, but both of them kissed vigorously from 8 o'clock until 7 in the evening, with a break for dinner.

Tradition decrees that they shall be liberal with oranges and pennies. Therefore, having kissed a maid, they gave her an orange as a solace and they hurried oranges among the crowd of urchins who followed them about all day.

It was a perfect orgy of kissing. They knocked at doors, and little high-pitched shrieks floated out into the street, showing how nobly the tutt-men were doing their duty.

They went to the workhouse and kissed all the old ladies, including Ann Benson, who is 90 years old, and they went to the laundry with their floral staves. "Up and down" for five miles they wandered from house to house, kissing, kissing, kissing, until at the time of sunset there were no more left to kiss.

They wanted to kiss again, but that is against the ancient laws.

Meanwhile during these goings-on the Hock-Tide court had been sitting, doing the serious business of the year, appointing a constable, a portreeve, an ale-taster and what not, and at the end the entire court adjourned to the Three Swans for champagne pipes and bowls of smoking punch.

Everyone agreed that "they were good old times."

HONOR MEMORY OF NOVELTY CREATOR

Inventor of 'Punch and Judy Show' Has Monument Erected at Lyons.

PARIS, May 11.—The memory of Laurent Mourguet, who one hundred years ago invented the stage marionettes which America knows as the "Punch and Judy" show, has been honored by the people of Lyons, who inaugurated a monument to Mourguet in that city. The celebration was an elaborate affair, speeches being made by a deputy, the mayor of Lyons, who pointed out that Mourguet was born in Lyons in 1780 and by a physician of the district. The feature of the celebration, however, was a discourse in pantomime by "Jean Guignol," which proved to be a small wooden figure deeply manipulated from behind the scenes. The "Punch and Judy" show is known in France as the "Guignol" show, and the best French spectacles of this kind may be seen throughout the summer in the gardens bordering the Avenue des Champs Elysees in Paris.

SOCIAL FADS.
Two social fads have marked the Parisian season which is brought to a close with the Grand Prix running race at Longchamps in the early part of June. The first has been the growing custom of fashionable people to attend boxing exhibitions, and the second has been renewed interest in fancy dress balls, which held such an important place in the court life of early France.

One of the most original of the recent masked balls was the Hungarian fete given by Madame de Turbe in her mansion in the Avenue du Bois de Boulogne. All the guests appeared in Hungarian national costume. The hostess received her guests in a superb Hungarian dress, with a mantle richly embroidered with fur and a head-dress sparkling with diamonds. Her daughter wore a picturesque Hungarian peasant costume. The men wore costly Venetian cloaks over evening dress with knee breeches and silk stockings.

Among the guests who appeared in sumptuous fancy dresses were the Infanta Eulalia, Princess Stephanie of Belgium, the Grand Duke Paul of Russia, the Russian ambassador and Mme Javolsky, the German ambassador and the Baroness von Schoen and the Princess Murat. The music was provided by a real Hungarian Gipsy band in black uniforms, and a feature of the ball was a Hungarian marzsa danced by ten couples led by Don Luis, the son of the Infanta Eulalia.

WILL PLANT COTTON.

BAKERSFIELD, May 11.—Cotton will be raised on a more extensive plan this year than ever before, and much experimental work in this regard is being outlined by land owners in Kern county.

AEROPLANES MEET WHILE IN FLIGHT

Two Collisions Among Clouds Are Recorded in German Aviation History.

BERLIN, May 11.—For the second time within little more than a month there has been an aeroplane collision on the Johannisthal field. An aviator named Stieplow, flying a monoplane, was preparing to land after a short flight when he was momentarily blinded by the sun. An instant later his machine collided, 18 feet in the air with a biplane piloted by Lieutenant Zwickau, who had his sister as a passenger. Both machines crashed to the ground and were destroyed.

Lieutenant Zwickau's sister suffered several broken ribs and was badly shaken. The lieutenant's upper lip was split and he was otherwise bruised. Stieplow's machine was not hurt.

The previous similar accident occurred near the same place, when Aviators Schade and Rettinger collided. Neither was injured, but a man named Gadow, a passenger, was badly bruised.

SPY FEVER ABROAD.

The spy fever has registered another victim, but this time the unfortunate is a German—a Prussian official—and it is Russia that feels her existence threatened by his activities. Advice from Interburg, East Russia, states that Captain Drexler of the Royal Prussian Boundary Commission ventured across the Russian border to escort the Princess Dohna of St. Petersburg, who had been in East Prussia. On his return he was arrested by the Russian border police, taken to Wilna and imprisoned. The only information vouchsafed by the Russians was that Drexler is a spy.

The Prussian government has already taken steps to obtain a solution of the apparently peculiar circumstances of the case.

MISTAKE KILLS BOY.
Following a mistake in the use of an anesthetic, which caused the death of a schoolboy about to undergo a minor operation, Sister Gertrude Wancok, a veteran nurse at the Royal Hospital here, committed suicide by injecting into her- self a portion of the same poison which had just killed her patient.

The lad, Willy Rieger, the 14-year-old son of a veterinary surgeon at Koenigsberg, had been taken by his mother to the clinic for throat and nose diseases of the Royal Hospital to have a growth in the nose and on the tonsils removed.

A half per cent solution of a drug to be used as a local anesthetic was accidentally overturned and spilled just as the surgeon was preparing to operate and in hurriedly removing the supply Sister Gertrude took it from a bottle containing a 20 per cent solution of the same drug, kept in the same closet and differing from the bottle with the weaker solution only on the label.

BOULEVARDS, PARKS AND HOMES CHARM VISITORS

COMBINED PLAN STIRS BROKERS

The Opposition to Greater San Francisco Scheme Grows Among Realty Men.

Two movements connected with the city's progress, which the Real Estate Association inaugurated during the week, were the campaign for popular subscriptions to complete the furnishing of the Hotel Oakland and the beginning of organized resistance to the efforts of San Francisco to annex the communities on this side of the bay.

The building of the hotel and the creation of a Greater San Francisco at the expense of Oakland are enterprises which form an antithesis, as far as this city's advancement is concerned. One is directly in the interest of the community, while the other will have a nullifying effect upon hotel building or any other great projects of benefit to the residents of this side of the bay.

The two projects, but one of which claims the approval of loyal Oaklanders, were discussed by the real estate men at a banquet and business meeting held Wednesday evening, when other development affairs came up for consideration. The pasting of the "Oakland, City of Opportunity" labels on envelopes sent out by merchants of the city, as a more general practice, and advertising in Los Angeles newspapers to encourage outside capital to come to Oakland were urged as matters of importance to the real estate men. The importance of having this city represented at the national convention of Ad Men's Clubs at Dallas, Texas, this month, was also brought to the attention of the brokers by one of the members.

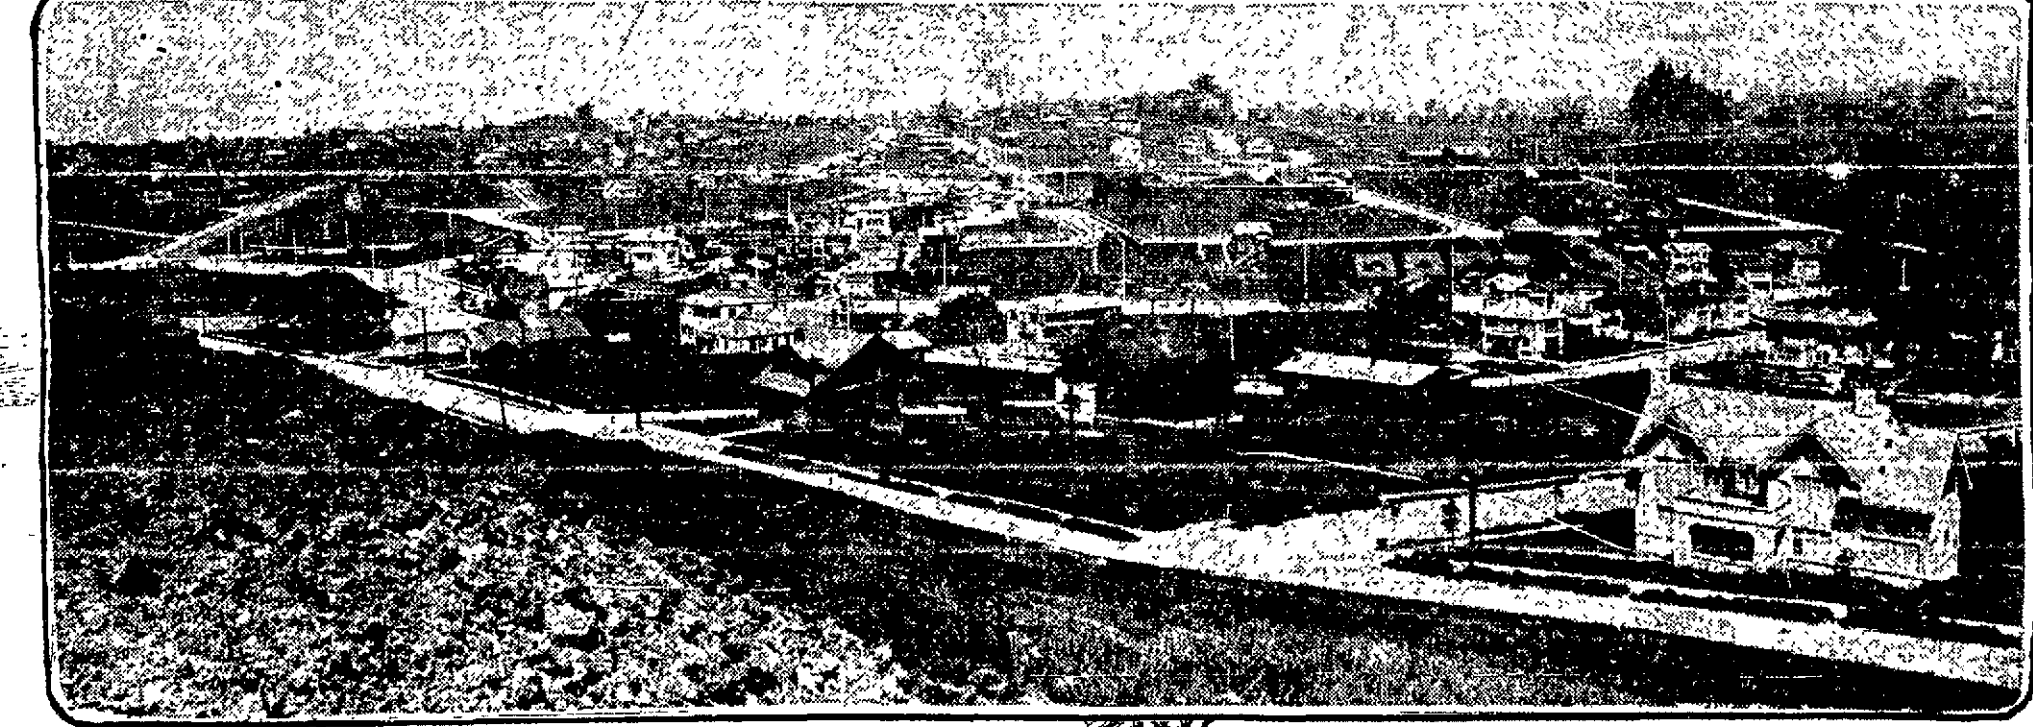

SCHEMES IMPRESSED.
Home pride in the progress and the advantages of the east bay region was increased by the address in this city recently of Charles M. Schwab, the Pennsylvania steel magnate, who expressed surprise at the size and beauty of this city. He showed his admiration of the advantageous location of Oakland, of its magnificent business and public buildings and of its residence attractions. The announcement of his desire to build a large steel plant on this side of the bay was made by him in all seriousness, and he indicated that during his lifetime he would attempt to erect mills here.

SELL LOT ON GROVE STREET

Layman Real Estate Company last week negotiated the sale of a lot having a frontage of 25 feet on the east side of Grove street north of Fourteenth, the tract being held by Dr. F. C. Gladding to H. C. Morris and E. A. Muller. The piece will form an addition to the site upon which Morris and Muller will erect a five-story building on the northeast corner of Fourteenth and Grove streets. S. H. Masters, with Layman Real Estate Company, conducted the sale.

SKYSCRAPER PHOTOGRAPH IS ADVERTISING OAKLAND

Half-tone copies of a remarkable photograph of Broadway skyscrapers, originally published in THE TRIBUNE Sunday real estate section, are being sent through the mails in large numbers by a local real estate firm, and will result in acquainting many distant people with the metropolitan aspect of downtown Oakland. The photograph was taken by a TRIBUNE photographer from the top of the building at Twentieth street, Telegraph avenue and Broadway, and showed seven modern business buildings, five of which are of great height.

LEASING CONTINUES TO SHOW GREAT ACTIVITY

Tendency of Owners to Hold Property at Inflated Prices Is Deplored.

Leasing is reported by Oakland brokers to be exceedingly brisk. Many "small business" men are seeking desirable locations in the downtown district and find that the supply of stores is not equal to the demand.

An instance of the rapidity with which new business buildings are leased may be found in the case of the five-story store and office structure to be erected on the northeast corner of Fourteenth and Grove streets. The owners, H. C. Morris and F. A. Muller, were able to make their choice of lessees from a large number of applicants.

It is also significant that these property owners decided to enlarge the site of the new building to the extent of 25 feet by the purchase, a few days ago, of a lot having that frontage on the east side of Grove street, north of Fourteenth. Thirty days ago they purchased the northeast corner of Fourteenth and Grove streets for $150,000. The plan for the new building have been altered to accord with the enlarged site, which is 120 feet on Fourteenth and 125 feet on Grove.

The lease of a large portion of the Macdonough theater building recently, through the Layman Real Estate Company, at a total rental of $200,000 for a term of ten years, has been followed by rapid work on the remodeling of stores on Broadway and Fourteenth streets. The realty market is declared by some of the brokers to be having a reactionary effect upon a few property owners. While the conditions warrant a sharp advance in values of downtown sites, owing to the large amount of building, some of these owners are holding property at prohibitive prices, so that a purchaser is not able to build and pay a reasonable rate of interest. In view of the fact that outside investors, as well as local buyers are desirable and their capital is needed in the development of Oakland, the tendency to hold property at inflated prices does not receive the approval of brokers, aside from the consideration that in many cases they are being deprived of commissions.

It is interesting to watch the growth of the high value area in the business district. The territory bounded by Fourteenth and Twentieth, West and Webster streets, has been showing the most activity of late.

DISTRICT AROUND UPPER END OF LAKE IS FAST BEING DEVELOPED

With the Lakeshore Boulevard complete, the Park Commission at work leveling the shore surface of Lake Merritt, at the northeast end, and hundreds of elegant homes being erected on the hills in the vicinity, the lake region offers one of the best examples of development in Oakland. Officials of many cities in the United States have told what these cities would do with a body of water like Lake Merritt if they had it within their borders. When these things were being said the improvement of the shores of the lake had been planned, but the work had not begun. Now, the municipality and property-owners are vying with each other in beautifying the lake surroundings.

Lakeshore boulevard, which curves along the eastern edge of the water and connects with Grand avenue, another fine driveway, is particularly attractive to automobilists, and its picturesque quality is admired by visitors, as well as by residents, who take frequent spins along its smooth surface.

Grand avenue, which extends along the northern edge of Lakeside Park and touches the northeast corner of the lake, is also a busy thoroughfare, and equally popular. It is the connecting highway between the fast-growing hillside residence districts and the downtown business center. A few years ago the hills north and east of the lake were almost bare of homes. There were few streets, and the trolley service was limited. The movement hillward began and the vacant tracts were soon improved with artistic homes.

The development of Lakeside Park has reached an effective stage, and is to be still further beautified. A smaller park has been completed at the junction of Lakeshore boulevard and Grand avenue. The Park Commission is grading the surface of the lakeshore nearby, in connection with the commission's plan to have the city's beauty spots looking their best by the time visitors begin coming in 1915. The municipal auditorium is to be built at the south end of the lake, in a beautiful park, yet to be created, and on the western shore further work of beautifying is to be done. This section of the lake park system, known as "The Willows," is one of the most accessible recreation spots for persons going from the business center, and will be visited by large crowds during the exposition year.

GREAT WEALTH IN COUNTY'S FARMS

Value of Land Near Oakland Shows Large Increase, Brokers Report.

Farm land departments are becoming increasingly important adjuncts of Oakland real estate agencies. They are a few concerns which specialize in this branch and deal largely in Alameda county lands.

Those which are interested in the farming region on the eastern edge of this city report increased values and the most remarkable condition of the market ever known.

A ride along the foothill boulevard will disclose few "for sale" signs on farm property. The truth is that trade, large and small, are being held by most of the owners until the exact location of the Key Route San Jose right of way is announced. A few sales are being made, however, and there is seldom any difficulty in reselling at a handsome profit.

The work of extending the Southern Pacific electric line to San Leandro is well under way, and eventually the road is to be built to the heart of Hayward, which is now reached, centrally, by the Western Pacific, but not by the Southern Pacific, which has a station at the edge of the town.

There is less tightness regarding farm property further east in the county and sales are continually being reported in large numbers.

The automobile, as well as the trolley and electric train, is doing much for the farming region in the west end of the county. The farmers make use of machines in taking quick trips to the nearest towns and cities, and it is becoming the habit of many city dwellers to motor out to the fruit, truck and poultry farms for fresh produce, the women of the household in many cases making the trip, for the enjoyment of the ride and the pleasure of marketing what they are certain of the quality of their purchases.

FRUIT GROWERS' PARADISE

Alameda county produces fruit of such excellent quality that thousands of crates are shipped to the home of fruit-growing along the shores of the Mediterranean sea.

The character of the soil, the topography of the section, and the climatic conditions combine to make Alameda county one of the great fruit producing districts of California. The proximity of the orchard and vineyard districts to the center of the urban population in Oakland, the splendid transportation facilities by rail and water for shipping to distant consumers, the magnificent country roads, that insure cheap and rapid transportation to local markets, railroad stations and steamship wharves, complete the tale. The abundance of the product of the fruit farms, the plentiful supply of labor insured by the large population and the superior shipping facilities, have made Oakland the center of a great fruit canning industry.

There are located in Oakland and nearby towns a dozen large canneries, which during the season just closed, turned out canned fruit to the value of $1,515,100. During the same season the dried fruit product of Alameda county was valued at $311,170.

WINE INDUSTRY FLOURISHES

There are several distinct fruit-growing districts in Alameda county, each of which is peculiarly adapted to some particular variety. The cherry district is located around San Leandro, Hayward is the center of the apricot orchards, peaches, pears and quinces are grown most largely in the Tassanition, Livermore, Castro and other similarly conditioned valleys. Groves of oranges, lemons, and olives have found the localities best suited for each and these particular kinds are in greatest quantity.

The Livermore valley, in Alameda county, has become famous the world over for the quality of its grapes, and will a dozen immense wineries are located in that district to care for the product of the vineyards. Table grapes, raisin in size and quantity and delicate early table grapes, in fact, are produced in the vineyards of Alameda county.

Ripe berries are picked during few months of the year from vines growing

BERKELEY LAND VALUES INCREASE

Building Operations in College Town Maintain Busy Level.

BERKELEY, May 11.—Building operations in this city have continued unabated during the past week and promise to increase as the sunny season wears on. The April report of the building inspector's office shows seventy-seven permits issued, representing an average in new structures of more than $17,000.

Two new fraternity houses and a new sorority house are among the structures commenced during the week. Another is the apartment house to be erected by P. George Gow at Ridge road and Le Bay avenue. This structure, which will be three stories high and contain forty-five rooms, is to cost $40,000. It is to be equipped with fourteen sleeping porches. Comparative prices of various parcels of local realty give an idea of the prosperity the city is enjoying. One lot, 80 1/2 feet, at the southwest corner of Shattuck and Center streets, was assessed at $10,000 in 1908. Today its assessment figures were recorded at $30,000. The Bunnell property at Bancroft and Grove has increased in five years from $48,000 to $71,175 on the assessment books. The following table illustrates the increase in the assessment roll since 1895:

VARIED CROPS MAY BE RAISED

In the open and never sheltered or protected against cold. The reports show the varieties of fruit and number of trees of each in Alameda county to be: Apple, 27,975; apricot, 102,751; cherry, 39,910; fig, 1550; lemon, 1110; olive, 1150; orange, 13,171; quince, 3495. The fruit product last year is estimated at $2,103,610 pounds, not counting the amount consumed in local markets and homes adjacent to the orchards.

HOME OF THE POTATO.

Potatoes grow in Alameda county to such perfection that it is found profitable to discontinue the cultivation of sugar beets on the high-priced lands in the Alameda district and plant the ground to potatoes.

The reports of annual production are incomplete, but without allowance for the portion not listed by the county official charged with that duty, the showing is a splendid one. In 1910 the product of Irish potatoes on Alameda county land amounted to more than eighteen and a quarter million pounds, valued at $365,000, while the sweet potato crop amounted to more than three million pounds and was valued at $165,000.

The production of potatoes in Alameda county has increased steadily for several years and especially since it has been demonstrated that there is good money in the big Burbanks and other commercial varieties. The best soil in Alameda county yields a product of 75 to 80 sacks per acre steadily, over large areas. Recently yields of 150 sacks per acre have been obtained.

As in the case of other products of the Alameda county farms and orchards that go to provide food for the city dwellers, the potato grows for the city nearness and ease of access to the Oakland market, where three-quarters of a million consumers purchase their food supplies.

EXTENSIVE GRAIN SUPPLIES.

The rich valley lands and those on the alluvial coastal plain of Alameda county are too valuable for fruit growing and other purposes to permit of general grain raising at a profit. Nevertheless, the official reports of the county statistician show that the grain crop of Alameda county last year was valued at $729,362. Adaptability of Alameda county soil and climate to raising cereal crops needs no further demonstration than that this crop was produced on 13,160 acres.

The grain districts of Alameda county are mostly in the smaller valleys and on the broad plain in the Livermore valley in the eastern portion of the county. Around Chertville, Niles, Alvarado, Hayward, Pleasanton, Irington and the old farm of the Mission San Jose are also found grain fields. Wheat, barley, oats and corn are all raised, with barley the leader, this being the preferred grain feed for stock.

The Alameda county sweet corn for table use is famous throughout the coast region, and a large quantity of this is supplied to the canneries and finds its way to markets in all parts of the world. If the lands of Alameda county were not so admirably adapted to the production of a score of other staple crops, here would be one of the greatest grain growing sections of the Pacific Coast.

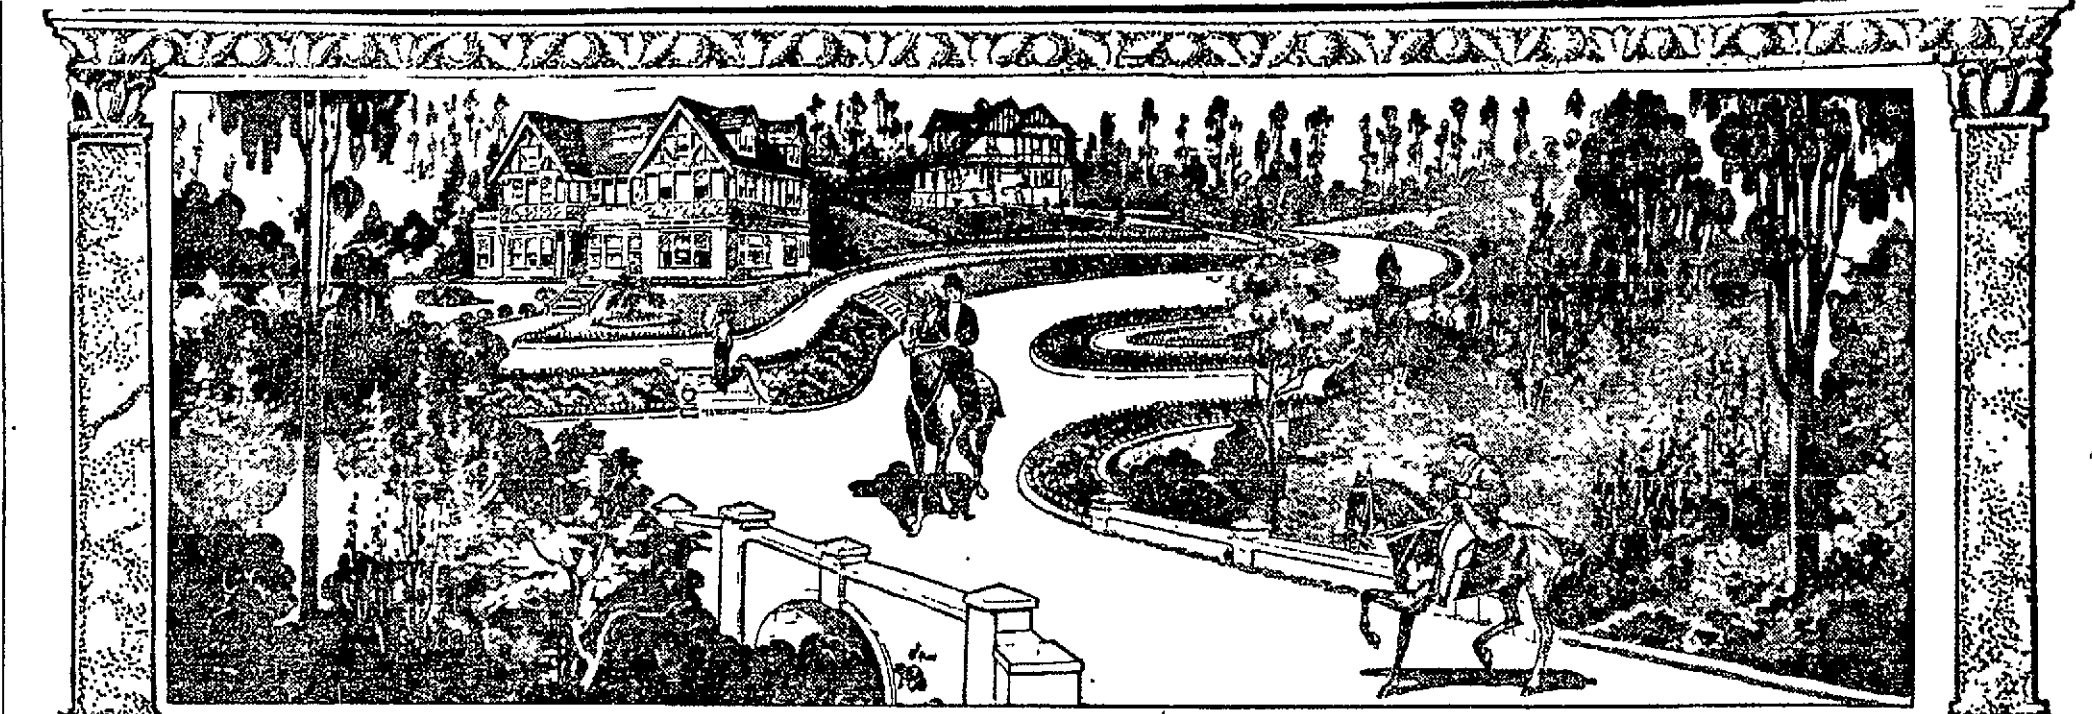

BEET INDUSTRY IMPORTANT.

If the climatic conditions were not so admirable around Oakland and throughout Alameda county that luxuriant crops of fruit and vegetables are obtained without irrigation, this would readily have been made one of the foremost alfalfa raising districts in California.

The soil in the valleys is admirably adapted to the growth of this great forage plant, so thrifty is the alfalfa in Alameda county, so large and rich in food properties the yield that there has been considerable acreage planted in the district near Alvarado, about ten miles east of Oakland.

In the Alvarado district large tracts of land have been for many years devoted to the culture of sugar beets, the first beet sugar factory in the United States having been established there. The factory has been most successfully operated up to this time, but the managers are facing a shortage of beets because farmers are finding it more profitable to use the land for other purposes, although the quantity and quality of beets produced has shown no falling off, but rather increased the selling value of the beet crop since the starting of the enterprise.

On some of these beet fields, alfalfa has been sown, and under irrigation from artesian wells the tonnage and quality of the hay and alfalfa products obtained have been most satisfactory. The same is true of other localities. In Alameda county, where the growing of alfalfa has been tried, the high value of the land and the ability to produce greater revenues from other uses will probably prevent a general cultivation of alfalfa in the future, as in the past. This of itself tells the story of the rich returns to be obtained from the farm lands of the county when so great a revenue producer as alfalfa has to give way to even more profitable crops.

Alameda is one of the foremost celery producing counties in the United States. Within five miles of Oakland is grown the largest celery produced in North America, and the value of the annual crop of this vegetable is more than a million dollars. According to the official report of Alameda county, the celery crop marketed last year amounted to more than ten million pounds in weight.

The celery growers have occupied the alluvial lands on Bay Farm Island adjacent to Alameda and Oakland. These are not the only lands that have been found to be adapted to the culture of this crop, however, and as the demands of the growing population increase the celery growers have extended their operation to include the level lands along the whole east bay shore.

In the vicinity of Alvarado, where the first of the United States sugar beets were grown, the rich lands are being used for celery production. Though the price which the celery lands are paid by their owners is considered high by those who are unacquainted with the value of the crops produced, there are always eager purchasers in the market to snap up any proved celery ground that can be bought.

FINE POULTRY REGION.

The general climate, with the absence of harsh winds, cold rain and chilling fogs, have attracted to the region just east of the Oakland city limits the most expert poultry men of the Pacific Coast. Those who have come to this section of Alameda county to investigate have been convinced and have stayed.

Beginning but a few years back, this movement to develop a great poultry district has grown at an incredible rate, until the Howard district is now recognized as second in desirability to none, from the poultry man's point of view, and easily one of the most important producing regions for the dealers and consumers. That poultry thrive in Alameda county and return good profits on the capital and labor invested, was demonstrated in the early settlement days.

That the proximity to a market composed of the dwellers in the rapidly growing bay region offers an assurance of large profits, because of the cheapness of delivery charges, was a large factor in the later development of the industry. Steam and electric roads, the finest all-macadam county roads, all give to the poultryman in Alameda county facilities for marketing his products that are not equalled anywhere else.

From Hayward to the business center of Oakland is a distance of about fourteen miles. Auto trucks collect the newly laid eggs and marketable fowls in the early morning, and deliver them to hotels, restaurants, housewives and retail stores in the cities of Oakland, Alameda, Berkeley, Piedmont and Emeryville.

DAIRYING THRIVES.

Dairy investment in Alameda county is now registered and graded in their herds represents more than three-quarters of a million dollars. The value of the fresh milk, butter and cheese annually marketed by dairymen is well above the three-million-dollar mark. A close estimate of the number of dairy cows owned in this county is 27,500. Nearly half of these are registered animals of the various breeds that the individual dairymen prefer. The largest product of the Alameda county cows is fresh milk, the money paid for this product amounting to more than two-thirds of the total returns from milk, butter and cheese. In the value of the products of the dairy farms shown above there is no account taken for the calves and older cattle sold for butcher stock nor of the hogs and poultry turned off, the two last mentioned being a very valuable side product of the dairy farm, and are increasing more each year the dairyman's net profits. The presence of the large urban population in Oakland, Berkeley, Alameda and adjacent towns and cities of Alameda county, this city population amounting to more than 250,000, makes a ready market for the milk, butter, cheese, butcher stock, hogs, poultry and other products of the dairy farms. Good roads and a nearby market enable the dairymen to turn over their products to the consumers with a small expense in terms of labor and that shows in the net balance to his credit on the books.

TAKES REVOLVER FROM FOOTPAD

Robber Flees With Coin While the Bullets Zip Around Him.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 11.—A holdup man, who fled when he had been deprived of his revolver, held up J. C. Davidson of 3800 Grove avenue in a lonely section of Golden Gate Park at 11 o'clock tonight and ran after obtaining his victim's money, while bullets from his own weapon flew by his head.

Davidson, a carpenter, was walking along a shaded path near the conservatory with a young woman whose name could not be learned. The robber confronted them with the command "Hands up." The girl screamed, but quickly came to her senses. Davidson, his companion to remain silent and the other thereupon commanded her to search her purse. She did so and obtained $2.99 and handed it to the footpad. Holding his revolver menacingly toward Davidson, the robber next turned his attention to the young woman, beginning to unfasten a watch which she carried.

Davidson saw his chance. He sprang upon the highwayman and pulled him backward to the ground. The two struggled for several moments, rolling over and over on the gravel walk while the girl screamed for aid. Finally Davidson wrestled the pistol from the robber's hand and the latter fled. Twice the carpenter fired after him, but neither shot took effect. The robber escaped.

SOOT ON WINDOW DEFEATS LAWSUIT

Lawyer Exhibits Blackened Fingers to Prove His Contentions.

ST. LOUIS, May 11.—Soot on a window sill in Judge McGinnis' courtroom helped to win for the Police and Fire Department a suit brought against it by Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Higgins of 4444 Forest Park boulevard for $1000, to which the plaintiffs alleged they were entitled because of the smoke, dirt and noise from the company's plant a block away.

Witnesses living in the neighborhood had testified it was impossible to keep their homes clean, because of the smoke and soot from the plant. Further, Judge Daniel G. Taylor, representing the company, contended in his argument to the jury that this was a natural condition of things in St. Louis. To illustrate his point he rubbed his fingers on the window sill and then exhibited them to the jury, blackened and sooty.

"That's St. Louis and every other city," he remarked.

And a few minutes later the jury found for the defendant.

In its decision, however, the jury recommended that the company give relief to nervous neighbors by erecting a rip-saw, whose noise, it was testified, had given residents near the plant a sleepless night. The saw has been operated in the open, night and day.

ALLIGATOR PARADE HELD PEACEFULLY

NEW YORK, May 11.—Tom and Jerry and the less notable saurians in the Central Park menagerie were transferred from their winter quarters to an outdoor paddock and tank. The "gators," twenty-four in number and ranging in size from a cucumber to a large log, will disport in their new quarters until cold winds blow in the fall.

The spring alligator parade is an occasion of much possibility in the menagerie. "Bill" Snyder, the head keeper, has for the last ten years been losing large sections of his trousers from the sharp teeth and pointed claws of the big reptiles. While Jerry has borne the reputation of causing a run on the tailor shops where the uniforms of menagerie attendants are purchased.

But yesterday it was all different. While a wondering crowd looked on, "Bill" and his assistants transferred the whole collection without a mishap. Snyder led the van, dragging Tom along the ground and keeping in firm hold on his tail with one hand, while with the other he held suspended in the air a smaller saurian. The job took ten minutes, and a thousand persons had the "creeps" looking on and wondering if it could really be the same kind of creature that feasted on "tar babies" in the Everglades.

DEATH REVEALS HIS SECRET MARRIAGE

PHILADELPHIA, May 11.—With the death last night in the Jefferson Hospital of Charles Hill, a store and dealer dealer, it became known that he had been married eight years, notwithstanding that by the terms of his will he had been forbidden to marry. His only alternative was to lose the money. Mr. Hill was fifty-one years old.

The mother and brother of the dead man knew nothing of his marriage until they went to the hospital to claim the body. There they found a woman they knew as Mrs. Simons, who lived at No. 421 Pine street, just one block from the Hill's home.

Following the ceremony Mr. Hill returned to his home and she returned to live with her mother.

Friends of both families are now wondering what will become of the $250,000.

HE STOLE FOR WIFE AND BABY

Man Lost Job and Says That He Robbed Gas Meters to Get Food.

PHILADELPHIA, May 11.—"I lost my job digging ditches, judge, and I was forced to steal to support my wife and baby," said William Davis of North Allis street, when he was arraigned before Magistrate MacFarland charged with robbing gas meters. Davis' wife with an infant in her arms, stood near the dock as her husband faced the magistrate.

After listening to the testimony of two witnesses, Magistrate MacFarland held Davis in $1000 bail for further hearing. In the meantime his story of poverty will be investigated.

It was testified that Davis, showing a badge marked "Special Officer," went to the home of Mrs. Amos Malloy, 411 North Wanamaker street. He said he was a gas inspector and went into the cellar. Later he examined the meter in the home of Mrs. Martha Zindell, 415 North Wanamaker street. In the meantime Mrs. Malloy became suspicious and told a policeman to arrest Davis. When searched $11 in quarters was found in his pockets.

ARM SAWED OFF AT ELBOW, BUT HE LIVES

YORK, Pa., May 11.—Falling upon the sliding carriage of the circular saw, he was operating near Gatchellville, this county, Elmer Bentz of Harrisburg had his right arm cleanly severed at the elbow and barely escaped a horrible death.

Bentz was hit by the log upon the carriage and his body in some manner became wedged in between the bars of his twisted port and in the short time given him he managed to shift his body out of the course of the revolving blade, but to do so he had to sacrifice his arm.

Other workmen saved him from bleeding to death by making a tourniquet from a handkerchief.

PYGMY ELEPHANT LOSES HIS TUSKS

NEW YORK, May 11.—In some unknown man Congo the pygmy elephant in the New York Zoological park lost eight inches of his tusks yesterday morning early. The places were found in his incisor by one of the keepers when he went to feed Congo and it was seen that the tusks had been cracked for some distance.

Charles Dittmar was at a loss to know upon the accident occurred, but thought Congo got his tusks wedged in between the bars of his cage and gave a sudden wrench and snapped them off.

"It was a most unfortunate accident," said the curator, "because although only six and one-half feet high, Congo has tusks nearly twenty inches long. He is the only pygmy elephant in captivity, and many persons would not believe he was a pygmy pachyderm until he had grown such big tusks. We have wound tape around the ends of the tusks until brass knobs can be placed on the present protruding splitters. It may have taken great strength to snap the ivory tusks."

Congo presented a peculiar appearance yesterday with the tape wound around the tusks. He was early all day.

URIAH, May 11.—As the result of charges that she killed her six-year-old daughter at Caspar Mrs. Bertha Brooks, wife of A. Brooks, 39 years old of that town has been committed to the Nevada asylum for the insane. It is alleged that the woman beat her child to death because she failed to obey her directions to perform some trivial task in the house.

LETTERS THREATEN WEALTHY FARMER

'Terror of the Pines,' Band Is Bent on Banishing Out Spoken Resident.

CARLETON, Pa., May 11.—Vandalism and persecution, ranging from storming a house and burning valuable fruit-bearing trees in a productive orchard, to threats of dynamiting a house, have broken out anew in Southampton township, Northampton county, in which region an organized gang, known as "The Terror of the Pines," has held sway for years. According to a former district attorney, the band of eight years by this band of modern "robber barons."

Defying law and order, the band has been centered for the last two years on the home of George Miller at Clearbrook, about three miles southeast of Southampton. Miller is a farmer owning fifty acres of land, a handsome frame house and a large bank barn, and from his extensive peach orchard he derives his largest profits. He is a strong advocate of law and order, and is outspoken against the depredations that frequently occur in his neighborhood.

Miller has received two threatening letters ordering him to leave the country unless he wanted to pay the penalty of having his home blown up with dynamite and his barn burned. Neither of the communications was signed, and the perpetrator, though well known, has continued his fight against the odds of outlawry.

Law and order and good politics are strange bedfellows, declares Miller, who is of the belief that some of the persecution is the result of his independent political tendencies. The band seldom meets together, he says, but have stirred terror up against gang methods a

BOYS GIVE FORGED CHECK FOR PET PONY

ST. LOUIS, May 11.—Fred Ilberg of 7100 Robbins avenue advertised a pony for sale or exchange for a cow. Two boys called at the Ilberg home in response to the "ad." and induced Mrs. Ilberg to let them pet the pony, and run their fingers through its bushy mane. When they left they said their father had a cow, and if Ilberg desired he could see it in a pasture near Taylor and Carter avenues. He went to the place designated but saw no cow.

The little boys returned to the Ilberg home, and gave Mrs. Ilberg a check for $50. She gave them the pony. At the Northwestern Savings Bank, on which the check was drawn, the check was pronounced a forgery. William Meyers of 4325 North Taylor avenue, whose name was forged to the check, could not identify the boys by the description. The police are now looking for the boys and the pony.

$100,000 PERSIAN RUG SOLD TO CHICAGO MAN

NEW YORK, May 11.—One of the costliest rugs ever sold in this country has been acquired here by Harold F. McCormick of Chicago. The rug was appraised recently at $100,000, but the actual price was somewhat less than that, but could not be learned. It is a fifteenth century Persian fabric.

The rug has a floral design which begins at the bottom and works up through an ornate tascary.

NEW TROUBLES FOR IRISH BACHELORS

DUBLIN, May 11.—There is new trouble between the bachelors and ex-bachelors of Dunsinagh, Ireland's bachelor village. When the news was published that the rural district council had issued a ukase that the unmarried men must get wives, or they would have to quit the town village, there was an avalanche of letters from would-be brides who were willing to share the poor fellows' homes.

"I am 26 years of age, tall and slender, just every inch of me. I will leave my young man judge of my good looks himself. I can't play music. I understand neither waltzes nor polkas, but I might trip through a four-in-hand reel. I can sing old Irish songs to suit the Dunsinagh boys. I can cook to his taste as I know his table is like what I have been used to. I can wash and work and make home bright, and all the neighbors will be welcome to come in and kindle their pipes."

The bachelors are not so soft on the subject and married the girl whom upon his employer instantly bounced him on the ground that unmarried men were more efficient workers than married ones, so now he's hunting a job instead of a wife.

FATHER GIVES CHILD BY WILL TO SISTER

RUFFALO, May 11.—Mildred Schwartzmeyer, three years old, is given away under the terms of the will of her father, now being probated in Surrogate's Court here. The child's mother died a year ago, and her father was ill for months prior to his death, on April 13. It was his wish that the child be reared by his sister, Mrs. Josephine Flammig, but his illness prevented his appearance in court for the usual adoption proceedings.

An old statute providing for the giving away of children by will was used to carry out the father's wishes for the future of the child.

PREACHER OF 97 YEARS TO GO TO POORHOUSE

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 11.—William O. Peterson, 97 years old, who has been a preacher for 70 years, has been taken to the almshouse here to end his days. After all these years on struggling to aid others he has been obliged to fall back on the state to care for him.

"I was not an ordained minister; hence they can do nothing for me," said the aged preacher, referring to the Methodist church, to which his whole life has been devoted, and to the teaching of the tenets of which he has clung faithfully.

He married Miss Mina Van Schalk, a daughter of an old New York family. With her he lived in harmony and peace from his 28th year until seventeen years ago, when she died. They had five children. One of his daughters lives in this city, but has not the means to care for her father.

GIVES WEDDING FEES TO AID CONSUMPTIVES

TRFNTON, N. J., May 11.—The husband of Mayor Donnelly of this city that marriage, like salvation, should be free followed by his refusal to accept fees for performing nuptial knots together with the fact that justices of the peace can no longer marry couples has resulted in the mayor's being besieged with requests for aid to embark on the matrimonial sea.

In consequence of this letter the mayor has erected in his office a box in which every couple is expected to leave a fee for the index to the municipal records, which the city treats in its saintly hospital. All fees go to the treasurer of the poor, the only man who has a key to the box. No fee is specified.

FINED FOR PUNCHING HORSE THAT BIT HIM

CHICAGO, May 11.—If a horse bites you on the arm and then kicks at you, don't get enraged and punch it. So advised Municipal Judge Caverly in the Chicago Avenue Court yesterday. Jas. West, 28 years old, of 562 West Polk street, a tenant for the Commonwealth-Edison Company, $5 and costs on a charge of cruelty to animals on complaint of Mrs. F. Wilson, 800 Dearborn avenue.

WOMAN WHIPS CHAUFFEUR WHO OVERCHARGED HER

CHICAGO, May 11.—Militant methods may not be effective in getting votes for women, but they go a long way toward reforming taxi drivers and getting charitable treatment from them. Mrs. W. A. Beckingham, 834 Oakdale avenue, remonstrated and the driver became insolent. She pulled him from his seat, bounced his head on the curbstone and held him until the police arrived.

DOG LEAPS AT OWNER AND BITES HIS FINGER

SAN FRANCISCO, May 11.—Arthur Davis of 1024 Franklin street was bitten by a pet dog today while he was walking along Laguna street. He was hurried to the Central Emergency hospital, where a lacerated thumb was dressed by Dr. Sampson.

MUCH OPERATED ON MAN GIVES BODY TO SCIENCE

ELIZABETH, N. J., May 11.—H. P. Flood, 31 years old, formerly a hotel clerk, was found from threatening to leave a note asking for his body to be taken to the hospital if they want. They have already taken some pieces of his skin.

Down Town Snap

Pair of fine modern lots on Williams St. (or 19th), between San Pablo and Telegraph Aves. This is close in, downtown business property, and is bound to advance in value rapidly. I advise the purchase of this property either for a home and income as it stands, or for improvements with stores in the near future. The demand for desirable inside property and the number of substantial sales is by far in excess of the great market of the year 1906.

. $100 Down

In North Oakland I have a six-room cottage, lot 80x106; and in East Oakland I have a new six-room bungalow; $100 down, and the balance like rent, will buy either of these homes.

"Don't Care So Much for the House but Want Large Grounds"

Then this should appeal to you. It is a country home, but in the city of Berkeley, and better still, in the attractive and beautiful Claremont Park; there are nearly two acres, with a frontage of 192 feet on Euclid road. The view from Euclid road over the broad expanse of land and water is most inspiring. The Oakland skyscraper, E. F. Hay, the Golden Gate and the bay over the blue waters as the eye can reach, present an incomparable beautiful panorama which can never be obstructed. This ideal spot is protected from the winds and fog, but with full sight of all this natural beauty. Fruit berries, plants, shrubbery and flowers grow here in profusion. A most charming spot; the only large one in Claremont Park. Good 5-room house, three blocks east of College Ave., only 5 minutes to Claremont Key Route train. Price $21,000. Let us show it to you.
